JOHNSON RETURNS, 'CONFIDENT, HOPEFUL'

PRESIDENT JOHNSON returned to Washington from Asia Wednesday night "much more confident and hopeful" about the prospects for peace and prosperity in the Far East than when he embarked on his 31,500 mile mission 17 days ago.

Standing under an umbrella held by Vice President Humphrey, the President told about 5,000 well-wishers at Dulles International Airport that "the road ahead may be long and difficult" for those who met in Manila.

"If our countrymen will stay with us, if they will try to travel this road together, I think we will come out well," he said.

While reaffirming U.S. determination to join Asian and Pacific allies to halt Communist aggression, Johnson also reaffirmed a united desire for an "honorable peace" in Viet Nam.

FRIEND SAYS SHEPPARD TRIED TO ACCUSE HIM

H. SPENCER HOUK, former mayor of suburban Bay Village and a close friend in 1954 of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard and his wife, Marilyn, testified Wednesday he felt Sheppard had tried to point the finger of suspicion at him for the murder of Sheppard's wife. He denied vehemently that he ever sought to have Sheppard plead guilty to manslaughter.

Houk earlier said he on occasion had visited Mrs. Sheppard in her home three doors from his house, having coffee with her, cashing her checks "from my little green box" and dropping off groceries she had left at his store.

TORNADO HITS N. C., STORM ROARS NORTH

A ROARING tornado cut a five-mile path of destruction through part of Raleigh, N.C., late Wednesday, and lesser gales struck three other communities in Virginia and North Carolina.

The winds were created by a freak blast of cold air spreading over the south and moving northward. In Boston, the weather bureau issued gale warnings for offshore New England waters. The bureau said storm warnings for land areas may be posted early Thursday due to the North Carolina gale center.

3 MARINES KILLED IN CALIF. FIRES

DEATH-DEALING brush fires killed three Marines Wednesday, bringing the toll to 13 firefighters who perished while battling treacherous, wind-drven blazes in Southern California.

Soot-grimed firefighters finally controlled Wednesday afternoon the fire in the Angeles National Forest where 10 green beret foresters died while Marines struggled to contain another holocaust at Camp Pendleton.

TRAINMEN ACCEPT 5 P.C. WAGE HIKE

UNION CHAIRMEN representing 145,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen Wednesday in Chicago voted to accept a 5 per cent blanket wage-package offered by the nation's railroads.

Charles Luna, president of the trainmen, said, "We can reopen for wages in September according to the offer and stay current in a rising economy."

Drive To Save Sight

Francis Geary, left, chairman of Newton Lions Club annual Light Bulb drive, sells Mayor Monte G. Basbas first bag of bulbs. Proceeds go to Lions Eye Research.

Lions Light Bulbs Opens Nov. 6

Lions will be on the loose in Newton on Sunday November 6th.

However, they are all of the friendly variety, in fact, members of the Newton Lions Club engaged in their annual Light Bulb Sale to aid the organization's Eye Research Fund.

Francis Geary, chairman of the local Lions drive, announced this week that a goal of $2000 has been set in the sale. Chairman Geary is being assisted by J. Dan Shanahan and Mickey Boyajian.

Team captains named for the drive include: Ward 1, Milton Diamond, 3 Milton St., West Newton; Ward 2, Sidney Dorfman, 45 Harrington St., Newtonville; Ward 3, Thomas J. Pugliese, 58 Adsila Ave., West Newton; Ward 4, Erwin W. Beal, 919 Watertown St., West Newton.

Ward 5, George R. Roberts, 1303 Beacon St., Waban; Ward 6, Sidney H. Parad, 39 Dexter Rd., Newtonville; Ward 7, Nino Calasacco, 253 Cypress St., Newton Centre, and Nino Compagnone, 39 Lowell Ave., Newtonville; Ward 8, Norman Hartstone, 53 Norton St., Newton Centre.

Any Newton residents not reached in the Lions' door-to-door campaign, and who may wish to contribute, are asked to call Mickey Boyajian at 332-4140, to order their light bulbs. The drive will continue on successive Sundays during the month of November.

Chairman Geary also announced that the Newton Lions will solicit the business firms of the city during the Light Bulb drive.

The club is offering a 33⅓ percent discount on all Light Bulb purchases over $50. Business houses may order any assortment of bulbs including fluorescents and commercial bulbs.

Approximately 40,000 Newton voters are expected to go to the polls next Tuesday to cast their ballots in a highly important State election.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Heaviest voting will occur between 5 and 8 at night. All persons who can do so are urged by city election officials to vote before 5 p.m.

The big Newton vote may play a real part in settling some of the major election battles if they are as close as many political experts believe.

The outcome of the fight between Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler of Wellesley and County Commissioner Patrick H. Harrington, Jr., of Somerset may well hinge on the size of the plurality Mrs. Heckler rolls up in Newton.

If the hard-working Councillor Heckler goes out of Newton with a plurality of more than 15,000 votes, she is likely to be on her way to becoming the 11th woman member of Congress.

If Harrington can hold down Mrs. Heckler's pluralities in Newton and in neighboring Needham, Wellesley and Westwood, he may be able to overtake her and pass her in his Bristol County strongholds.

While the spotlight of public attention will be centered principally on the contests for the Governorship, the Attorney General and seats in Congress and the U. S. Senate, several exciting local election clashes will be decided when the returns are tabulated next Tuesday night.

William A. Lincoln of Newton has made an extremely strong fight to unseat State Senator Beryl W. Cohen of Brookline in the senatorial district which includes Wards 1, 6 and 7 of Newton, the entire town of Brookline and Brighton.

If Lincoln piles up as big a lead in the Newton section of the district as is generally expected, he may produce an election night upset.

Lincoln has blasted Cohen's voting record on education, mental and public health and police protection.

He also has criticized Cohen's office for soliciting campaign contributions from lob-

Volpe, Richardson Leading As Day of Decision Nears

As the candidates for top state-wide offices sweep down toward next Tuesday's day of decision, it appears that Governor John A. Volpe is still holding a lead over former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack in the gubernatorial race and that Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson has overtaken and moved ahead of former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti in the bitter struggle for the Attorney Generalship.

Those appraisals are based on polls which have been made in areas where the election returns usually reflect the state-wide voting trends.

There are varying estimates as to the margin by which Volpe is leading McCormack. These range from about 80,000 to 200,000 votes.

Sargent, candidate for Lt. Governor; Elliot Richardson, candidate for Attorney General; Raymond M. Trudel, candidate for Secretary of State; Joseph E. Fernandes, candidate for State Treasurer, and John J. Buckley, candidate for Auditor.

State Senatorial candidate Leslie B. Cutler of the Norfolk-Middlesex district was in the Votercade and also William A. Lincoln, candidate for the State Senate in the Norfolk-Suffolk district. Mr. Lincoln supplied the color and clamor of two old fire engines. Walter H. Palmer, candidate for the Governor's Council, participated along with some Palmer girls and his bright yellow and red sound truck.

Local candidates from the 4th Middlesex district, Wigmore Pierson and Arthur Scipione and from the 5th Middlesex district Theodore Mann and Benjamin Shattuck were along for the fun. All four are running for State Representative seats. Irene Thresher, candidate for County Commissioner also took part.

An added attraction was Richard W. Husher of Waban, who played the bagpipes at the various shopping center visits.

World News AT A GLANCE

(News Briefs from United Press International Wire Service)

covered what may be a conflict of interest on the part of Francis X. Bellotti when the latter was lieutenant governor in 1963-64.

Democratic candidate Bellotti flatly denied the accusation and replied.

"This is the last-minute, desperate act of a completely immoral candidate who is behind."

Richardson produced what he said were copies of documents on file with the State Insurance Dept. showing that in 1963-64 Bellotti and his law firm had received $12,000 from the Ohio-based Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

The documents said the payments were for "legal services . . . which cover representation in connection with routine matters arising with the Mass. Insurance Dept."

Richardson also produced a copy of a 1963 opinion from Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke which said Bellotti would violate the Conflict of Interest law if he represented the firm in dealings with the State.

NATIONWIDE HUNT FOR CLERIC'S KILLER

AN ALL POINTS bulletin was flashed to police throughout the country Wednesday to arrest two Boston youths for questioning in the killing of Brother Albert Vanel, 86, at the Sacred Heart School, Sharon, Sunday.

The youths, aged 18 and 19, were named as suspects in the shooting robbery. Police said one of the pair also was wanted on a warrant in Middlesex County charging larceny of more than $100.

Final rites were held at the school for Brother Vanel Wednesday. A second requiem mass is to be held at the mother house of the Christian Brothers in Pascoag, R.I. today.

35 SEIZED IN LAWRENCE GAMING RAIDS

THIRTY-FIVE to 40 persons were arrested Wednesday during gambling raids on three Lawrence bars, one of which had been bombed recently during an alleged underworld war.

Among the bars raided was the Calumet Club which was hit by a fire bomb in August, during what officials said was an underworld war triggered when Providence mobsters tried to muscle in on the bookmaking operation in the Greater Lawrence area.

The other clubs raided were the Manhattan Lounge and the Gold Chestnut Cafe, officials said.

SEES $150 MILLION '67 SALES TAX YIELD

FRANK J. ZEO, executive vice president of the Mass. Taxpayers Federation, Wednesday predicted that the sales tax in 1967 will yield $150 million annually. He told the Greenfield Rotary Club: "All things considered, I think it is remarkable the sales tax is already yielding $10 million a month. The legislature gave the Dept. of Corporation and Taxation 21 days to set up the program." He noted there was "a huge buying spree" prior to April 1, the date the tax took effect.

TONS OF CANS FALL, KILL MASS. MAN

A LAWRENCE MAN was killed in a freak accident Wednesday when tons of canned goods tumbled on top of him and a co-worker in a Lawrence grocery warehouse.

Killed in the avalanche of cans was James Terry, 26, Robert Heinrich, 26, of Salem, N.H. was treated for head injuries at a hospital and released. Several thousand cases of canned goods fell on the men at the Buyright Wholesale Grocery, Inc. from a height of 30 feet. Police were forced to cut through the cans with torches to reach the men.

HIGH COURT MAY GET FANCY CAR CASE

THE MASS. Parking Authority announced Wednesday it planned to appeal to the state Supreme Court to recover fees that accumulated after the Mrs. Harry Fancy's car was stolen and parked in Boston Common garage.

A three-judge appellate panel of the Boston Municipal Court upheld dismissal of the MPA's suit against Harry Fancy, the car's official owner.

The MPA refused to release the auto without payment of the $182.50 bill that had been run up since the car was parked, but the Fancys got the vehicle back by court action.

POPE SEEKS VIET CHRISTMAS TRUCE

A VATICAN source said Wednesday night that Pope Paul VI is working for a new Christmas truce in the Viet Nam War, with a halt to American bombing of North Viet Nam as a major first step.

The Pope met for 40 minutes Wednesday with U.S. Presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and it was believed the Pontiff discussed his truce proposal wth the former New York governor.

AIR STRIKES MAY CRIPPLE RED VIET DRIVE

A MASSIVE new U.S. air raid struck North Viet Nam and American officials said the air strikes coupled with Marine jungle fighting may have washed out Communist plans for a major monsoon offensive on the North-South Vietnamese border.

Spokesmen said U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy planes pounded the Communist North in 122 missions Tuesday, striking key targets near Hanoi and Haiphong in a resumption of heavy bombing north of the 17th Parallel.

UN PROTEST OF KOREA KILLINGS MAPPED

THE UNITED Nations command Wednesday demanded a meeting of the mixed Armistice Commission to protest the attack that killed six American soldiers while President Johnson was visiting South Korea.

The command statement, said it wanted "to take up with the Communist side this and other serious violations of the armistice agreement". The attack—possibly a reprisal for the President's visit—came only hours before Johnson's departure and occurred only 26 miles from a South Korean military camp he had visited.

Communities Seen Suffering Setbacks If Sales Tax Goes

"Massachusetts cities and towns and their social benefit programs will suffer serious setbacks unless the citizens vote to keep the sales tax," asserted Bertram A. Druker, president of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, in a message to association members this week.

"Already the subdivisions of the Commonwealth, the municipalities, are eagerly trying to by-pass the state to get federal money directly. Why? In good measure because the state has been failing in its obligations to them," he said.

"We in this Association have urged that the welfare and veterans' costs be assumed by the state. We have urged greater state support of education and more state assumption of the burdens relating to public and mental health.

"It would be the height of folly to cut off the most promising of new state revenue sources, the sales tax, just at a time when the state not only might begin to be able to shoulder its fair share of the load but also when it can be financially more able to distribute more equitably to the municipalities," he stated.

"Even Newton, which gets a comparatively small proportion of tax return from the state because it is "well to do," not so "needy", already has benefited in less than one year to the tune of $750,000, equivalent to about $2.50 on the tax rate," Druker pointed out.

"So the cities and towns, the educators and the other administrators of social benefit programs support retention of the sales tax. They, their programs and their clients need it—and the citizens in general support their aims. If so, the citizens must vote the necessary money," he stated.

Druker summed up his position as follows:

"When in the absence of any serious public outcry against it a new source of revenue is developed which: Minimizes the burden on the tax bas; Aids th dsirablii general taxpayer; Broadens the tax base; Aids the desirable humanitarian programs; Sustains the confidence of business; Helps promote a new reputation for responsibility in state government both toward the state's own obligations and the duties it owes to its own subdivisions; and when retention of that revenue source commands the backing of such diverse forces as Taxpayers' Associations, Chambers of Commerce, Americans for Democratic Action and the top candidates for state office in both major political parties—then to cut it off would be extremely unwise.

Political Highlights

The McCormack camp believes that their man has narrowed the gap, has closed in on Volpe and has a good chance to come from behind and win in the final stages of the campaign.

The Volpe headquarters declares that their surveys indicate that the Governor has maintained his lead and is running about 200,000 votes ahead of McCormack.

Political analysts are in general agreement that Volpe is the front-runner but differ in their appraisa's as to the size of his apparent advantage..

McCormack adherents think the former Attorney General will get a big push from President Johnson's visit to Boston and from the final campaigning by Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

The Volpe backers are convinced that the Governor s on his way toward winning reelection on the basis of his record and the job he has done during the past two years. They voice doubt that any 11th hour developments can change the complexion of the gubernatorial conflict.

Both Volpe and McCormack are surging to the finish line in their race with all guns blazing, each doing his utmost to win over undecided voters who are still on the fence.

Volpe is definitely the strong man of the Republican ticket. If he should be defeated in an upset next Tuesday, the entire GOP slate probably would go down with him. That, of course, would be a tremendous surprise.

The polls show that Volpe's margin over McCormack is larger than Richardson's lead over Bellotti although the indications are that Richardson is making a strong finish and is picking up strength.

The fight between Attorney General Edward W. Brooke and former Governor Endicott Peabody for a seat in the U.S. Senate shapes up as extremely close, with its eventual outcome still uncertain.

If the polls are correct, this contest could be a real cliff-hanger when the votes are tabulated next Tuesday night.

The poll figures in the Senate clash, incidentally, do not follow as consistent a pattern as do those in the gubernatorial and Attorney General battles.

Brooke is not nearly as strong as he was two years ago when he won reelection by 800,000 votes. But it is not to be expected that he would be, and he doesn't need to be to win reelection.

Peabody, after being defeated for renomination for a second term as Governor in 1964, has made a strong comeback and is in a potent position in his present campaign. The likelihood is that he will either win or lose by a narrow margin.

Most political observers believe that the white backlash will make an impact on the vote in the Senate contest.

However, the white backlash doesn't show up on the polls, at least not as a major factor. Some political analysts believe that may be due to the fact that a percentage of the people being polled don't tell the truth.

If the white backlash is as strong as some political pundits insist, it should be a constant state-wide trend. The surveys do not indicate that to be so.

Brooke runs strong enough to win in some areas but not well enough in others so that a political writer stuyding the poll returns is confronted with a puzzling picture.

Our appraisal, however, would be that if Peabody defeats Brooke next Tuesday, it will be because Peabody is able to cut into the Republican vote which Brooke has drawn in past contests.

If Brooke is able to roll up normal pluralities in Republican towns, he should defeat Peabody.

If he is unable to do so, Peabody will be elected to succeed Leverett Saltonstall in the United States Senate. The GOP areas are likely to hold the answer to the Brooke-Peabody conflict. If a substantial number of Republicans cut Brooke, he'll be in trouble.

A majority of the people polled expressed the belief that Volpe has done a reasonably good job as Governor during the past two years.

McCormack apparently has not been able to break down that impression — at least not up to the time the polls were made.

The hard fact of the matter is that neither Volpe nor McCormack has waged a campaign which has really fired the public's imagination.

That probably has reacted to Volpe's advantage since he's the incumbent and McCormack is the challenger.

Volpe seems to be getting a nearly solid Republican vote, to be cutting heavily into the Independent vote and to be drawing some Democratic votes, especially among Democrats of Italian descent.

McCormack in many respects is an extremely attractive candidate. He made a good record during his four years as Attorney General. He might have won the Governorship four years ago. But the odds are against him in his present

Haskel C. Freedman Backs Lincoln For State Senate

Former School Committee Chairman Haskell C. Freedman last night urged his friends and fellow citizens in Wards 1, 6 and 7 of Newton to help elect William A. Lincoln to the State Senate.

Freedman voiced the belief that Lincoln "would make an outstanding State Senator and would provide dedicated service for the people of his senatorial district."

"William A. Lincoln is a man of great ability, of unquestioned integrity, a man with sincerity of purpose who desires to serve his fellow citizens," Freedman stated.

"He is the kind of man we need in our State Legislature," Freedman declared.

Last year, Lions Clubs in Massachusetts contributed more than $125,000 towards eye research in the constant campaign to save sight and help prevent blindness.

One of the major enterprises sponsored by Lions Clubs are the periodic glaucoma clinics. These are free to the public, are conducted by trained ophthalmologists, and often detect the presence of the insidious eye disease, glaucoma. This can be checked if discovered in time and treated by prescribed medication.

Brooke Stresses Need For 2 China Policy In Speech

The United Nations should have a conciliation board to act before shooting-wars begin, Attorney General Edward W. Brooke told a United Nations Day dinner at Newton South High School Friday evening, Oct. 28.

The Republican candidate for U. S. Senate also called for recognition of a "two China policy," because "in ignoring the Red Chinese, we have become ignorant of developments among 8 million people."

"I had hoped we would reasses our bombings in North Viet Nam to see if they really are limited to stragetic bases," he said.

So far, he said, "the bombings have failed to stop Communist infiltration and have failed to bring the Hanoi government to the conference table."

"The disastrous war in Viet Nam is holding up negotiations with the Soviet Union which were previously going well," Brooke added.

Brooke was introduced by Professor Harold J. Berman of the Harvard Law School, chairman of the Newton School Committee.

Rep. Irving Fishman, president of the World Affairs Council of Newton, presided at a buffet supper attended by many foreign students.

Tony Saletan presented a program of songs from many lands at the program attended by Mayor Monte G. Basbas and other city officials. Mrs. Paul G. Myerson was dinner chairman.

byists, maintaining that if Cohen didn't know what was going on in his own office, he should have known.

Cohen has played it cool, apparently has taken his re-election for granted and is striving to coast back into office.

Former School Committee Chairman Haskell C. Freedman has warmly endorsed Lincoln and urged his election to the State Senate.

Freedman, who is crossing party lines in the present election campaign, also is supporting Republican Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler in her bid for a place in Congress, Democratic Representative Irving Fishman and Republican Representative Theodore D. Mann.

Fishman and Mann are both standing for reelection in the fifth Middlesex District. They are being opposed by Edward H. Pendergast, Jr., a Democrat, and Benjamin Shattuck, a Republican, both of Newton.

Representatives Joseph G. Bradley and Paul F. Malloy, both Democrats, are being challenged in the fourth Middlesex district by Wigmore A. Peirson and Arthur S. Scipione, both Republicans. All four candidates reside in Newton.

Bradley is considered certain of gaining reelection. A stiff fight may develop for the seat now held by Malloy.

Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, a Newton resident, is the central figure in an election struggle which has commanded nation-wide attention.

Brooke and former Governor Endicott Peabody are battling for the seat now held by Leverett Saltonstall in the U. S. Senate.

If Brooke wins, he will be the first Negro to sit in the U. S. Senate since reconstruction days.

Brooke was cut to some extent by Republicans in Newton and other communities in the September primary. If that trend develops again next Tuesday, it could be fatal to Brooke's election hopes.

Both Governor Volpe and Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson should get good pluralities in Newton in their respective fights, Volpe for reelection, Richardson for the Attorney Generalship.

Surveys in Newton have indicated that Richardson will poll the highest vote in the city of any of the state-wide office-seekers.

Newton Democratic leaders are hoping that a big rally to be held Sunday night in the Newton High School gymnasium will create a Democratic groundswell in city.

Senator Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy will be the top a-t traction at the rally. Speakers will include former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, the Democratic nominee for Governor; former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti, the Democratic candidate for Attorney General; ex-Governor Endicott Peabody, Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate; and Patrick H. Harrington, the Democratic candidate for Congress.

Representative Joseph G. Bradley, Paul F. Malloy and Irving Fishman are members of the reception committee for Senator Kennedy.

Opponents for the seat Margaret M. Heckler is giving up in the Governor's Council to run for Congress are Attorney John J. Craven, Jr., of Hyde Park and Walter H. Palmer of Weston.

City election officials estimated yesterday that 83 per cent of the 48,373 registered voters in Newton will turn out to ballot in Tuesday's election.

Jaycees Want New Way To Fill Vacancies

Members of Newton's Junior Chamber of Commerce have gone on record as advocating a change in the procedure now in use to fill vacancies in the School Committee and Board of Aldermen that occur from time to time between city elections.

The Jaycees feel that selecting a committee from within the Board of Aldermen to name a replacement for a retiring member lacks objectivity. They say they don't want the Board or the School Committee to become handpicked clubs, and that they would prefer that the citizens of the ward represented by the retiring member be given an opportunity to express their choice in a public election.

Becky Sonnabend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sonnabend, 106 Monadnock rd., Chestnut Hill, has been elected treasurer of Robertson Hall at Butler University, Indianapolis, Ind., for the 1966-67 school year.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin again noted that packages for the armed forces in Viet Nam and to other overseas destinations should be mailed by November 10. He pointed out that packages not exceeding 5 pounds in weight for military in Viet Nam will be air-lifted from San Francisco, even though prepaid at the surface rate from Boston to San Francisco. Packages weighing more than 5 pounds will of course be carried overseas by ship, unless the mailer chooses to pay the air parcel post rates from Boston. The cost for a letter to Viet Nam is 5 cents.

Nursing Home Food Service To Be Studied In 3 Sessions

Food service in the nursing home receives a new-look, in-depth study beginning next Wednesday afternoon, (Nov. 9), when four agencies pool their resources to help nursing home personnel.

Invited to participate in a series of three monthly programs to be held at Newton-Wellesley Hospital are administrators and nursing supervisors of nursing homes in eastern Massachusetts.

The series is the first tailored to the full range of nutrition and sanitation considerations in the nursing home. It results from an appreciation by the four agencies of the growing role nursing homes are playing in long-term patient care, and will play increasingly after January 1, when extended care provisions of Medicare coverage take effect.

Cooperating to sponsor the public service programs are the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, the Newton Health Department, the Newton Department of Public Welfare and Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

The initial program at 2 p.m. in the community hospital's Usen Auditorium will focus upon food planning for the nursing home patient. Speakers are Diane I. Schulhoff, M.D., of Newton and Miss Ruth E. Irwin, public health nutritionist for the southeastern health district of the Massachusetts Department of Health.

A second program, to be held on Dec. 7, will treat special diets in the nursing home. The final program, scheduled for Jan. 11, will deal with sound sanitation procedures in nursing home kitchens.

Nursing home personnel have been invited from the North and South Shore regions, from Greater Boston, and from the western suburban areas.

Handling inquiries about the sessions is Mrs. Albert Kevorkian, medical social worker for the Newton Welfare Department, Newton City Hall.

WIGMORE PIERSON

More Confidence In Legislature Goal Of Pierson

Wigmore A. Pierson, Republican candidate for Representative in Newton and Waltham, said this week that people today are concerned with "the crisis of confidence in the State Legislature" and have a genuine fear for their own safety and property.

"People today, possibly more than ever, are concerned with the job their Representatives are doing. They want full-time representation," Pierson said, "And during my door-to-door campaign I have noticed that the great majority of people are living in fear."

Pierson supports reduction in the size of the House of Representatives, "to streamline and bring greater efficiency to our Legislature."

Pierson also supports Gov. Volpe's Mental Health Bill, which would create community mental health centers.

"I further support a study of this state's high insurance rates, a study which was voted against by this District's two incumbents," Pierson added.

Pierson said he would initiate measures designed to expand state aid to education and regional planning efforts on the part of cities and towns. Pierson also noted that the two incumbents voted against efforts to promote tourists in this state, although it would provide greater revenue for the State Treasury.

Health Commissioner Gives Advice On Rabies Precaution

Rabies has not claimed any human victims in Massachusetts for 40 years, so Dr. Cook, Newton's Commissioner of Health, reports. This victory has been won only by constant vigilance.

Rabies is still alive in our area through (apparently now restricted to bats). So it can strike whenever we lower our guard. And there is no death more certain and more horrible than that from rabies. To continue our guard we need the help of every citizen on these points:

"1. Whenever a dog or other animal bites a person, report the incident at once to the Health Department directly or, better, through your family doctor.

"2. Be sure the biting animal is NOT destroyed, but is kept in quarantine for 10 days. Any animal which does not become sick within this period does not have rabies. If you cannot keep the animal adequately quarantined at home, tied or fenced in so it cannot run away, you can call on the city veterinarian, Dr. Schofield, or your private veterinarian for help. If the animal is injured or dies (dogs frequently bite the hand that tries to help them when they are struck by a car), be sure to contact Dr. Schofield or the Police Animal Control Department, or the Health Department so the brain can be sent for virus examination at the State Laboratories.

"There have been thoughtless persons who have quietly destroyed or disposed of biting dogs without this precaution. Such an act leaves the person wide open to prosecution for negligence. Hence it is both the considerate as well as the legally wise thing to do to be sure that if the animal is to be destroyed, the brain be preserved for examination by the State Laboratory.

"3. Any suspicious animal behavior, and any bats which get into the house, should be reported to the Police Animal Control Department, who will handle the situation very effectively."

Dr. Cook concludes: "Our thanks to all citizens for effective cooperation in maintaining and improving our common health."

All the energy and ability I possess shall be devoted to all the people and every section of the District."

26th Halloween Program Praised From All Sides

Scores of parties and dances were held in all sections as Newton gave its youth a happy and healthy time. This was the 26th annual Hallowe'en program.

City officials were loud in their praise of the hundreds of parent volunteers whose work made the evening possible for the city's children. Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney, General Chairman Dr. R. Emerson Slyvester and the program chairman, Mrs. Esther G. Toher, joined in paying tribute to the hundreds whose efforts and talents made the program possible.

Mayor Basbas expressed delight at the community spirit so much in evidence Monday night. He noted that Halloween in Newton has become a city-wide affair with all areas joining in the common effort to make it safe and sane for Garden City youngsters. The chief executive thanked Dr. Sylvester, who headed the program for the twelfth consecutive year, and commended Mrs. Toher, who made her debut as program chairman this year.

Commissioner Penney lauded the cooperation of the many school principals, the parent teacher associations, the Chamber of Commerce and the hundreds of volunteers this year. He reports that everyone concerned with the observance was pleased with the results.

South Lions Ready To Tangle With Rindgers

The Newton South high school football team which was derailed last Saturday, returns home this week to meet Rindge Tech from Cambridge in a 1:30 p.m. tilt at Dickinson Stadium.

The Lions were at full throttle on a head of steam generated by three straight wins when they ran into a red block signal at Leominster. The final score was 28-14.

The block was a back named Dave Cote and the 6'2", 205 lb. Leominster lad spelled disaster for South. He pounded out three touchdowns as his up-country team bettered its season record to 5-1.

Cote and Co., trailed 14-13 going into the fourth quarter, overhauled the Lions in the final stanza to pin on South its second loss of the season against three victories.

Leominster wasted little time in showing off the pride of its backfield. On the third play of the game, Cote took a handoff and spun around left end where he broke loose for a 62-yard scoring gallop. Cote's size and powerful speed made him look like a Mack truck in high gear, as he charged to the end zone.

Perhaps stunned by the quick Leominster touchdown, the Lions fumbled the ball on their first play from scrimmage. Leominster recovered on Newton South's 37 yard line. A 27 yard run set up Leominster's second touchdown within four minutes. Halfback and captain Dave Cote smashed through the line for 10 yards and 6 more points. Leominster's kicking specialist split the uprights for the extra point conversion, and the Lions found themselves down 13 to 0 with the first quarter less than half over.

The Lions then pulled themselves together and made an electrifying about face. The South team actually dominated the play for the next two and one half periods.

Midway through the second quarter, the Lions forced Leominster to punt, and South gained fine field position at their opponent's 35 yard line. Newton South quarterback Gordon Megrian fired a 17 yard pass to Tom Rezzuti, bringing the Lions down to the 18 yard line. Frank Rezzuti picked up 4 more on the ground before Megrian found junior end Lou DiFazio clear in the end zone, and tossed a 15 yarder to him for a touchdown. The conversion attempt failed, but the Lions were on the scoreboard with 6 points.

The Lions jumped into the lead in the third quarter when QB Megrian and sophomore Tom Rezzuti collaborated on a 51 yard scoring play. Tommy was on the receiving end of two other Megrian passes for a total of 86 yards.

The strong effort displayed by the Lions in the second and third quarters was in vain unfortunately, as Leominster snapped back to life in the last period to score twice, including Cote's third goal of the afternoon. The Lion defense did fairly well in containing Cote up-the-middle. However, the Leominster powerhouse often took to the ends where he danced off 10 to 15 yards at a crack.

In the face of a line average 10 to 15 pounds heavier than his own, quarterback Megrian turned in a creditable performance. The senior signal caller completed 5 out of 10 passes for 110 yards.

Rep. Theodore D. Mann, Republican candidate for reelection to the House from the 5th Middlesex district, this week emphasized the scope of his legislative efforts in behalf of the community as he campaigned throughout the area.

Mann, whose district includes Wards 5-6-7-8 in Newton, pointed to his legislative record which identifies him with a number of important legislative matters.

Included among them, Mann said, were: aid to education; mental health and aid for retarded children; assistance for those relocated by eminent domain proceedings; removal of abandoned vehicles; air pollution; employment of women as parking control officers; family planning information; financial assistance for the Newton Junior College; truth in lending; highway construction; highway safety and housing for the elderly.

Mann said he also has been active in supporting programs for improved economical public transportation in Newton, and in providing a responsible tax program to bring relief to homeowner and tenants.

Rep. Mann announced that his election day headquarters, located in the Charter House Motel on Boylston St. Rte. 9, Newton, will be staffed with volunteers to assist voters in getting to and from the polls.

Bellotti Offers 5-Point Plan To Combat Crime and Corruption

Nothing should stand in the way of correcting "the twin problem of crime and corruption" in the Commonwealth, Francis X. Bellotti, the Democratic candidate for Attorney General, emphasized this week as he campaigned throughout the state.

The former Lt. Governor proposed a five-point program designed to meet and correct the problem which he termed "a pervasive disease that must be arrested and its causes corrected."

Bellotti said "the attorney general of the Commonwealth is designated by law as the chief law enforcement officer in the state. As such, he assumes overriding responsibility to investigate and prosecute crime and corruption within our borders.

"He has the responsibility for coordinating the attack on crime and corruption by the several district attorneys and the state and local police who have the responsibility for dealing with crime within their own jurisdictions.

"This responsibility," Bellotti said, "can never and should never be abdicated by him to any individual or group."

The Democratic candidate said he urged the adoption of the following measures:

- Take complete advantage of the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965 which provides grants in 1966 of $10 million for the purpose of training state and local law enforcement and correctional personnel and personnel employed in crime prevention, and improving techniques and practices of agencies dealing with crime.
- Provide every means to take advantage of the Federal Correctional Rehabilitation Study Act of 1965 which authorizes $1.3 million for a research and study program of personnel practices and personnel needs in the field of correctional rehabilitation.
- Authorize the Attorney General and district attorneys to subpoena, under careful court supervision, books and records of corporations, business trusts, agencies of government and public authorities under investigation.

General to appoint a Special State Investigations Commission whenever in his judgment the public interests and extraordinary circumstances require it to inquire into matters of crime and corruption. New York vests such standby legislative authority in its Attorney General."

Bellotti, during his arduous campaign, has emphasized that "for the next four years, the Attorney General of Massachusetts will be faced with a magnitude of problems of a far-reaching variety.

"The Commonwealth," he said, "will need a man in this office with the strength of purpose and desire to insure that the rights of our citizens are fully protected at all times."

Bellotti said "no aspect of the consumer's interest deserves more special attention and protection in Massachusetts than false, misleading and so-called 'bait' advertising practices. These abuses constitute the most common, most harmful and most costly of all unfair business practices perpetrated on the consumer."

The Quincy attorney said Massachusetts law should be expanded to cover recently exposed subtle forms of "baiting" that are not within the sweep of the existing law.

Bellotti deplored the "serious problem of juvenile delinquency," noting that in Massachusetts juvenile delinquency, as measured by the number of juvenile court appearances, has increased each year for the past 10 years.

"Every effort, available resource and technique must be called upon and used in a broad preventive and control program," Bellotti declared, "to eradicate the basic causes stemming largely from the general conditions in our economic and cultural systems.

"Complete community involvement at this primary stage of delinquency is essential if we are effectively to meet and substantially correct this problem in the long run.

"In the secondary stages of delinquency," Bellotti said, "when the juvenile offender has come to the attention of the authorities, improved and new techniques, services and programs must be utilized to cope with the problem."

He suggested a wide-rangers.

Annual City UNICEF Sale Underway At Eliot Church

UNICEF, the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund, has opened its annual sale of greeting cards, note paper and calendars in Newton.

The Newton Community Peace Center is the program's local sponsor. A display is on view at the center, located in Eliot Church, 474 Centre St., where many items may be purchased, with benefits accruing for children and mothers in more than 100 developing countries.

The Peace Center office is open Monday through Friday from 9 in the morning till noon. Telephone Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill, executive secretary, for further information—332-9110.

"It is hoped, reports Mrs. Rohna Shoul, chairman for the UNICEF sale, "that in 1966, the year of UNICEF's 20th anniversary, proceeds exceding last year's $3 million can be realized from the sale of cards". Mrs. Shoul also serves as vice chairman of the Peace Center's Advisory and supporting Council. Mrs. Shoul reports that last year's funds were sufficient to provide equipment and drugs for 10,000 small maternal and child health centers; 1,000 vehicles for mobile health teams; and enough penicillin to cure 20 million children of yaws.

In terms of UNICEF'S life-saving arithmetic, Mrs. Shoul indicated, the proceeds from a single 10-card box at $1.25 will provide a daily glass of milk for a whole week for 40 hungry children; enough vaccine to protect 50 children against tuberculosis; or the antibotics necessary to save five children afflicted by trachoma from blindness.

Thirteen designs donated by talented artists from Argentina, Canada, France, Germany, Haiti, Hungary, Japan, Lebanon and the U.S.A. are included in the 1966 UNICEF card offering.

UNICEF, which last December, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for its humanitarian work in more than 100 countries, is this year completing its 20th year of service to the world's needy children.

Margaret Heckler To Open Local Office If She Wins Seat In Congress Tuesday

Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler announced yesterday that she will open a permanent congressional office in Newton if she is elected to Congress next Tuesday.

At the same time she delcared that she would also maintain a mobile trailer office which will visit Needham, Westwood, Wellesley and other communities in the 10th congressional district at regular intervals for the convenience of residents who desire assistance with problems of a federal nature. She said she will also maintain the present office in Fall River.

"As your Congresswoman, I would endeavor to bring the government closer to you and to provide modern, streamlined, personalized service," Councillor Heckler told voters in the 10th district.

MARGARET M. HECKLER

Mrs. Heckler asked the 10th district voters to compare her experience in government and her record of public service with that of her opponent before making a choice between the congressional candidates.

She pointed out that she has served for four years as a member of the Governor's Council, representing approximately an eighth of the entire State, while her opponent's service has been as a county commissioner.

"During my first term in the Executive Council I spoke out loudly and forcefully against wheeling and dealing," Councillor Heckler observed.

"The Governor's Council was " a hot spot" during my first two years as a member of it, and I learned to live with pressure," Mrs. Heckler declared.

"As a member of the Governor's Council I have become familiar with State problems and with the vast number of federal problems which relate to the State government,," she continued.

"I respectfully submit to the voters of the 10th district that service as a Governor's Councillor is better preparation for membership in Congress than is service as county commissioner," Councillor Heckler stated.

"In fact, many experts on government consider that our county form of government is antiquated, outmoded and should be abolished. .

"In Newton at the present time the municipal officials are protesting vigorously at a big increase in the county assessment and have not even been able to ascertain the reason for the increase by the county commissioners," Councillor Heckler asserted.

Mrs. Heckler charged that her opponent has been trying to run "on just about every political coattail he can find."

"I am standing on my own feet and running on my own qualifications and my record of public service and my performance in an office of public trust and responsibility," Mrs. Heckler declared.

"It is unfortunate that my opponent is not doing the same," she added. "The campaign he is waging is an insult to the intelligence of the voters."

She said her opponent places great stress on the number of politicians who are supporting his candidacy.. .

"I am extremely proud of the number of people, who usually take no part in politics but who are working in my behalf," Mrs. Heckler stated.

Councillor Heckler charged that her opponent talks one way when he is campaigning in Fall River and an entirely different way when he is seeking votes in Newton.

"When he is in Fall River, he argues that the congressional seat should be kept in Bristol County," Mrs. Heckler stated. "He follows a completely different tack in Newton.

"My own desire is to serve all the people of the 10th congressional district - those in Newton, Needham, Westwood and Wellesley and in all the communities in the district reaching down to Fall River," she said.

Councillor Heckler stressed that as a Congresswoman she will have no commitments or obligations except to the people of the 10th congressional district.

"I will be free to vote on every matter which comes before Congress in the manner which I believe best serves and promotes the interests of the people of the 10th district, and that is exactly how I will vote," she declared.

"During the weeks of this campaign I have outlined in great detail my qualifications for service as a Congresswoman, my experience in government, my record of energetic service for the people I represent," Mrs. Heckler stated.

"I sincerely hope that the people of the 10th district believe that my qualifications, my experience and my public record are such as to warrant their voting for me next Tuesday," she asserted.

A graduate of Boston College Law School and an active practising attorney, Councillor Heckler declared that she will close down her law offices, halt her law practise and devote her entire time to her congressional duties if she is elected to Congress.

"I will be a full-time Congresswoman," she pledged.

Judge Yesley Asks Lombard Be New Clerk

Although stating he is in the dark as to who will be appointed and when, Newton District Court Judge Julian Yesley last week strongly recommended that assistant clerk David Lombard be appointed clerk of the court.

Judge Yesley said he made the request in a letter to Gov. Volpe that David Lombard, assistant clerk for 20 years, be appointed to fill the vacancy created when former clerk Edward J. Cronin was dismissed.

Cronin lost the $12,000-a-year post when the Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled that his position as clerk was incongruous with his actions in the 1964 hearings before the grand jury in which he gave false testimony.

Judge Yesley said in his recommendation that "Lombard is one of the ablest and most competent assistant clerks in Massachusetts, that he is well versed in the procedures of the court, and that he has shown exemplary service in his 20 years with the Newton court."

Lombard, 60, a native of Cape Cod, graduated from Winchester high school and Burdette Business College. He was appointed assistant clerk of court in Newton in 1940. During his 27 years of service, he has served under three clerks. He lives with his wife, Ruth, at 252 Cabot st.

The final day in the appointment to the court rests with the Governor and speculation is that he will wait until after the election before making the appointment.

IRVING FISHMAN

Hike In County Assessment Hit By Rep. Fishman

Running for reelection from the 5th Middlesex district, Rep. Irving Fishman, of Newton, this week joined Mayor Monte G. Basbas in criticizing the recent action of the Middlesex County Commission in raising the county assessment for Newton by 34 per cent.

Fishman, whose district includes Wards 5, 6, 7 and 8 in Newton, stated, "this alarming increase in the county assessment for Newton appears to be completely unexpected and without adequate explanation." He said "this kind of treatment raises anew the question of the continuation of county government."

The Democratic legislator indicated his intention to file a proposed amendment to the state constitution to eliminate the county form of government as "archaic and lacking in the political responsiveness necessary for representative government."

He further stated that "while county government may have served a community need in the early days of the Commonwealth, it has become increasingly apparent in recent years that the county as a political unit is no longer viable and should be abolished."

Sen. Kennedy To Campaign Here For Harrington Cause

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will visit the Newtons this week-end to join the home-stretch drive of Patrick H. Harrington, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 10th District.

Sen. Kennedy will arrive in Newton at 5:30 p.m. Saturday after a helicopter tour of the entire district. He will be the principal speaker at a major Harrington rally in the Newton High School gym Sunday at 7.

Before the Sunday rally Sen. Kennedy and Harrington will attend a candidates' party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Berman, 30 Ellis road, Newton. Later, Sen. Kennedy will speak at a Harrington - McCormack reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Levine, 379 Central Street, Auburndale.

Sen Kennedy has appeared frequently at Harrington rallies in recent weeks to urge the election of the 42-year-old attorney. In one speech he said, "Pat Harrington understands the problems of this district. He has lived here, worked here; he understands its needs. If this district is to have an effective spokesman in the House of Representatives, it is important that we send Pat Harrington to Congress. I know from my own conversations with Mr. Harrington that he is a man of intelligence, imagination and integrity. He won't be a rubber stamp. Harrington is a man who will bring his energy and experience to bear upon the important questions of our time."

With the election but a week away, Harrington has accelerated the pace of his campaign for the Congressional seat in the 10th District vacated by Joseph W. Martin. He has visited every community in the sprawling district that extends from the Newtons south to Fall River. Harrington has made a determined bid for votes in the northern end of the District where it is believed his opponent's strength is centered.

At noon Friday, (Nov. 4), Pat Harrington will meet his Republican opponent at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon. The affair will be held at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Saltonstall Says No Candidate For Atty. Gen. Ever Better Equipped Than Elliot Richardson

U.S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall declared yesterday that no candidate for Attorney General ever has been better qualified to hold the office than Lt. Governor Elliot L. Richardson.

Senator Saltonstall made the statement as he campaigned vigorously for Richardson and urged his election as the next Attorney General. He voiced high praise of Richardson's ability, courage and integrity.

"Never has a man been more highly prepared for the office of Attorney General, by long and varied training as a lawyer and as a government servant," Saltonstall said of Richardson. "Now that the Senate has adjourned, I intend to get out on the stump and campaign with Richardson to do everything I can to insure that he is elected."

Elliot Richardson is a selfless, dedicated public servant of unquestioned integrity. He is a man in whom I have the greatest personal confidence," Saltonstall said.

It has been reported during the current campaign that Mr. Bellotti referred to Senator Saltonstall as "a conservative reactionary" in a way disparaging the character and quality of his service in the U. S. Senate.

"The best response I have to these slurs on me is to ask those who have voted for me in the past and those who respect my views to vote for Mr. Richardson as Attorney General," Saltonstall said.

"Mr. Richardson worked closely with me as my Legislative Assistant, after he had been Clerk on the Supreme Court and before he served as Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare under former President Eisenhower.

"He has proved in his service as U. S. Attorney his strength as a fighter of crime and his courage in resisting the pressures brought against him by the forces of lawlessness. He has demonstrated as Lt. Governor his concern for the needs of people and his capability in handling the complex problems of human welfare," Senator Saltonstall declared.

"His opponent in the current campaign for Attorney General has maligned Richardson's service in Washington while Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare as against compassion and justice," Saltonstall said.

"I know from my direct, personal experience as U. S. Senator that this comment is absolutely untrue and deliberately malicious and distorted. Richardson's service as a progressive and tireless fighter for legislation responding to people's needs is a matter of strong public record and has been widely praised by leaders in both political parties," the Senator asserted.

Lt. Governor Richardson reviewed his record as U. S. Attorney and pledged an all-out drive against organized crime in Massachusetts if he is elected Attorney General next Tuesday.

Richardson pointed out that he was able to launch an effective campaign against organized crime while U. S. Attorney by coordinating the work of the various federal law enforcement agancies and asserted that he would undertake the same kind of drive as Attorney General.

Meanwhile, Dean Charles I. Schottland of the Brandeis University School for Advanced Studies in Social Welfare strongly defended Richardson against criticism levelled by Bellotti at Richardson's work as Assistant and Acting Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

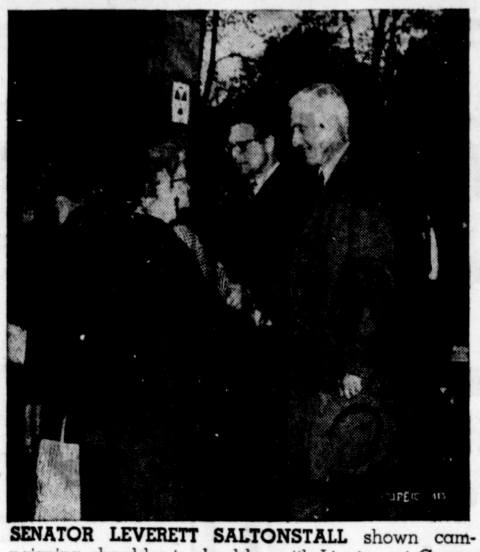
Dean Schottland, who pointed out that he was Commissioner of Social Security during the entire period Richardson served as Assistant Secretary of acting head of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, characterized Richardson's achievements in those posts as "outstanding" and said the quantity and quality of progressive legislation Richardson steered through Congress "was very impressive."

"I have been deeply disturbed by the misinformation apparently being circulated concerning the outstanding achievements of Elliot L. Richardson at the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare," declared Schottland.

"During the entire period that Mr. Richardson served as Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, I was Commissioner of Social Security in charge of social security administration," the Brandeis Dean continued.

"The quantity and quality of progressive legislation which Elliot Richardson conceived and steered through Congress was very impressive," he emphasized.

Dean Schottland said that "foremost of these, of course, is the National Defense Education Act, which was the most significant education legislation ever passed by the Congress."



SENATOR LEVERETT SALTONSTALL shown campaigning shoulder to shoulder with Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson as Richardson stumps for election as Attorney General. They were snapped as they greeted voters together in downtown Boston.

"In addition, Elliot Richardson was instrumental in the development of programs affecting social security, aid to the blind, maternal and child care, far-reaching medical research programs, the national health survey, radiological health, water and air pollution and vocational rehabilitation," the Dean continued.

"In my own area—social security—coverage was considerably broadened during the years Elliot Richardson served as Assistant and Acting Secretary to include many self-employed persons who were not previously covered," he stated.

Dean Schottland declared that "under Richardson's leadership a trend toward enlightened .social .legislation was established" and added that much of the legislation subsequently proposed in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was based on plans Richardson "conceived nearly 10 years ago."

Richardson in asking for support of his candidacy for Attorney General in next Tuesday's election declared that he has endeavored to present as fully as possible his qualifications for service in the office, his training and experience in the field of law and his performance as U. S. Attorney, a position equivalent in the federal government to the office of Attorney General in the State government.

"As U. S. Attorney," Richardson pointed out, "I gained convictions in more than 90 percent of the cases I initiated and completed.

"I believe I am offering the voters qualifications for the office of Attorney General which my opponent cannot match," Richardson stated.

ENDICOTT PEABODY

Endicott Peabody will win the election for the United States Senate next Tuesday by a minimum of 85,000 votes, it was predicted confidently this week by his campaign manager, Atty. Peter R. Beatrice Jr., of Swampscott.

Beatrice, who successfully forecast the outcome of the Democratic State Convention endorsement within 40 votes and the primary election within 14,000 votes, said Peabody's campaign momentum is surging and the final vote could exceed all expectations.

In making his prediction, Beatrice cited Peabody's tireless campaigning, his outstanding record as governor, and the need for united Democratic leadership in the Senate, as the key factors behind Peabody's surge.

Beatrice said Peabody has set the pace for the entire organization with his vigorous and tireless grassroots campaign.

"Visiting factories, greeting the shoppers, speaking at luncheons, dinners and before special groups, and attending coffee and tea parties, are all part of Peabody's daily routruly enjoys meeting people understand the views of the

"Peabody is a dynamic and energetic personality who trul yenjoys meeting people and discussing their problems and the needs of the state and the country. The former Governor feels that elected officials should know and fully understond the views of the people in order to be effective in public service," the Boston Attorney continued.

Beatrice said the key theme of the campaign is stressing Peabody's record as governor in 1963-1964 when het enacted 87 per cent of the legislation he submitted to the General Court.

Major legislative items enacted by Gov. Peabody, were cited by Beatrice: "a first-in-the-nation statutory Consumers' Council; a transportation system (MBTA); a four-year term as governor; an increase in minimum wage, unemployment benefits, workmen's compensation, and reorganization of the Dept. of Public Works, and the Commerce Dept.

"Peabody also increased scholarship aid by 400 per cent and stimulated construction to meet the 33 per cent enrollment increase in schools of higher learning. He also provided a $500,000 appropriation for the continuance of the Crime Commission," Beatrice said.

The campaign manager pointed out that "during Peabody's two-year Partnership for Progress term, people of Massachusetts and the nation were talking about progress and not crime and corruption in the Bay State. Many leaders lauded Peabody's administration for returning the Commonwealth to its tradition as an innovator for public services."

The Senatorial campaign, Beatrice said, "also has seen Peabody stressing the need for two young and vigorous Democratic Senators in Washington. He has stated continuously that on many major bills, the Democratic vote has been negated by the GOP representative."

In summing up his prediction of victory for Peabody, Beatrice said the work by Peabody's staff has been fantastic and accomplished despite overwhelming handicaps and odds.

"The Peabody campaign staff is by far the most efficient, dedicated and youthful ever assembled for a statewide political contest and the combined efforts of the candidate and all workers throughout the state will be responsible for the tremendous victory," Beatrice declared.

Harold Putnam To Resume His Law Practice

Attorney Harold Putnam of Needham announced this week that he has resigned as executive director of the Battleship Massachusetts at Fall River to resume the full-time practice of law, with offices in Boston and Needham.

Putnam completed six years of service in Washington on January 1, 1966, first as legislative counsel to Senator Leverett Saltonstall and then as administrative assistant to Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr., and agreed to manage the U.S.S. Massachusetts through its first summer tourist season.

Woking with community and state leaders, he had been instrumental in persuading the Navy to release the rusting but historic ship to return it to Massachusetts waters. During the summer, nearly 60,000 visited the ship in July and nearly 75,000 in August, making it one of the most popular tourist attractions in New England.

Prior to his Washington service, Putnam was for eight years a member of the State Legislature and for nine years Town Moderator of Needham.

To Dedicate Kaplan Lobby In Boston CJP Building

KIVIE KAPLAN

Formal dedication of the Emily R. and Kivie Kaplan Lobby in the recently-renovated building of Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston will be held Thursday, Nov. 10, at 4 p.m. at CJP headquarters, 72 Franklin St., Boston.

Announcement of the dedication was made this week by Lester S. Morse, chairman of CJP's Endowments and Bequests Committee.

Commenting on the significance of the dedication, Bernard D. Grossman, president of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, said, "This and subsequent dedications represent an important milestone for CJP.

"These gifts to CJP's Endowment Fund", he added, "not only make possible needed renovations at CJP headquarters, but of equal importance is the fact that they will add substantially to our Endowment Fund, putting our community in that much better a position to meet future emergencies and embark on new ventures when the occasions arise."

A prominent feature of the lobby is a striking 17-foot bas-relief, executed by the noted sculptor George Aarons. The bas-relief has as its theme the following quotation from the Sayings of the Fathers: "Upon three things the world is based: Upon the Torah, upon Divine service, and upon the practice of charity."

The Kaplans, residents of Chestnut Hill, have long been active in community and philanthropic services, and in the cause of promoting greater understanding between peoples.

Among his many gifts, Mr. Kaplan's personal commitment and generosity made possible the Kaplan Center for Religious Action of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, in Washington, D.C. Mr. Kaplan has long been a member of the UAHC Commission on Social Action.

In June 1966, Mr. Kaplan was elected national president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, capping a long record of service in various leadership capacities in that organization.

Among the many honors accorded him, he is the recipient of the Modern Community Developers' First Annual Averell Harriman Equal Housing Opportunity Award, and the T. Kenyon Holly for outstanding humanitarian service in civic, cultural, and philanthropic fields.

An honorary life trustee of CJP, Mr. Kaplan is a member of the Finance Committee and Board of Trustees of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and formerly served on the National Health Planning Committee of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

He is a co-founder and life trustee of Temple Emanuel, in Newton, a past board member and fund co-chairman of the Newton Community Chest, and a life member of the board of Brandeis University.

Haskell Freedman Endorses Mrs. Heckler For Congress

The former School Committee head declared that in her four years as a member of the Executive Council Mrs. Heckler has demonstrated "a tremendous capacity for public service."

"She is a woman of great energy, extraordinary ability and the highest principle," Freedman stated. "Her public service as a Governor's Councillor has been outstanding.

"In my opinion she has the experience, the background and the qualifications to do a fine job for the people of Newton as their Congressman. I recommend her candidacy most highly to my fellow citizens," Freedman asserted.

What Is A Specialty Ski Shop?

We feel that a specialty ski shop should be devoted to service. It should have a well equipped repair and mounting shop with the latest in equipment such as release checks, boot stretchers, and major repair equipment for the lines of skis. In short it should be able to service what it sells.

Secondly, a specialty ski shop should carry lines that are leaders in the ski industry and not promotional lines that sell well in volume but cannot stand the test of the mountain.

Thirdly, a specialty ski shop should be able to offer more than a general sporting goods store, we offer trade in on old equipment towards purchase of new, charge accounts, Monday thru Friday evenings open 'til 10:00 P.M., a complete rental department, and a line of skis used by the first ten winners of the Men's Giant Slalom, FIS Games, Portillo, Chile, 1966 with the exception of the Lacroix ski.

It should be able to offer free advice to the skier about his or her special needs. It's a proven fact that serious skiers eventually trade with a specialty ski shop so why not avoid the costly mistake of buying improper equipment and drop in to see us soon. You'll like what you see.

Volpe Cites Advances Achieved Under His Leadership; Asks To Complete Job He Has Started

Governor John A. Volpe today reviewed some of the major accomplishments of his administration and pointed to the great advances made in the Commonwealth under his leadership during the past 22 months as he asked for reelection next Tuesday so that he may complete the job he has started for the people of Massachusetts.

The Governor cited the tremendous strides achieved in the fields of education, highway, construction, governmental reform, mental and public health.

He quoted facts and figures to show that Massachusetts is a better and more prosperous State today than when he assumed office in January 1965.

"I deeply and sincerely hope that the people of our Commonwealth approve of the job I have done as their Governor during the past 22 months," Volpe declared.

"If they do, then I most respectfully ask them to reelect me next Tuesday so that I can complete the job I have started for them," the Governor continued.

"We have accomplished a great deal during the past 22 months — more in fact, than many people believed possible," Governor Volpe stated.

"But there is much more that we can and should do," he asserted. "With the support and the encouragement of the good people of Massachusetts, we will get the things done which should be done."

Governor Volpe expressed pride in the economic growth of Massachusetts during his administration and in the fact that 129,000 new jobs have been created in the State since he took office.

"It is especially gratifying," he observed, "that 43,000 new jobs have been manufacturing industries have been established during my administration and that we have been able to reverse a serious trend which saw a drop of 38,000 such jobs in the preceding Democratic administration.

"This has resulted in a higher degree of prosperity for our entire Commonwealth and all its citizens," the Governor stressed. "When new employment opportunities are promoted and our unemployment rate drops, we all benefit directly or indirectly."

Governor Volpe declared that greater progress has been made in the field of education in Massachusetts during the past 22 months than in any other comparable period in the history of the Commonwealth. "That is a matter of record," he stressed, "and it is a record which cannot be challenged.

The Governor cited that he had supported and signed new laws designed to help the working men and women of Massachusetts to provide greater security for them.

He had signed into law legislation increasing the minimum wage in Massachusetts to $1.40 an hour next year and to $1.60 an hour in 1968.

Governor Volpe pointed out that his signature had placed on the statute books a law increasing maximum weekly benefit payments under workmen's compensation from $53 to $58, that he had signed other laws prohibiting discrimination in employment because of age or sex, speeding up the trial of workmen's compensation cases and shortening from seven to five days the period of incapacity before injured workers are eligible for workmen's compensation.

The Governor said that he has waged a determined fight to provide more and better police protection for the people of Massachusetts and added that he intends to continue this fight.

He declared that he had battled with the Legislature for funds to make possible the appointment of an additional 100 State troopers and listed a number of measures he filed which were designed to strengthen law - enforcement in Massachusetts and to combat the rising trend of violent crime in the State.

"This is a fight I will resume immediately after next Tuesday's election," Governor Volpe stated. "We need more and better police protection in Massachusetts, and I intend to see that we get it."

The Governor listed a number of laws he supported and signed to make life better and brighter for the senior citizens of Massachusetts.

One of the programs for which he won approval provided an additional $25 million for the construction of attractive, low-rent dwelling units for elderly persons in modest circumstances.

"I believe that the people of Massachusetts are aware that my administration has been noted for its fiscal responsibility and that during my administration the State itself and many of its cities and towns have been rescued from financial disaster," he continued.

"This is a part—and only a small part—of the record on which I am standing for reelection—a record of progress and accomplishment," Goveror Volpe stated.

"We have not stood still in Massachusetts during the past 22 months." I think everyone will agree to that. We have done things, and we have moved forward.

"We have tried to do the things which needed to be done, and we have tried to do what was right.

"If I am elected next Tuesday, we will continue to try to do the things which should be done, we will continue to try to do what is right, and we will continue to do everything in our power to make Massachusetts a better State for all our citizens," Governor Volpe concluded.

Joseph E. Fernandes in Drive For Election as State Treasurer

Despite the fact he is embroiled in the last two weeks of the race for the office of State Treasurer, Republican candidate Joseph E. Fernandes this week cancelled three important days of campaigning in order to help a friend in South America.

Fernandes, who was in Europe when he received the endorsement of the Republican convention, flew to Lima, Peru, last Sunday night in order to make a final check of plans for a seven - store supermarket chain and distribution center being set up by the International Basic Economy Corporation (IBEC), an organization devoted to improving the living standards of people throughout the world by using the American capitilistic system.

JOSEPH E. FERNANDES

The Republican Treasurer candidate has been a special food distribution consultant with IBEC since 1958.

His trip this week, which he had hoped to postpone until after the election, was necessitated by the recent earthquake in Lima. He was asked to make the emergency business trip by William Tait, IBEC manager in Peru, who trained at the Fernandes Supermarket headquarters in Norton two years ago. The Fernandes chain involves 18 stores in southeastern Massachusetts doing an annual volume of $43 million.

The chain-store executive considers himself "not a political pol, but rather a candidate best suited and qualified for the Treasurer's post." He has often expressed the opinion that more businessman should enter politics.

"Too many are elected today on the basis of popularity, or because they are professional handshakers," he said.

Throughout the campaign, Fernandes has stressed he is "not running against the incumbent so much as running in favor of Joe Fernandes." He has, however, expressed deep concern over the fact that employees in the State Treasurer's department are not under Civil Service, stating that "it has apparently never occurred to the long line of Democrats in this office that there is anything wrong with this. Such an attitude is indicative that the office has been held by politicians rather than financially experienced administrators."

Other issues of concern to Fernandes are the Commonwealth's dropping credit rating, which means that higher interest rates must be paid on bond issues, and the practice of having legislator's expense accounts approved only by the Treasurer.

"There should be a second approval required," the Norton businessman stated, "so the Treasurer can never be accused of doing extra favors for individuals concerned with making the laws of the states."

Fernandes admits candidly he is probably the most publicized challenger for the Treasurer's seat in decades, due to newspaper stories about his fund - raising activities.

He pulls no punches, stating that "the publicity, which at first appeared to be adverse, is now working to my benefit. I feel the voters realize that I've been straightforward about my campaign solicitations.

"No one with any experience in business," Fernandes said, "could possibly swallow the story which implied I put pressure on my suppliers and employees. Does anyone actually believe I would pull an established brand name product off the shelves simply because the supplier didn't come to a dinner party at my home? And would an astute businessman jeopardize his relationship with some 1700 employees in today's tight labor market?"

Fernandes explained "letters were sent to employees in order to curb over-zealous giving. We will accept no donation of over $25 from any employee, no matter what his earnings. And, at the same time, we will accept no contribution of over $250 from anyone, because they might expect something more than a nice 'thank you' letter."

The 43-year-old food chain executive was born in the Madeira Islands, Portugal. He came to the United States as a youngster and graduated from Norton high school in 1941, becoming an American citizen after serving with honors as an alien enlistee in World War II. He graduated from Boston University, College of Business Administration, in 1947. He is married and the father of three children.

. . . but we're the people you meet. We're the last stop along the line where you buy the bacon (and the rest of your food needs) to take home. We're the ones you get to know . . . so, quite naturally, you tend to feel it's "the people at the store" who are responsible for today's high food prices. But, there's more to it.

Fact of the matter is, our country is beset by a number of problems that economists attribute to many, many causes—ranging from the war in Vietnam, to depletion of our food surpluses, to a thing called Inflation. This is the villain . . . Inflation. It's what has made the cost of so many things you buy go up! But call it what you may, your most important concern is the everyday cost of buying the food your family needs. And rightfully so.

It's not easy trying to cope with the increases of a penny here and a few cents there that keep gnawing away at your food budget. We know how frustrated you feel. You're entitled to ask what we're doing to keep food prices down.

You know we don't like high food prices, either. We're on your side. Why wouldn't we be? We couldn't do business without you. High prices are bad for us, too. So we watch our buying and get the best prices on quality foods from our suppliers. We continuously strive to improve our efficiency . . . run a tight ship. We do not "give" stamps. We refuse to gamble with your food money on games and races. We bring you our quality foods at the lowest possible prices in the day's prevailing market.

That's Mini-pricing. It's the way of food shopping that helps fight those one, two and three penny increases. So you know you're getting your money's worth when you take home your bacon, bread, butter or broccoli from Stop & Shop.

We're your kind of people . . . working for you and with you . . . to help put more food in your basket for less. We're the people at the end of the line who help you save money on food with Mini-pricing.

MEETS WITH PRESIDENT — Patrick H. Harrington, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 10th District, meets with President Johnson at the White House to discuss problems of inflation, Viet Nam and other pressing issues that will come before the next Congress.

Harrington Sees Win In Race For Congress

Patrick H. Harrington paused today on the campaign trail to forecast that he would win by a substantial margin in his race for Congressman in the 10th District.

When the reason for his optimism, Harrington said: "One word sums it up — experience. Many people have told me they intend to vote for me on that basis alone."

Citing his background in military, governmental, industrial and labor affairs, the 46-year-old attorney has made every effort to present his record to the voters.

"This country's annual appropriation for defense and veteran affairs is nearly $60 billion. This is more than half our national budget. Such immense sums stagger the imagination, yet they affect every one of us. I believe that my background in military and industrial affairs equips me to make knowledgeable judgments relating to the defense posture of our nation," he asserted.

Harrington is a decorated veteran of World War II. He enlisted in the Navy prior to Pearl Harbor as an apprentice seaman, served during the war with the Naval Air Force and rose to rank of lieutenant-commander. Today he is a Captain in the U. S. Naval Reserve and has served as National Judge Advocate of the Naval Reserve Association and as Commanding Officer of the Officers' Schools at South Weymouth Naval Air Station, Otis Air Force Base and Fall River.

As a veteran, Harrington feels he knows and understands the problems and needs of veterans and their families. As a result of the Vietnam War, there will be an enormous increase in the number of veterans. Harrington feels that his experience and knowledge regarding military and veteran affairs will be a prime asset in meeting the problems of the returning servicemen.

On the domestic front, Harrington has worked closely with both industrialists and labor leaders of his district and clearly understands their problems. A charter member of the Fall River Industrial Development Corporation, he has served as Chairman of the Fall River Industrial Commission and is considered an expert in labor-management negotiations, having represented both sides on numerous occasions. He is also chairman of the Bristol County Board of Commissioners.

With the election but a week away, Harrington has accelerated the already furious pace of his campaign for the Congressional seat in the 10th District vacated by Joseph W. Martin. He has visited every community in the sprawling district that extends from the Newtons south to Fall River, Harrington has made a determined bid for votes in the northern end of the District where it is believed his opponent's strength is centered. Many feel that Harrington has made significant inroads in Needham, Wellesley, and the Newtons.

Fall River, the home base of the 46-year-old Somerset attorney, is an acknowledged Harrington stronghold. Here Harrington has additional support from many Joe Martin supporters in an area where he is well known and respected.

The Fall River "Herald News," in a front page editorial, urged the voters to send Patrick H. Harrington to Congress, saying: "The district needs a Congressman of major stature . . . one whose ability and merit are already demonstrated."

The Somerset "Spectator" in its endorsement of Harrington said: "He is a man of conviction, not a follower of the strict party line. He speaks his mind, and forcefully. He has . . . training and experience . . . Pat is a man of dignity, of good judgment and of high ideals . . . a vote for Pat Harrington would be highly recommended."

Fall River is crucial to Harrington and he is not taking it for granted. In a normal election a Democratic candidate for statewide office receives a plurality of about 22,000 votes. Yet two years ago Joseph W. Martin came within 2,000 votes of carrying the city. Most political experts predict that Joe Martin supporters will revert to their normal Democratic ways, especially so this year due to their champion's primary defeat.

There is abundant evidence that the disenchantment of the former Martin adherents with the Republican nominee is not confined to Fall River alone. It runs throughout the length and breadth of the district with powerful concentration in Taunton and the Attleboros. Here, across the district's waist, the signs are unmistakable. Harrington has met exceptionally enthusiastic support in this area and many of his hardest workers are lifelong Republicans. This activity has lead The Providence Journal to predict that the election will be decided in the Attleboros.

Harrington also expressed his concern about the problems of inflation. "Very few people understand the cause of inflation, tight money and high interest," he said, "but every housewife knows that prices are rising. Obviously without a corresponding increase in salaries and wages, the grocery basket gets smaller for the same amount of cash.

"People with set salaries, social security beneficiaries, and those living on modest retirement incomes suffer most from rising prices. It is time we stopped asking these people to assume the burdens posed by the ever-mounting cost of living.

"As a Congressman I cannot guarantee a reduction in the price of groceries, but I can assure you that, as a family man, I am keenly aware of these difficulties and will devote all my energy to help stop the spiraling prices and hold them to normal limits."

Harrington has received powerful and sustained support from top Democrats at both the national and state levels. Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, have endorsed Harrington and visited the district in behalf of his candidacy. Speaker John W. McCormack and President Lyndon B. Johnson may tour the area before Nov. 8.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy has frequently appeared at Harrington rallies to advocate his election. Sen. Kennedy will return next Saturday afternoon for an extended helicopter tour of the district from Fall River north to Newton with stops at Norton, 2:30; Easton, 3:00; Foxboro, 3:25; Walpole, 3:45; Medfield, 4:00; Westwood, 4:20; Wellesley, 4:40 and Newton, 5:30. A major rally will be held Sunday evening at Newton High School.

High County Costs Cited By Thresher

Homeowners in the 11 cities and 43 towns of Middlesex County do not understand how nearly $14,000,000 of their money is being spent this year for services by the county, according to former Representative Irene K. Thresher of Cambridge, Republican candidate for County Commissioner to fill the unexpired term of the late William G. Andrew.

More than $11,774,119 of this total is assessed on local real estate taxes," she pointed out. Mayors and Selectmen in the county are alarmed about this large increase since 1964.

While a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, former Rep. Thresher was the first woman member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee. As a member of that committee, she made it her business to find out exactly how that state budget was spent.

"During the past few years, the county budget has increased from $ 5,600,000 in 1956 to nearly $14,000,000 this year without parallel increase in services," she said.

"In fact, many communities get little or no service from their County Commissioners, since the tightly-controlled, one-party organization in the county feel that they can take their votes and support for granted."

Mrs. Thresher said that, if elected, she would explore possibility of holding regular office hours in key communities throughout the county, so that local voters will not have to travel to East CCambridge to ask questions on matters affecting the county government.

New Somerset Official Was Formerly Here

Dennis Berkowitz, formerly food and beverage manager for the Newton Chapter House and the Euclid Charter House, in Cleveland, has been appointed to a similar position with the Somerset Hotel in Boston.

As a lieutenant in the Army Headquarters Corps, he served in catering for the Department of Defense. In that capacity he served banquets for President Johnson for the opening of the Inter American Defense College in Washington, for Secretary of Defense McNamara, and for members of the United Nations and NATO. He directed the Ambassadors Ball in Washington, and a gala fete for the newly appointed Ambassador of Israel. His ice carvings are considered masterpieces.

He met his wife, the former Janice Joseph of Newton while he was at the Charter House, here.

A graduate of Michigan State University School of Hotel and Restaurant Management, he is a member of Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Officiating at the 11 o'clock nuptials was the Rev. Amadeus Burke, OFM, cousin of the groom. A reception was held at Anthony's Pier Four.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white silk faced peau de soie gown misted with Alencon lace appliques and fashioned with an empire bodice made with a scalloped neckline and Kabuki sleeves. A detachable chapel-length train enhanced the A-line skirt.

A matching lace bonnet held in place her full-length sheer French illusion veil. She carried a cascade arrangement

Sen. Cutler Notes Involvement In Mental, Public Health Programs

State Sen. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham, now seeking her tenth consecutive term, this week pointed to an 18-year-old record of involvement in mental and public health legislation and vowed continued interest and action in health fields if returned to office. The senator, considered by most political pundits unbeatable in the Norfolk-Middlesex-Senatorial District, noted that when she took her seat in the Senate in 1949 she was appointed to the Committee on Public Welfare and was the Chairman of that Committee for eight years.

All legislation dealing with the Department of Mental Health, Department of Correction, Department of Public Welfare and the Youth Service Board come before that Committee and while chairman, Senator Cutler organized visits to the State institutions.

The Committee became keenly interested in these trips made during the Recess of the General Court and Senator Cutler has been in all 42 of the institutions, including Youth Service Board schools, state prisons, mental hospitals, schools for mentally retarded children, and the Public Health hospitals, she noted. She has often revisited these over the years and has urged other legislators to do the same.

In 1965, the Massachusetts Public Health Association honored Senator Cutler by presenting to her the 1965 Lemuel Shattuck Award "for distinguished service in Public Health." She is now Chairman of the Special Commission on Mental Health, established in 1962 by the Legislature with seven other members of the General Court and three persons appointed by the Governor. An extremely competent staff has been working for many months on the complete revision of Chapter 123 of the General Laws, which contain the provisions for commitment, treatment and release of mental patients in State hospitals, the senator noted.

As a Director of the Norfolk Mental Health Association, serving 11 Norfolk County towns with a Community Child Guidance Center, Senator Cutler is well aware of the needs of expanding the program so that it will serve adults as well, and be a so-called "all-inclusive" Center. At the Annual meeting of the Association last May by vote of the Board of Directors (taken after Senator Cutler had left an earlier meeting), it was voted to honor the Senator by changing the name from the Norfolk Guidance Center to the Leslie B. Cutler Clinic. Dedication ceremonies were held in September and a message from Governor Volpe closed with "May your Clinic, as a Community facility, continue to provide service as distinguished as that of the great lady for whom you have named it."

200 Hear Panel Discussion On Newton Youth

The Newton Community Council welcomed more than 200 delegates and guests, including youth from Newton's high schools, at the fall delegate meeting held recently at the Second Church, West Newton.

A panel discussion on "Newton's Youth - Its Problems, Prospects and Perspectives" was conducted by Dr. Charles E. Brown, Superintendent of the Newton Schools as moderator. Panel members included: Professor Richard M. Douglas, head of Department of Humanities, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, Temple Shalom of Newton; and Judge Julian L. Yesley, presiding justice, District Court, of Newton.

It was proposed that a forum for parents be established at which ideas on family life could be exchanged and parents were urged to serve as models for youth, thereby retaining their respect.

The need for more community services and activities for young people was also stressed.

Joseph C. Skinner president presided at a brief business meeting at which two new organizations were voted into the Council. The new members are the South Middlesex Branch of the NAACP and the Newton Community Relations Commission, bringing the total membership of the Council to 105 member organizations.

SUPPORT FROM VOLPE — Governor John A. Volpe, seated, and William A. Lincoln of Newton, candidate for the State Senate in the Newton - Brookline - Brighton senatorial district, confer on campaign strategy. Volpe has warmly endorsed Lincoln for election to the Senate.

Wm. Lincoln Charges Sen. Co Talks One Way But Votes Another

William A. Lincoln of Newton, campaign vigorously for election to the State Senate from the Newton-Brookline-Brighton senatorial district, charged today that Senator Beryl Cohen on numerous occasions has talked one way and voted the opposite way.

Lincoln declared that this has been true when bills relating to education, mental health, public health and police protection have come before the State Senate.

The Newton man asserted that the big issue in his contest with Senator Cohen is "partisan politics versus good government."

"When Senator Cohen has had to make a choice between good government and partisan politics, he has too often chosen partisan politics," Lincoln stated.

Lincoln said that Cohen has failed to meet the issues raised during the present election campaign. He maintained that Cohen owes the people of his district the votes he has cast as a Senator but that he has given none.

"The only conclusion which can be reached," said Lincoln, "is that Senator Cohen cannot explain or justify many of the votes he has cast; neither can he explain why he has talked one way and voted another."

"I most respectfully ask the voters in this senatorial district to consider Senator Cohen's record and then to decide for themselves whether it merits his reelection or his rejection,' 'declared Lincoln. "I believe it warrants his replacement in office."

Lincoln went on to buttress his statements and allegations by contrasting Senator Cohen's statements with his actual votes.

"Senator Cohen has repeatedly declared that he supports the Willis Report and the expansion of our educational program. But he voted 10 different times against providing the funds to carry out the recommendations of the Willis Report and to exgram," Lincoln stated.

"Mr. Cohen insists that he favors an expansion of the State's mental health facilities. But he voted to send the new Community Health Center bill to the Supreme Court for review, thus killing it for this year unless Governor Volpe succeeds in reviving it at the special legislative session he intends to convene," Lincoln continued.

"Senator Cohen voted against a bill to provide $120,000 for the preparation of plans for buildings for night and day mental health treatment.

"Mr. Cohen has talked in favor of reforms in government, but let's look at the official record and see how he voted," Lincoln said.

"He voted against a bill to eliminate secrecy in the affairs of public authorities by making public their official reports," Lincoln

"He voted against a bill to make the terms of major State department heads co-terminus with that of the Governor even though most experts on government believe that would be a worthwhile reform.

"He voted against a bill providing that the refusal of a State employee to testify concerning his acts as a public employee on grounds of self-incrimination would be cause for removal from his job," Lincoln said.

"He voted against a bill supported by the Crime Commission to permit the Attorney General to subpoena certain corporate records.

"He voted against a bill supported by the Crime Commission to allow appeals by the prosecution in criminal cases even though the measure contained specified safeguards for the rights of defendants. The purpose of this bill was to give the public more protection from the hoodlum who strives to take advantage of every loophole in the law," Lincoln declared.

Lincoln expressed the belief that Newton, Brookline and Brighton residents are in agreement that more and better police protection is needed to combat crime.

"But Senator Cohen opposed a request by Governor Volpe for funds for the appointment of an additional 100 State troopers," Lincoln observed.

"These are not loose or idle charges," Lincoln emphasized. "The votes to which I have referred are part of the official record at the State House."

Lincoln maintained that Cohen has never satisfactorily explained the action of his office in soliciting campaign contributions from State House lobbyists which Lincoln termed "a clear conflict of interest."

"It's a little difficult to believe," said Lincoln, "that Senator Cohen did not know what his own aide was doing. If he didn't know, he should have. It certainly was his responsibility to know."

Lincoln appealed to voters in Newton, Brookline and Brighton to support his candidacy in next Tuesday's election.

"I promise you faithful, energetic, dedicated service if you elect me your Senator," Lincoln pledged.

"I pledge to you that I will not talk one way and vote another.

"I favor the expansion of educational opportunities in our Commonwealth, and I will vote to create them.

"I believe we should have better police protection, and I will support Governor Volpe's proposal for the appointment of additional State troopers.

"I feel that our public health and mental health programs should be enlarged, and I will vote to enlarge them.

'On the matters which come before the State Senate, I will endeavor at all times to vote not in a self-serving political manner but in the best interests of the people of Newton, Brookline, and Brighton," Lincoln promised.

PASSING THE CALUMET
A Symbol of Hospitality

Contrary to popular opinion, the American Indian was hospitable and friendly to the white man when he first arrived. Passing the calumet or pipe of peace was his way of expressing friendship.

At Garden City, we don't have a pipe-of-peace, but our welcome is a friendly one for anyone needing any or all of our banking services. Here you can find everything you require from Checking Account to Travelers Checks. How about dropping in and getting acquainted.

Airman Part Of Rare U.S. Radar Outfit

He is a radio repairman with the 731st Radar Squadron at Sundance Air Force Station, Wyoming. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Maffie of 1025 Walnut St., Newton.

The equipment of the 731st is powered by the PM-1 (Portable, Medium Number 1) power plant, the U.S. Air Force's only nuclear power plant.

The 731st recently replaced the PM-1 nuclear core, a cylinder 23 inches in diameter and a little over 33 inches in length.

The core, resting in a reactor tank containing 20 feet of water, was removed and safely stored, then replaced by a new one, which should be operative through 1971.

The nuclear core, which weighs approximately 1,000 pounds, is composed of more than 100 one-half inch diameter tubes containing the fissionable uranium.

Capable of being dismantled and reassembled elsewhere within 90 days, the PM-1 is designed to supplant internal combustion type generation of electrical power and to do so more reliabable and economically.

Although in operation for nearly four years, this is the first time the PM-1 has needed refueling.

ARTHUR S. SCIPIONE

Abolish County Government Is Scipione Quest

Abolishment of county government was advocated this week by Atty. Arthur S. Scipione, of Walnut St., Newtonville, candidate for Representative in the Newton-Waltham area.

A long-time civic leader, Scipione is seeking election in the 4th Middlesex district that includes Wards 1-2-3 in Newton and Ward 6 in Waltham.

Scipione favors reduction of county taxes through abolition of county government which functions along geographic lines that have lost their importance in the population explosion, and which performs services that are duplicated in great part by the Commonwealth.

He also favors an updating of the Workmen's Compensation legislation and advocates an adequately organized and financed state planning agency.

The Newton Republican is a member of the state and federal bars and is a special Pentagon representative to assist uniformed personnel with legal problems in Middlesex County.

He is a graduate of Northeastern University Law School, was a Newton alderman for six years and president of the Newtonville Improvement Assoc. for two years.

In addition to his other achievements, Scipione served as Newton assistant assessor, election officer and title clerk. Among other duties, he has also been a member of the Immigration Board of Appeals Court.

His law office is located at 241 Walnut st., Newton.

Northeastern Gets 2 Grants

The Northeastern University mathematics department has received two grants totalling $60,300 from the National Science Foundation.

One, for $41,100 was awarded to NU for support of research on "Classification Problems for Finite Simple G[illegible]," under the direction of Prof. Daniel Gorenstein of 7 Oldham Rd., West Newton.

The other, amounting to $19,200, was awarded for support of research entitled "Low-dimensional Differentiable Manifolds and the Singularities of Differentiable Mapping."

Women Voters Explain Referendum Questions

The Newton League of Women Voters, this week presented background information and reasons for supporting three of the referendum questions that will be on the ballot Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Relative to Question No. 1, the League asks, "What does the Joint Election question mean?" then goes on to explain it as follows:

"The governor and lieutenant governor will be elected as a unit from the same political party, as are the president and vice president of the United States. As it is now, the govenor and lieutenant governor are voted for separately, and they may be elected from opposing parties."

Another League question: "What other states have joint elections?"

The answer: "New York, 1953; Alaska, 1959; Connecticut and New Mexico, 1962; Michigan, 1963; Hawaii, 1964. Similar proposals have recently been introduced in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Kansas."

"Both 1966 Democratic and Republican party platforms support the joint election of the governor and lieutenant governor as a team."

"What does Question 2 provide for?"

"This amendment provides a procedure for the governor to submit to the legislature proposals for reorganizing the executive branch. It does not offer specific plans; it simply provides the machinery for putting comprehensive planning before the legislature to be debated on its merits."

"What is the advantage of the proposed procedure for submitting executive reorganization plans over the present method?"

"Under the present method, the General Court (House and Senate) can ignore a governor's message and does not have to take action on his plans. Under the proposed procedure, the General Court must make some sort of decision on a governor's proposed plan, based on its merits.

"Why should I vote for Question 2?"

"Because it is high time to update our state government to meet the needs of an increasingly complex society, and at the same time, to provide governmental machinery to maintain citizen control. A prime need in Massachusetts is unification of and strengthening of the fragmented executive branch."

"Both the 1966 Democratic and Republican party platforms support the submission of executive reorganization plans by the governor, subject to legislative vote."

"What does Question 4 (Municipal Home Rule Amendment) provide for?"

"This amendment annuls Article LI of the Constitution as amended by Article LXX, and grants more home rule to our cities and towns. The provisions deal with the right of self - government in local matters; the power and procedures for adopting, revising or amending charters; and specific limitation on local power."

"What would home rule mean to the cities and towns of Massachusetts?"

"1 — It would give Local government autonomy over purely local matters, allowing the locality to take any action not in conflict with the state constitution or general laws.

"2 — It would give cities and towns the freedom to draw up, revise and amend their own local charters without any need to go to the General Court for action or approval.

"3 — The cities and towns can be assured that the General Court will not pass special laws affecting only their community unless they request it."

"Both 1966 Democratic and Republican party platforms support home rule."

Concluding the article, the League advises: "Vote YES on Questions 1, 2 and 4. Make 1966 a banner year for Massachusetts."

Lawyers Support Lincoln For Seat in State Senate

A group of noted attorneys in Newton, Brookline and Brighton this week strongly urged the election of William A. Lincoln of Newton to the State Senate.

The lawyers backing Lincoln's candidacy include F. William Andres, Abram Berkowitz, Richard S. Bowers, Claude B. Cross, John Dane Jr., John F. Drum, Haskell C. Freedman, Jerome D. Goodman, Arthur J. Hanflig, Robert H. Hopkins, Robert I. Hunneman, Myer Israel, Frank L. Kazol, Richard H. Lovell, Eugene Lyne, John T. Naanan, George L. Rabb, Arthur S. Scipione, William M. Silverman and Roger B. Tyler.

In a letter to fellow attorneys in Brookline, Newton and Brighton, they said:

"As attorneys we must be concerned about government in Massachusetts.

"The performance of our Legislature in recent years has often left much to be desired. Inefficiency and lack of statesmanship have blocked vital legislation and resulted in needless expense to our taxpayers. We believe it our duty to call the attention of our fellow lawyers to well-qualified candidates, regardless of party affiliation, who are from time to time standing for election to the General Court.

"William A. Lincoln seeks your vote for the State Senate next Tuesday. He is a candidate who meets admirably the high standards of intelligence, mature understanding, integrity, dedication and experience needed to serve well the people of this District and the Commonwealth as a whole. We believe him to have a primary and sincere concern for public service and good government not distracted by a desire for personal publicity or by the urge of partisan politics.

"We are convinced that your support of the candidacy of William A. Lincoln will help to fullfill our obligation as lawyers to assure that the administration of our State government is carried out by people of character and ability."

GI Bill Students Must Get School Certification

Veterans enrolled in college this fall under the new G.I. Bill were reminded by the Veterans Administration today that the school would have to certify their enrollment before they would receive their first check. Two copies of the Certificate of Eligibility must be presented by the veteran to the school, which submits one of these filled out to the VA.

In the first check the VA will pay the amount due at the end of September upon receipt of the enrollment certification by the college. In most cases the first check will be only a portion of the usual monthly check, since many schools did not have a full month's session in September. For all subsequent checks no action is required by the college. However, the the veteran must certify his attendance at the end of each month to the VA; otherwise he will not get paid.

Barry Stephen Rubin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Rubin, 71 Brandeis Rd., Newton Centre, is a student in the Rabbinical Department of the Jewish Theological School of America in New York.

Institute Of Religious Studies Offers Youth And Adult Courses

The Institute of Religious Studies, 210 Herrick rd., Newton Centre, announces a number of courses open for youth and adults.

M. David Weiss, associate rabbi at Temple Emanuel, and the Rev. William Blair, associate pastor of the Second Church in Newton, will offer a course on "World Religions" for high school students each Tuesday afternoon from 3:13 to 4:45 in Newtonville Methodist Church. The first class met Oct. 4, with the final session Dec. 20.

Prof. Dwight R. Walsh of Boston University will lecture on "Exploring Religious Dimensions in Contemporary Literature" on six consecutive Thursday evenings at the Newton College of the Sacred Heart, beginning Oct. 13. Although the course is primarily for adults of all faiths, it is also open to high school students.

Acclaimed as an extraordinarily interesting lecturer by students and members of the Waban Union Church who have studied with him, Prof. Walsh is expected to attract large numbers of Newton citizens. Miss Portia E. Perry, chairman of the committee on adult education, and Mother Gabrielle Husson, president of the College of the Sacred Heart, have worked with an interfaith committee to plan this study. The committee announces that following the lecture at 8 p.m. each night, there will be a refreshment period and six small discussion groups led by Rabbi Philip Kieval, The Rev. John P. Boles, the Rev. Thomas Lehman, Rubin Brown, Philip McNiff, and Robert Tobey.

Among the authors to be examined by the lecturer and discussion groups are Saul Bellow, Eugene O'Neill, Camus, C. P. Snow, Graham Greene, James Baldwin, Malamud and others.

The Institute is composed of educational and religious leaders of the community who serve on the Board of Governors and seek to present the most important studies of interest to youth and adults. Prof. Bradbury Seasholes, of Tufts University is the chairman. For further information about the above courses and the work of this interfaith decentralized organization, one may write the office of the director, 210 Herrick rd., Newton Centre.

St. John's Plans Harvest Sunday, Children's Offering And Yule Fair

Sunday, Nov. 20, has been designated as Harvest Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lowell avenue, Newtonville, and on that day each member of the parish will have an opportunity to give out of his plenty to those who are actually in want, in parishes in the heart of the inner city.

Boxes will be placed in the rear of the church to receive offerings of packaged or canned foods, items that will stand handling and will keep well. The offerings will be taken in town early in the week.

On the same day, all Church School children will attend the Family Eucharist. Each will bring one piece of fruit or a vegetable. These will be presented by the children in a Thanksgiving Processional to the altar. This is a symbolic offering. Even as a very little child goes to the altar he may think, "Thank you, God, for all my food throughout the year."

Plans have been completed for the Christmas Fair at St. Johns, to be held on two days — Friday, Dec. 2, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Dec. 3, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be a coffee cart, and lunch will be served both days. Also, tea will be served from 2:30 to 4 p.m. both days.

Tables and chairmen will be as follows:

Aprons, Mrs. Philip C. Jacobs Jr., and Miss Emily P. Burdon; bean pot, Mrs. W. S. Baker and Mrs. Raymond C. Church; book stall, Mrs. Robert Stobaugh; candy, Mrs. William M. Prophecy Of Isaiah To Be Read On Sunday

Isaiah's prophecy concerning the mission of Christ Jesus is a part of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound."

Correlative readings from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality, even the way through Christ, Truth, man will reopen with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free, not needing to consult almanacs for the probabilities either of his life or of the weather, not needing to study brainology to learn how much of a man he is."

Public Lecture At Local Church Next Tuesday

"Your Communityy and You" is the title of a Christian Science public lecture to be presented Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, at 8 o'clock, in the First Church of Christ Scientist, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Thomas O. Poyser, C.S., will discuss how a sperítual dimension of thinking can bring better solutions to individual and community problems.

Admission s free, and the lecture is open to the public.

Mr. Poyser was once manager of a business firm in Dallas, Texas, but resigned in 1952 to devote full time to the Christian Science healing ministry. He is a graduate in engineering of the University of Michigan, and received the Bronze Star for service in the United States Army Air Corps during World War II. He is currently on tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Joseph A. Guzzi, son of Joseph A. Guzzi, Sr., 60 Stratford Rd., West Newton, was one of three Lowell Technological Institute students honored by the campus section of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers with an annual scholarship award. ATTORNEY JOHN J. CRAVEN, JR., left, who is seeking election to the Governor's Council in the second councillor district, shown with Attorney Peter A. Kerr who is supporting his candidacy. Kerr was the runnerup to Craven in the September Democratic primary. Boston College Professor Charles L. Regan, who placed third in the primary contest, also is urging Craven's election to the Executive Council.

Sen. Ted Kennedy Supports Craven For Govs. Council

Attorney John J. Craven, Jr., of Hyde Park has been endorsed for election to the Governor's Council by a number of highly respected Democratic leaders, including Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

The two men who placed second and third respectively to Craven in the September Democratic primary also are championing his cause and supporting his candidacy.

They are Attorney Peter A. Kerr of Hyde Park and Boston College Professor Charles L. Regan of Wellesley.

Democratic leaders, in citing Craven's qualifications for service in the Governor's Council, pointed to his educational background and to his legal experience.

In commending his candidacy to the voters of the second councillor district, they expressed the conviction that Craven will make an outstanding member of the Executive Council.

Craven is seeking the seat in the Executive Council now held by Margaret M. Heckler who is standing for election to Congress.

Considered one of the most promising young men in the Democratic party, Attorney Craven is a graduate of the Roxbury Latin School, Harvard College and the Portia Law School. He has been admitted to practice before both the State and Federal Bars.

A veteran, Craven served in the 11th Armored Cavalry. A number of young men who were in the military service with him are working energetically in his campaign.

Attorney Craven was a strong supporter of both the late President John F. Kennedy and Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

Indeed, he asserts that it was a declaration by the late President which influenced his decision to stand for election to the Governor's Council.

"While the Executive Council no longer has some of the powers it possessed a few years ago, I feel that as a member of that body I could perform a real public service for the people of the second councillor district and for all the citizens of Massachusetts," Craven declared.

He pledged to perform his duties 'with dedication, ability, courage and integrity of purpose" if he is elected to the Governor's Council next Tuesday.

"It is on this basis that I most respectfully submit my candidacy to the voters throughout the second councillor district and ask their consideration and support when they go to their polling places for next Tuesday's election," Craven stated.

Craven campaigned vigorously this week in Newton, Dedham, Norwood, Brookline, Roslindale, Canton, Sharon, Foxboro, Walpole and Medfield.

He said that he has tried to meet as many voters as possible during the campaign so that he could discuss personally his qualifications with them.

"I hope that I will meet all of the voters of this district as their elected Governor's Councillor and that I may be of service to them in the two years immediately ahead," Attorney Craven concluded.

Lee Loumos Says:

It's about time that the double standard on lotteries, raffles, etc., in other words, gambling, be resolved. It seems that the aroused housewives of America may be the instrument. I've always considered it was gambling when merchants entice customers with lucky bucks and other forms of lottery, and somebody eventually has to pay — obviously in terms of higher prices. When almost everyone gets in the act, there is no competitive advantage. There is just an overall increase in business costs that must be passed on to the consumer. Perhaps we are finally to see the end of all this, including the use of stamps, and get back to merchandising value, quality and service.

Several Newton Men Are Installed At ADL Dinner

A. Raymond Tye of Waban, president of United Liquors, Ltd., was installed as chairman of the New England Regional Board of the AntiDefamation League of B'nai Brith at its annual dinner meeting held Sunday night at the Statler-Hilton in Boston.

Installed as new vice-chairman of the board was Dr. Gordon F. Bloom of Newton, who heads the board's program committee. Simon Scheff of Newton was renamed vice-chairman, and heads the board's civil rights committee.

Superior Court Judge David A. Rose of Newton, a past chairman of the New England Regional Board, presented A. Raymond Tye to the audience of more than 400 board members and their guests. Mr. Tye is a past chairman of the Beverage Division of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies. He was also instrumental in forming B'nai B'rith spirits lodge and served as its first president. He has served as a vice chairman of the New England Regional Board and is a member of the Community Service Committee of the ADL National Commission.

In accepting the gavel of leadership from Joseph J. Gottlieb, Mr. Tye called ADL a "maker of traditions" and urged the board to continue its commitment to social action and its role as activists.

Earlier on the program Sol Kolack of Waban, executive director of the New England Regional ADL office, outlined some of the priorities which his staff will undertake in the next year. One of these priorities is working with Catholics. Mr. Kolack pointed out that while the Vatican Council declaration relating to the Jews is substantially weaker than what many had hoped for, it nevertheless holds great potential for eliminating the doctrinal basis of anti-Semitism.

On the subject of the Negroes, Mr. Kolack pointed out that "white Americans are bewildered by what seems unreasonable Negro protest and pressure in the face of growing opportunity." He pointed out that while many whites point to the legislative advances, employment opportunities and the funneling of large sums of public monies into programs for the Negro poor, from the Negro point of view there is the inescapable fact that he is still caged in poverty, in slums and that except for a small group with advanced education, the vast majority of Negroes are closed off from access to the goods of our society.

Mr. Kolack pointed out that counteraction of extremism has a high priority on the agenda of the New England Regional office. While noting the declining influence of many right wing groups here in New England, he pointed out that the John Birch Society appears to have gained in membership, improved its financial condition, and to become within itself a coalition of right wing organizations.

Mr. Kolack said, "In New England the John Birch Society continues its mischief in local communities by infiltrating school systems and libraries and by sponsoring the notorious "Let Freedom Ring" telephone messages containing distortions and borderline libel of individuals and organizations. In spite of the denials of Robert Welch, the John Birch Society has become a magnet for anti-Semites and anti-Semitic activity."

SUMMARY

The Act imposes a temporary tax upon all retail sales of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the selling price. Sales of certain items are exempted from the tax, including but not limited to sales of food products for human use, articles of clothing, prescription medicines, agricultural machinery and certain publications. The statute contains specific provisions relating to the registration of vendors, the filing of returns and the payments of the amounts collected by such vendors. Vendors may apply to the State Tax Commission for abatements of the amounts owed where they believe such amounts to be excessive and the decisions of the Commission on such applications may be reviewed by the Appellate Tax Board. The Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation shall have the usual powers and remedies provided for tax collection for the collection of the taxes imposed by this section. The State Tax Commission shall issue regulations necessary for proper administration and enforcement of the section.

The Act further imposes a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption in Massachusetts of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the sales price of such property. Sales upon which the retail sales tax described above has been imposed, or which are exempt from the retail sales tax, shall be exempt from the use tax. Sales upon which a tax has been paid in another jurisdiction shall also be exempt. Assessment, abatement and collection of the use tax shall be governed by the provisions which relate to the tax upon retail sales. The tax upon retail sales and the excise upon storage, use or other consumption shall be effective during the period from April 1, 1966 to December 31, 1967.

Each qualified taxpayer shall be entitled to a credit of four dollars for himself, four dollars for his spouse and eight dollars for each qualified dependent, but such credit shall not be allowed if the taxable income of such individual and his spouse exceeds five thousand dollars for the year. In addition to the taxes described above, the Act provides for new excises upon certain banks; new taxes upon the income of certain corporations; new taxes upon cigarettes; a room occupancy excise upon rent paid for the use of hotel rooms and other lodging places; and excises upon sales of certain alcoholic beverages.

The Act creates the Local Aid Fund for the purpose of providing educational assistance, and authorizes the periodic distribution of amounts from such Fund to the cities and towns. In addition, the Act contains a variety of provisions relating to the program of State aid to public schools, and to its administration.

Vultures, Snails Used As Tools In War On Disease

By DUSTON HARVEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Six black vultures and thousands of snails are among the tools of an Indonesian physician seeking to control a parasite that afflicts more than 200 million persons.

Dr. Lie Kian Joe of the University of Indonesia heads a research team in San Francisco and Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, that hopes to use another parasite to conquer schistosomiasis.

The crippling disease is the most widespread and uncontrolled parasite scourge in world today. It is found throughout Africa, tropical Asia, eastern South America and the Pacific islands.

It is caused by schistosomes, worm-like flukes which spend part of their life cycles in the bodies of fresh-water snails. They later emerge in warm water ponds, canals and ditches, then burrow through the skins of humans using the water.

They enter the blood stream and travel intot he bladder, intestines, kidneys, lungs, liver, heart or brain. They destroy tissue and result in chronic illness and high susceptibility to other diseases. They reduce life expectancy and can cause death directly.

Dr. Lie and his fellow researchers at the Hooper Foundation laboratory at the University Medical Center in San Francisco and at the Institute for Medical Research in Kuala Lumpur hope to use a harmless parasite — the echinostome — to destroy the disease-causing worm.

Dr. Lie, who is on loan to the project from University of Indonesia, found echinostomes could destroy some forms of schistomes during his research in Malaysia.

In his quest for a combination of parasites that might wipe out the disease, the research physician has infected thousands of snails has with the larvae of both worms.

Seek New Species

Dr. Lie's efforts were hampered for some time by an inability to keep echinostomes alive in the lab through their entires life cycle. During the complex cycle, the parasites require several different hosts.

They could be started off in snails, then provided with living fish and tadpoles as secondary hosts. But Dr. Lie was unable to find their final carriers, where the parsites matured and laid their eggs.

But Dr. Paul Basch, a zoologist associated with the project, noted during a recent six-month trek through Brazilian coastal regions that parasitic fresh water snails were found near the roosting places of urubus — carnivorous Brazilian black vultures.

Six of the ugly, smelly birds were captured and sent to the San Francisco lab. Researchers found the linings of their intestines were hospitable homes for the adult parasites. Their eggs were carried out with the vultures' excrement.

Dr. Lie has developed one new species of the harmless parasite which will destroy human schistosomes before they leave the snails. But it allows too many of the disease-causing worms to live.

The search team hopes its study, financed by the National Institutes of Health through the International Center for Medical Research and Training, will eventually contribute to the conquest by harmless parasites of several parasitic diseases.

fight. A victory for him next Tuesday would be a definite upset.

Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson has put on a tremendous campaign in his effort to become the State's next Attorney General.

The fight between Richardson and Bellotti has aroused the most bitterness and strongest feelings of the state-wide election battles.

Richardson faced an uphill struggle after the September primary when the polls showed Bellotti holding a commanding lead.

But he put on a terrific drive and day by day and week by week cut down Bellotti's advantage until he finally turned the corner and moved out in front.

Richardson has pointed to the record he made when he served as United States Attorney for Massachusetts during the latter part of the Eisenhower administration.

Bellotti has argued that the positions of U.S. Attorney in the federal government and Attorney General in the State government are not comparable and that he is better qualified to be Attorney General on the basis of his broad experience as a practicing attorney.

Bellotti has blasted Richardson's record as Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Eisenhower regime.

No less an authority than Dean Charles I. Schottland of the Brandeis University of Social Studies, who was Commissioner of Social Security when Richardson was serving in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has jumped to Richardson's defense.

Dean Schottland characterized Richardson's achievements in HEW as "outstanding", said that Richardson steered the National Defense Education Act through Congress and termed it "the most significant education legislation ever passed by Congress."

The Brandeis dean added that much of the legislation proposed in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was based on plans Richardson had conceived.

Many objective observers consider Richardson one of the best qualified men ever to stand for election as Attorney General in Massachusetts.

While Richardson is generally regarded as the last of the Yankee Brahmin politicians of the stamp and mold of Leverett Saltonstall, the fact is that he has three lines of Irish descent.

His Irish ancestors came to this country early, but they came here from Ireland.

One Patrick Tracy, father of the great patriots of the American Revolution, who, incidentally, joined the Charitable Irish Society in 1737, a few months after it was founded. Tracy came from County Wexford.

Simon Elliot, Sr., emigrated to this country from Ireland in the 1700's. Through him and his descendants Elliot Richardson received his name. Another ancestor, Anne (Hickey) Clarke came to this country from Dublin and lived to be 106 years of age. She was born in 1746 and died in 1852.

So Elliot Richardson's ties go back to old Ireland.

Voters May Not Put Sarge "in Charge"

Of the other state-wide election contests, the only one really in doubt is between Joseph E. McGuire of Worcester and former State Public Works Commissioner Francis W. Sargent of Dover for the Lieutenant Governorship.

Ordinarily it would be expected that fight would follow the trends of the gubernatorial race. But Sargent's campaign has not clicked in the manner anticipated, and his slogan, "Put Sarge in Charge," has not aroused much enthusiasm.

Joseph E. Fernandes of Norton, the super-market magnate, has probably received more publicity than any candidate who ever sought the office of State Treasurer.

But he faces an almost impossible task in trying to displace State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane.

Fernandes, of course, has a tremendous business background and is capable of filling just about any post in the State government.

In the course of his campaign he has received some unfavorable — and probably some unfair — publicity, and this will militate against him next Tuesday.

Secretary of State Kevin H. White is certain of reelection over Raymond W. Trudel of Montague.

John J. Buckley has not seemed to be able to get his campaign against State Auditor Thaddeus Buczko off the ground, and Buczko looms as likely to gain a second term.

Mrs. Heckler Favorite In Hot Congress Fight

A fight which has attracted attention far beyond the borders of Massachusetts is being waged by Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler of Wellesley and Attorney Patrick H. Harrington of Somerset for old Joe Martin's seat in Congress from the meandering 10th congressional district which stretches all the way from Newton down to Fall River.

Mrs. Heckler is generally rated a slight favorite to become the 11th woman member of Congress. But Harrington, who was practically a political unknown in the northern end of the district when Councillor Heckler made headlines by toppling Congressman Martin in the primary, has put on an extremely energetic campaign and has made the contest into a real battle.

Councillor Heckler is strong in the northern section of the congressional district and will roll up big pluralities in Newton, Needham, Westwood and Wellesley.

Harrington has been working furiously to keep down her margin in those sections and to build up his own plurality in Fall River.

Both candidates have carried their campaigns into the other's strongholds, and at times their exchanges have been sharp.

Mrs. Heckler maintains that Harrington talks one way in Newton, Needham and Westwood and a different way in Fall River. She points to his ads in a Fall River newspaper which declares that "Fall River Needs a Congressman."

Harrington has followed the Democratic line closely. He is relying heavily on his endorsement by Senator Ted Kennedy.

Two factors will determine the outcome of the fight. One is whether Councillor Heckler's strength in Newton, Needham, Westwood and Wellesley match Harrington's vote-pulling power in Bristol County.

The other is the extent to which the women voters rally behind Councillor Heckler.

If they storm the political ramparts for her next Tuesday as they did in the September primary, it will be an important factor in her favor.

Nipped 19-12 By Medford . . .

Newton High Looks To Victory Over Whalers

The battered Newton High School football squad travels to New Bedford this Saturday looking for a soft touch in the Whalers. The lads hope to change the nickname to the "Wailers."

Although Newton fought hard last week, Medford, spurred by the brilliant direction and playing of QB Ed Rideout, edged the Tigers, 19 to 12, in the last minute of play.

By virtue of the win, Medford sports an impressive 5-1 record, while Newton is .500 on the season, 3-3.

There were only 42 seconds left on the scoreboard clock when Rideout flipped a pass to fullback Ed Jay in the end zone to break a 12-12 deadlock and clinch the victory for Medford.

Seven seconds later Newton tried a blitz comeback but it was nipped by Rideout who intercepted a Dick Dezotell pass.

After a scoreless first period, Medford lit up the scoreboard first with six points after a sustained 87-yard march. The running of halfback Ed Reid highlighted the march, along with the passing of Rideout. They capped their impressive performance when Rideout hit Reid with a 13-yard pass to put the ball on the Newton three-yard line. The quarterback then swept left end for the goal. The conversion attempt failed.

On the ensuing kickoff, a Newton lineman fumbled and Medford pounced on the loose ball on their own 43. On the first play from scrimmage, Reid took a pitchout and raced down the left sideline for 40 yards before Co-captain Dom Boudreau nailed him.

Two rushes netted Medford five yards and then Rideout took to the air and hit left end John McLaughlin on a slant-in for Medford's second marker. The Medford two-point conversion try failed.

Late in the second period, the Tigers hit pay dirt for the first time.

Starting on their own 42, the Tigers rolled as Dezotell hit end Bob Steinberg for six and then halfback Warren Houston, on the pass-option play, threw to split end Jay Sullivan. Interference was called on the pass and the Tigers netted a 44-yard gain to the Medford 23.

Following a seven-yard rush by Dezotell, the QB found end George Gershman cutting across the middle for a 16-yard touchdown completion. The try for a two-point conversion failed.

Late in the third period, Medford was forced to punt and kicker Rideout boomed a high spiral to Houston. Houston side-stepped two defenders and romped 42 yards to the Medford 12. Steve Colantuono went to the five in two plays. Fullback Bob Cohen bulled in for the second Newton TD. The pass conversion try for two points failed.

The fourth period was nip and tuck with the defense of both teams dominating. On a Newton fourth down kick, punter Bill Thurston boomed the pigskin 51 yards.

Now, Rideout and Co. began to move the ball. A handoff from Rideout-to-Jay-back-to-Rideout gained 30 yards and an important first down for Medford with a little less than a minute left to play in the game.

Rideout then connected with Reid on the sideline pattern and gained 19 yards on two running plays. As the fans lined the sidelines, Rideout took the snap from center on the four, faded back until he was close to the 20, broke three Newton tacklers and arched a desperation pass. It was grabbed in the end zone by Jay for the all-important, game-winning six points. Russ O'Neil was perfect with his conversion kick.

There was only 35 seconds left to play when Newton took Medford's kickoff on its 27 yard line. After one incomplete pass, Dezotell hit Sullivan at midfield for a 25-yard gain. On the next play, Dezotell scrambled out of trouble and uncorked a pass to Gershom at the 15. But Rideout intercepted the deflected pass. Had Gershom made the catch, he had clear sailing to paydirt.

The two teams were fairly evenly matched and except for two tough breaks in the second period, Newton might have come out with its fourth win instead of its third loss.

Break number one came when the period was just three plays old. Newton fullback Bob Cohen rammed his way over for a touchdown, only to fumble and Medford's Bruce Thistle recover for a touchback.

Break number two was midway through the period when Elliot Libman fumbled a line-drive kickoff and Medford's Bill Jenson claimed the loose pigskin at his own 43.

The deciding factor in the game was, of course, scrambling Ed Rideout who hit on 8 tof 16 passes for a total of 111 yards, plus 68 yards rushing. But it was his running and evasion of tackles that earned him the plaudits of the crowd of 5,000 schoolboy fans.

His performance elicited from Coach Jim Ronayne the remarks: "We were beaten by a one-man show in Rideout. He proved himself over and over again to be better than a flock of our tacklers who just couldn't bring him down. I knew he would be hard to defend against and he was."

JOSEPH G. BRADLEY

Bradley Talks On Education And Its Future

Rep. Joseph G. Bradley, of Newton, who is seeking reelection to the House from the 4th Middlesex district, discussed the future of higher education in the Commonwealth at meetings throughout his representative area this week.

He called for an education that will prepare a student to live "as a fully realized free man in a free but changing and challenging society."

Bradley, whose district encompasses Wards 1, 2 and 3 in Newton and Ward 6, Waltham, stressed that "the central point of the development of public higher education in Massachusetts must be the regional community colleges."

The Newton Democrat explained "the Willis recommendations furnish guidelines for long-range planning in the areas of coordination, quality and expansion of public higher education in the Commonwealth.

"However," Bradley warned, "the General Court must explore the specific implementation of these recommendations with imagination and foresight."

Bradley pointed out "as the Willis report indicates," the community colleges provide an opportunity for the "middle manpower" group which, he said, outnumbers the academically motivated at least two-to-one.

He said that of the 10 community colleges now in operation, only one is accredited by any regional association.

Bradley warned "the Commonwealth is faced with the serious problem of adjusting the quality of this division of public education to an ever-mounting enrollment.

"Certainly legislation comprehensive enough to allow for the improvement of faculty, of laboratory and library, of program offerings, and of the numberous other matters that demand attention if accreditation is to be achieved, must be an important goal of future sessions of the General Court."

The legislator said "the community college must be viewed neither as a finishing school nor as an emergency channel for the anticipated annual increase of 30,000 pupils in the public elementary and secondary school of the Commonwealth over the next eight years.

"Quality must be commensurate with quantity," Bradley declared. "The Community college must furnish a quality education that the student will find transferable to a full college program if he desires to enroll in one."

In regard to the future of the Newton Junior College, Bradley had high praise for the institution.

He warned, however, "the demands placed upon the school will necessitate its becoming a state-run endeavor.

"The history of education in Newton has earned for our city a reputation for high quality that has been truly national. The junior college is, nonetheless, an extra operation, and if we are to be realistic we must see it in this light.

"Newton cannot support the institution on a real estate tax base," Bradley declared. "It cannot support a capital outlay program on our assessed valuation. Nor are individual subsidies from the state more than temporary, stop-gap measures."

He concluded that "the long-range viability of Newton Junior College will depend upon its full assimilation into the Commonwealth system of higher education."

Great Effort Pays Off

Editor of The Graphic:

The Newton Halloween Committee wishes to express its sincere thanks to all those who contributed so much in time and effort to make the annual observance such a success.

The success of this celebration is measured in terms of enjoyment on the part of our younger citizens. It is the result of a combined effort of thousands of parents, school personnel, police officers, firefighters and other community-minded people.

We would also like to express appreciation for the backing of the business community and the many private citizens, because without their financial support the program could not succeed.

This year's Halloween program is a perfect example of a city-wide cooperative effort. Here again the people of Newton have displayed their ability to work together so that their children might have a safe, sane, and at the same time enjoyable Halloween.

The Newton Recreation Department has enjoyed working with these people in this celebration program. It proves without doubt that the planning and hard work pays off for our youngsters.

We express our thanks for the hard work, our appreciation for the fine programs, and compliment all concerned for a job extremely well done.

Dr. R Emerson Sylvester,
John B. Penney,
Recreation Commissioner
Mrs. Esther G. Toher,
Program Chairman.

Grateful to Press

Editor of The Graphic:

All of us who seek public office sometimes take for granted the major role played by the news media in making the system of party government work in America. Were it not for the willingness of newspapers, radio and television to give considerable space and time to political parties and candidates, I am afraid the precious privileges of the American way of life would be in jeopardy.

Having worked for many years with the Taunton Gazette, I know the pressures under which the news media are put during election periods.

May I then, as Chairman of the Republican State Committee and of all our candidates for all offices, thank you and your staff for the many courtesies extended our party and its candidates over these past months.

John F. Parker,
Chairman.

Thanks Women Voters

Editor of The Graphic:

I have noticed with increasing frequency the blue and gold Vote "Yes" on questions 1, 2 and 4, and note with delight that the League of Women Voters is on the campaign trail again. The three proposed constitutional amendments which they are backing make a lot of sense to me.

Question 1 provides for the joint election of governor and lieutenant governor: the advantages of this are obvious, just as we elect our President and Vice-president on one ballot.

Question 2 provides for reorganization of the Executive department — to abolish the antiquated limit of 20 departments under the governor's control, when in reality there are over 300. A "yes" vote would establish direct lines of responsibility in government.

Question 4 provides for Home Rule for the cities and towns in Massachusetts, allowing them to choose their own charter, establish where traffic lights should go, and decide how many aldermen they should have. Eliminating items such as these from the agenda of the State Legislature would certinly allow more time for state and regional business.

So — I hereby doff my hat to the ladies of the League for the study which they made and the concern they have for attaining the best in government; I will vote "Yes" on Questions 1, 2 and 4, and I urge my fellow citizens to do likewise. If we neglect to vote on these issues, we are neglecting to take a step forward. Both major political parties support these proposals. Let's all move ahead together.

Yours truly,
HERBERT L. SHULMAN

Medical Missionaries Of Mary Bazaar Opens Nov. 9

The two-day Boston Bazaar benefiting the Medical Missionaries of Mary will open in the John Hancock Hall on Wednesday of next week (Nov. 9) at 9:30 a.m., to continue through Thursday evening. Final plans for booths and prizes were approved at the M. M. M. Men's Committee meeting held October 27 at the Sister's American headquarters in Winchester.

Mrs. Thomas P. Fallon of Jamaica Plain, long-standing member of this large group of mission supporters, is serving on the publicity and prize sub-committees, in close cooperation with Sister M. Thomas, who entered the medical community from Jamaica Plain.

Among the many volunteers staffing booths at this annual benefit are: Miss Anna Scott, Miss Marion Scott, Patrick J. Cawley, mother of Sister M. Thomas; and Mrs. George C. Hallisey, aunt of Sister M. Veronica, who is in charge of booths and personnel for the Bazaar, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cummins.

Present at the Bazaar to greet the many M. M. M. friends and supporters will be: Sister M. Denise, M. M. M., of Arlington, a nurse and midwife, home from her rugged mountain outpost in Ethiopia; Sister Anne Marie, M. M. M., of Lynn, Occupational Therapist, who has established a fully-equipped rehabilitation center for leprosy patients in Abakaliki, Nigeria; and Sister M. Ann Regis, M. M. M., of Belmont, a nurse and midwife, on leave from St. Brigid's Hospital and Training School, Obudu, Nigeria, where she was also supervisor of clinics for several leprosy villages in the north border region of East Nigeria.

The 1966 Bazaar will be the tenth annual affair held by the Medical Missionaries of Mary in the Quincy Suite of the John Hancock Hall, where again this year will be displayed choice gifts, unusual and distinctive handcrafts and needlework, as well as products of the newly established M. M. M. Pottery, run under the supervision of Sister Anne Marie in Winchester. Both days of the Bazaar, the best in hot home-cooked meals and home-baked pies, pastries, candies, and Irish Bread will be on sale.

The work of the Medical Missionaries of Mary which will be benefited by this two-day Bazaar is carried on in many countries of Africa, as well as in Formosa, Spain and Italy. Highly skilled as doctors, surgeons, nurses and technicians, the Sisters offer the best of modern medical care in those areas where medical service is non-existant or seriously inadequate.

Working by choice among the people in hinterland or bush areas, in thirty years of labors since the founding of their community, they have established 26 major mission centers, from which they operate 150 mobile or bush clinics, and also supervise the care of thousands of leprosy patients in 23 villages or areas located across Africa.

Welcoming and caring for all patients, men, women or children, their best-loved work is among young mothers and infants, and their happiest achievement is reduction of the high mortality rate in this field of service wherever they go. As a result, many of their doctors are experienced gynecologists and obstetricians, others are pediatricians, although this does not lead to exclusion of other activities, exemplified by the skill in pottery, printing, or craft work shown by Sister Anne Marie, and by the fame of the M. M. M. "Flying Nun," Sister Michael Therese, who is stationed in the Turkana Desert of Kenya.

Make Health Precautions Before Taking Long Trip

NEW YORK (UPI) — A vacation should be free of worry. Yet many Americans overlook little things that can spoil the pleasure of traveling.

Take your eyeglasses, for instance. You're thousands of miles away from home and you lose or break them. If you had planned properly, you would have an extra pair and a prescription with you. Then you would have a pair to wear while the prescription is being filled.

Medical and dental checkups should be one of the firsts on the things-to-do when planning your trip. They should be scheduled, if possible, about two months before departure since dental work could involve several visits.

If your journey is to a foreign destination, immunization shots may be necessary. You'll need a smallpox vaccination to visit most countries and to return to the United States. Some shots, such as anti-tetanus and anti-typhoid, are given in series and require several weeks. fever and cholera inoculations validated by the local public health officer can also take some time.

Some Tips

— In addition to a first-aid kit, take essential prescription medicines in sufficient amounts to last the entire trip. Take along an extra prescription as a safeguard against breakage or loss.

— Pack medicines separately from cosmetics and other toiletries to avoid confusion when in a hurry.

— Carry liquid medicines in plastic bottles to guard against breakage. Make certain each is clearly and accurately labeled.

— Seal tops of bottles and lids of boxes with tape to prevent leakage or moisture from getting in. Be careful the tapes don't adhere to the labels and tear them off when removed.

— If necessary to buy medicine in a foreign country, read labels carefully before leaving the pharmacy or dispensary. If instructions are not written in English, ask for a translation and write it down. Make sure you understand instructions, particularly the dosage, since measures vary from country to country.

— All-night pharmacies are few and far between overseas but most large cities have dispensary centers open all night for emergencies. For locations, call the U.S. embassy or consulate or check with the hotel desk clerk.

— These sources also can recommend a qualified doctor, if one is needed in a hurry. In smaller towns, the local police department can help in an emergency.

— In the United States, phone the local medical society or the nearest hospital to find an accredited physician in the area.

And last but not least, the Council urges epileptics, diabetics and heart patients to carry their medical identification tags or cards on their persons at all times.

Grant For Control Of Cancer Awarded Beth Israel Hospital

A large-scale program for the prevention and control of cancer of the uterine cervix, involving the total cytologic screening of the adult female population seen at the Beth Israel Hospital, has been launched under a five-year U. S. Public Health Service Grant. The approved funds for the first year of this project total $17,500.

The goal of the hospital-based program, which is under the direction of Dr. Harvey Goldman, assistant pathologist, is to "virtually eliminate cervical carcinoma in the adult community that is serviced by this hospital."

In all cases with suspicious or positive cytology, biopsies and definite therapy will be performed without delay at the hospital. All women with negative tests will be encouraged to reappear for periodic, annual examinations. The Social Service Department at the hospital will assist in the contacting of patients in order to ensure complete follow-up of all cases. Dr. Goldman anticipates that a two-year period will be required to meet the goal of 100 percent screening.

The current number of annual tests conducted at the hospital is about 7300, Dr. Goldman revealed. During the first year the hospital expects to perform approximately 5,000 additional tests through this program. Thereafter, the increased number of annual examinations should exceed 10,000, including the repeat annual examinations.

"Our initial objective is to provide total coverage for semi-private patients and clinic patients, then to extend this screening program to private in-patients as well. Recognizing that our very best efforts are those of prevention and early diagnosis, our eventual aim is to stress the value of routine and periodic pelvic examinations to healthy women throughout the community," Dr. Goldman stated.

Heart Fund Gifts Honor Late Newton Residents

Memorial gifts to the Heart Fund, honoring late relatives and friends of Newton residents, increase yearly, Dr. George S. Kurland, president of Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, announced recently, in listing names of those so honored. Heart Memorial donations are used for heart research, professional and public education, and community services.

"Most religions pay tribute to their dead—it is a shared human desire," Dr. Kurland said. "Holy days, such as Yom Kippur and All Souls' Day, mark this tribute. And for centuries, wealthy people have set up memorials: buildings, monuments, sometimes scholarships or prizes.

"Today, any person can establish living memorials, through Heart Fund donations. The memorial gifts we receive range from small donations to thousands of dollars—but all are given with the same devotion, and all go to the same great cause: The conquest of heart disease. We are grateful to thoughful citizens who remember their departed in this way."

Heart Fund Memorials made during the past three months have honored these late friends and relatives of the Newtons residents:

Newton School Secretaries Hold Meeting

The Newton Educational Secretaries Association opened the 1966-67 season with its first regular meeting at Waron Wednesday, October attended a national sem- 19, at 6:30 p.m. The regular business meeting followed a buffet supper. Final plans were discussed for the "Anniversary Meeting" to be held on December 7, when NESA will celebrate its 20th anniversary.

The program for October 19 included reports from the convention of the National Association of Educational Secretaries held at U.C.L.A. the last week of July. NESA is an affiliate of this national organization as well as the Massachusetts Association of School Secretaries. Mrs. Rose Silverman, the president, was the official delegate for the association and gave her report.

Highlights of both the convention and the institute were given by other members who attended; Mrs. Dorothy Flynn, Department of Business Services; Mrs. Marjorie Harting, Warren Junior High School, and Mrs. Elizabeth LaTona, Division of Instruction.

NESA is justifiably proud of the fact that one of its members has been made an officer of the national association. Mrs. Marguerite Fitch, Beethoven School, was appointed first vice-president of the National Association of Educational Secretaries during the meeting in Los Angeles. She spoke of a few highlights of the work of NESA.

Officers of the Newton Educational Secretaries Association for 1966-67 are:

President, Mrs. Rose Silverman, Newton Junior College; vice-president, Mrs. Ruth Corey, Warren Junior High School; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy McCarthy, Peabody School and treasurer, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, Personnel Department.

The Sharon Fish and Game Club, East street, Sharon, will hold a two-gun gallery practice pistol tournament on Sunday, Nov 13.

Each competitor will fire the conventional 900 point aggregate match with both the .22 cal and centerfire weapons, for a combined total of 1800 points.

This match is to provide the necessary match experience for those shooters desiring to sharpen their competitive skills during the winter layoff, when most, through inactivity, lose the sharp edge that comes only with continuous work on the line against other shooters.

Farmer in the Dell, a new type of store, not a supermarket, not a freezer plan, is now open on Eastern avenue at Route 1, just behind J. C. Best Carpet Co., Dedham.

Richard Savel, the owner, formerly operated Savel's Supermarket in Mattapan.

From the time he was a tot he has been carrying on the family tradition of being in the retail grocery field.

After extensive research he believes he has found the location for his dream market, where discrimminating housewives will be able to purchase the finest foods straight from the farm at low prices.

The new store will feature meat, not in fancy packages with the fat hidden; delicatessen products for the whole family; cheeses from all over the world; and produce straight from the country.

Christmas Seal Campaign Starts Here November 15

At a recent meeting John N. Sullivan, president of the West Newton TB and Health Association, greeted the chairmen and volunteers who are helping in the 1966 Christmas Seal Campaign.

"Unfortunately, said Mr. Sullivan, "Tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases are a real threat to everybody. The death rate for emphysema is increasing every year and the common cold is the cause of more employment absent days than any other reason. We must renew our efforts to wipe out TB and to control other respiratory diseases. The monies raised in our Christmas Seal Campaign help do just that, but we need volunteers to help get that Campaign off the ground."

The Campaign starts on November 15, but before that date mailing lists must be brought up to date and the Christmas Seal letters prepared for mailing to 33,000 families in Newton.

"Volunteers who assist in the Christmas Seal Campaign," Mr. Sullivan added, "are giving the citizens of Newton a very important Christmas present: The promise of better health for themselves and for their families."

Present at this meeting were Mrs. William H. McCabe, Sr., General Seal Campaign Chairman of Newton Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Arthur Wood, Board Member and Chairman of Newton Community Club; Mrs. John Clark, Chairman of Newtonville Woman's Club; Mrs. John J. Ellsworth, Chairman of Newton Highlands Woman's Club; Mrs. Leonard Martin, Mrs. Charles Almy, Jr., Co-Chairman of Auburndale Woman's Club; Mrs. Raymond Capobianco, Chairman of Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club; Mrs. John FitzGerald, Chairman of West Newton Woman's Clubs.

Also Miss Mary Sheridan, Clerk of Board of Directors; Mrs. Edward Stone, Mrs. Harold Rice, Mrs. Russell Gundlach, Mrs. Ralph Barter, Mrs. Walter Prendergast, Mrs. Frank Herman, Mrs. Georgina Lane, Mrs Harold Vlass, Mrs. Richard Keyes, Mrs. Joseph Rockett, Mrs. Harold Hockridge, Miss Hilda G. Hope, Executive Director of Newton TB and Health Association; Mrs. William B. Price, and Mrs. Theresa Cameron of the staff.

Newton Pianist To Be Featured At Jr. College

Dr. Kenneth Wolf, a resident of Newton, will be the guest artist at the Newton Junior College Convocation to be held at 10:30 a.m., Tuesday, November 8, at the Newton High School Auditorium.

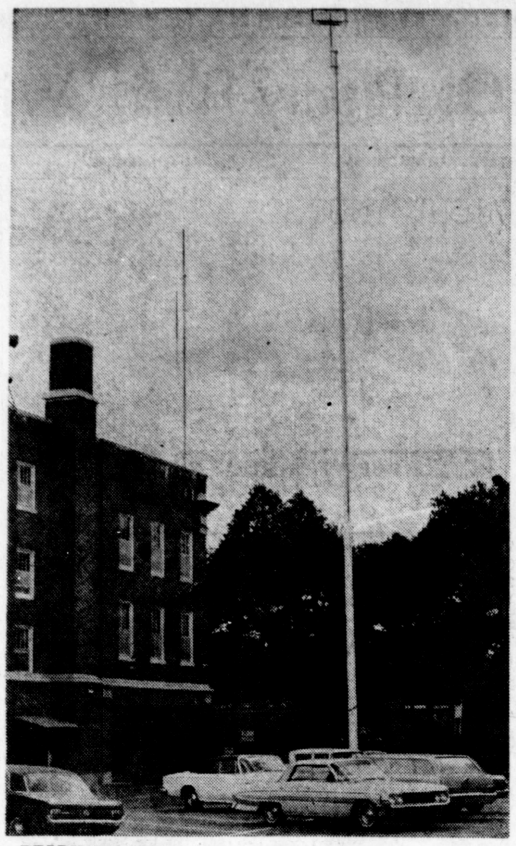
A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Wolf showed precocious musical gifts. His childhood teachers included Boris Goldovsky in piano and Arthur Shepard in composition; later he studied with Paul Hindemith.

Dr. Wolf's New York debut, in recital at Town Hall in 1949, was followed by performances of his own piano concerti by the Utah Symphony and by the Los Angeles Chamber Symphony, with Wolf as piano soloist. Other compositions by Wolf have been played on national concert tours by pianists Theodore Litvin and Eunice Podis, violinist Joseph Gingold, and French horn soloist Myron Bloom.

After graduation from Yale University at the age of fourteen, Dr. Wolf received his M.D. from Western Reserve University School of Medicine.

He has been occupied in medical research at the National Institute of Health and at the Harvard University Medical School, where he is currently an Instructor in Anatomy. At the same time he continues intense professional activity as both pianist and composer. He is now teaching a course in Beethoven at the Cambridge Center of Adult Education.

Dr. Wolf will present a program of Beethoven Sonatas and include a commentary. This event is free of charge and open to the public.



READY TO "CALL ALL CARS" — The new, 100-foot, Cardioid antenna installed behind Newton Police headquarters on Washington street, can withstand winds of 150 miles an hour — and without guy wires.
(Harvey E. Morse — Hub News Service Photo)

The Newton Police Force has a shiny new antenna behind its 1321 Washington St. headquarters.

A 100-foot Cardioid antenna has been set up, and Newtonites may be tempted to give it a wide berth since it has no guy wires. Passers-by can feel completely safe, however, for the antenna has been calculated to withstand 150 mile-per-hour winds.

The old antenna on Waban Hill will continue to be used in addition to the new antenna.

The recently installed apparatus is part of the equipment which will permit the Newton police a changeover from low frequency AM broadcasting to higher frequency FM emissions. The shift will give the Newton law officers greater independence in their transmissions since they will not have to share their wave bands with neighboring police forces.

Some 24 new mobile radio units have been purchased for installation in police cars, ambulances, and patrol wagons. The new police cars have not yet arrived. Walkie-talkies have also been bought for use by detectives.

The system is slated to be in operation shortly.

There is a complete auxiliary set-up in case the main transmitter fails.

Candidates To Attend Temple Breakfast Here

On Sunday, November 6th, Temple Reyim Brotherhood of Newton will present their 1966 Political Breakfast. The guest moderator for the morning will be Mayor Monte Basbas.

The program will begin promptly at 9 a.m. because the candidates who have accepted have a tight schedule. Those expected to speak will be Edward McCormack, Edward Brooke, Elliot Richardson, Margaret Heckler, Patrick Harrington and others.

Due to the close proximity to the election date, the candidates will be prompt and will have time in which to state their positions.

This Breakfast is one of the highlights of the year and both members and non-members are invited to attend.

Reservations may be made by calling either Nate Krasnigor at 332-1721 or Marvin Milton at 527-2313. There will only be a few tickets available at the door.

10 New Teachers Named To School System Here

Ten appointments and six resignations were approved unanimously at the last School Committee meeting.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Hartenstein was appointed kindergarten teacher at the Ward School effective October 17.

The other new teaching appointments were all student aides. Ellen M. Beck of Brandeis University was assigned to Davis School. Aviva J. Kligfeld of Brandeis University was assigned to the Cabot School. Alice Landis of Brandeis University was assigned to Angier School. And Leonard S. Green of Harvard University was assigned to Newton South High School. The last assignment was for the entire academic year 1966-1967; the other three student aides were assigned only for the first semester of the 1966-67 school year.

Jane C. Welch was given an additional assignment at the Lincoln-Eliot School under Title I of the 1965 Elementary Education Act.

At Newton Junior College in the Adult Education Division, Francesco Argento will teach one additional class in Beginning Italian. Robert F. Plumridge will teach three instead of six semester hours of Electric Circuits.

Two civil service appointments were ratified: Pamela E. Gardner was reinstated as permanent, full-time clerk and typist at the Weeks Junior High School; Ruth Morse was certified by the Civil Service Commission as a permanent full-time clerk and stenographer at the Weeks Junior High School.

There were two resignations from Newton schools. David B. Clemens at Newton South High School and Judith R. Foster from a special class at Peabody School. The latter resignation will become effective December 24 of this year.

The remaining resignations were at Newton Junior College and were due to cancellation of adult education classes because of insufficient enrollment. They are Janice R. Phillips, in Modern Mathematics, E. Margo Lane in Great Literature, Phyllis S. Burrows, in Creative Writing, and Mary K. Woodies, in Public Speaking.

Noted Rabbi To Preach At Unitarian Services

A Jewish view of the ecumenical movement will be presented during the "New Frontiers in Religion" series at the First Unitarian Society in Newton on Sunday, Nov. 6, at 11 a. m.

Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein, D.D., of K.A.M. Temple, Chicago, will be the second speaker in the fall shared pulpit series held at the West Newton church.

Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, minister, said, "The series' first speaker on Oct. 23, Dr. Douglas Horton, pointed out that Vatican II's momentum needs help. We are anxious now to hear the view of a noted rabbi regarding the status of the ecumenical movement."

RABBI WEINSTEIN

Rabbi Weinstein, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, is a native of Poland and came to the United States when he was six years old.

In 1923 he received his A.B. degree from Reed College and in 1929 was ordained rabbi by the Hebrew Union College, from which he was awarded the degree of doctor of divinity in 1955.

He is contributing editor to numerous publications and serves as an officer of many civic and communal organizations, among which is a position as national chairman of the National Committee for Labor Israel (Histadrut).

In 1961 President Kennedy appointed Rabbi Weinstein to the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities. That same year he was named to the Business Ethics Advisory Council by Secretary of Commerce Hodges.

For the past 20 years he has led his congregation in a program which seeks to make Hyde Park in Chicago a racially as well as a religiously integrated community. Under his leadership K.A.M. Temple has become recognized as a rallying force for the liberal spirit of the Middle West.

Following Rabbi Weinstein's sermon an open discussion will take place by members and friends of the West Newton congregation.

Split Shows In Political Poll At Newton High

Newton High School students voted a split ticket in which the Democrats generally came out on top in a straw vote taken this week. More importantly, however, their teachers, who will actually vote in next Tuesday's elections cast a solid Republican vote.

The biggest winner among the students was Newton resident Edward W. Brooke who beat Endicott Peabody by a 2-1 margin in the poll for the U. S. Senate candidates.

The candidate most heavily favored by the teachers was Elliot Richardson who obtained 80 percent of the faculty votes in the straw poll. Richardson was edged out by a slender margin by Francis X. Bellotti in the student vote for Attorney General.

In other contests mentioned in the poll, former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack led over Governor John A. Volpe, who is seeking re-election. In the race for Lieutenant Governor, Francis W. Sargent topped Joseph McGuire. In both instances the teachers favored the Republican candidates almost 2-1.

Hallowe'en Is Quiet In City

Halloween night for the the most part was orderly and orderly and quiet in Newton.

A few leaf fires were set in gutters, but all were extinguished before fire-fighters arrived. The fire department reported one false alarm.

Lawn decoration were stolen from two homes on Athelstane Rd., Newton Centre, and the plate glass window of a shop on Chestnut St., Newton Upper Falls, was damage with BB shot.

Two life-sized dummies were placed in the street and frightened several drivers until police "took the dummies into custody."

Small Girl Hurt When Hit By Car

A six-year-old Newton girl was hit by a car on Concord St. in Newton Lower Falls Monday night.

Laurie Prince of 16 Lafayette Rd. ran into a moving automobile, according to Richard Miner of Wellesley, operator of the car. He told police that two children dashed onto the street. The other child was not hurt.

The Prince girl was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital, where she was released after receiving several stitches in her scalp.

Young Newton Players Set For "Sara Crewe" Showing

Such delightful sentiments as "I Like Roofs" and "Children are a Blessing" are being put to music on the stage of South High these days, as rehearsals for "Sara Crewe," draw to a close. Production dates are Nov. 5th and 6th and the Young Newton Players are in high gear.

It was written especially for the Young Newton Players, a children's community theater group founded by Mrs. Boylan, and since then, "Sara Crewe" has been performed at many children's theaters across the country. However, the Young Newton Players feel a special "ownership" of this operetta, since they were the first to perform it.

This November, of course, the cast will be a different one from the original, those youngsters now being in high school. Mrs. Boylan features only grade school children in her plays.

"Sara Crewe" will be seen on Sat. Nov. 5th at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., and on Sunday, Nov. 6th at 2:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained by calling 332-6571.

Lay School Of Theology To Be Held

Residents of Newton have been invited to participate in special Lay School of Theology program at Andover Newton Theological School, 210 Herrick Rd., Newton Centre, scheduled Monday through Friday, November 7-11.

Study topics for the five evening sessions will be "The Christian Faith and Some Contemporary Alternatives," and "Interpersonal Relationships in the Home and Family."

Prof. George W. Peck, newly appointed seminary dean and professor of theology, and Dr. Henry C. Brooks, assistant professor of psychology and clinical studies, will lead the sessions.

The Lay School of Theology is an annual program offered by Andover Newton Theological School for church laymen interested in studying seriously basic Christian beliefs and relationships under the guidance of regular seminary faculty members.

Classes will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Dean Peck will speak from 7:30 to 8:20 each night, with Dr. Brooks conducting the last half of each class period from 8:40 to 9:30. Sessions will meet at Andover Newton in Stoddard Hall, a part of the seminary's new academic complex.

Advanced registrations may be made by contacting the Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, director of church and college relations at Andover Newton (phone 332-1100). Registrations will also be accepted at the first class session Monday night.

Dean Peck is a native of Australia who came to the United States two years ago to study at Harvard University. Just prior to coming to this country, he served five years as dean and principal of Eastern Theological College in Jorhat, India. He holds degrees from Queensland Baptist College, the University of Queensland, Melbourne College and the University of London.

Dr. Brooks has been a member of the Andover Newton faculty since 1958. He is a graduate of Storer College, Andover Newton and holds the doctor of philosophy degree from Boston University.

Before joining the Andover Newton faculty Dr. Brooks was associated with the Judge Baker Guidance Center at the Boston Juvenile Court, as assistant to the protestant chaplain at the Massachusetts State Prison and served as protestant chaplain at Boston City Hospital.

Sealer Strikes Keynote Before Southern Parley

The keynote address, "Building the Image of Weights and Measures Administration," was given by J. Ellis Bowen, Newton Sealer of Weights and Measures, at the annual conference of the Southern Weights and Measures Association in Charleston, S.C., last week.

"It is axiomatic," he said, "that a cultivated public support of such administrative activities can, and does, provide for its more full extension to meet its responsibilities in this age of increasingly sophisticated weighing and measuring devices and modern merchandising practices."

Young Violin Prodigy Featured In Concerts

Peter Zazofsky of Waban, twelve-year-old violin prodigy, will be the first guest celebrity of the season to be presented by the Newton High School Music Club at an assembly in the Auditorium of Building 3 on Tuesday, November 8 at 8:30 a.m.

He appeared last year at the Esplanade concerts with the Boston Symphony Orchestra playing the double concerto by Bach with Lynn Chang, also a Newtonite. Subsequently, he repeated this performance at the Boston Symphony Hall Youth concerts.

This time he shared the honors with his father, George Zazofsky, first violinist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. On Saturday, November 5, he is appearing in a solo recital at the Isabella Gardner Museum.

He is a seventh grade pupil at Weeks Junior High School. He has been studying violin with Mr. Joseph Silverstein of Newton Centre, concert master of the Boston Symphony, and piano and composition with Mr. Henry Lasker.

FATHER, SON SOLOISTS — George Zazofsky of Waban, left, first violinist of Boston Symphony Orchestra, and son, Peter, 12-year old violin prodigy. Peter will be featured in concerts, November 5 at Gardner Museum, and on November 8 at Newton High School Music Club.

SPEAKER McCORMACK WARNS REPUBLICANS

HOUSE SPEAKER John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said that the fate of administration programs depends in part on whether new Republican House members avoid the "blind opposition" that he said is characteristic of the GOP. Instead, the Republicans should vote and act constructively, he said in Boston. "If they're going to fall into the groove of blind opposition that characterizes 95 per cent of their colleagues, it will be more difficult to pass progressive legislation with the coalition that will exist," he said.

McCormack said the "proper constitutional role" of the opposition demands constructive support of worthy legislation even if it originates from the administration.

MASS. KILLER GIVEN FOUR LIFE TERMS

Albert Erickson had been accused of killing his wife and ex-wife, Beverly and Marian Erickson, and his two stepchildren, Frank and Mary Luduvico. Superior Court Judge John Meagher sentenced Erickson to four life sentences in Walpole state prison. He imposed the four life terms, the judge said, to cut the possibility of parole.

GE TO MAKE GUNS IN SPRINGFIELD ARMORY

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. announced Wednesday it will use part of the Springfield Armory to make guns for Viet Nam.

The company, the city of Springfield and the Army signed leases for 50,000 square feet of floor space in the Federal Square buildings of the armory which the Army plans to close by April, 1967. GE said work would require 500 employees by mid 1967 and 1,000 by 1968.

GOP STRENGTHENED FOR WHITE HOUSE DRIVE

REPUBLICANS viewed their impressive election gains Wednesday as a checkrein on President Johnson's Great Society program and a strengthening of their statehouse power base for the 1968 presidential contest.

The GOP came on stronger in Tuesday's midterm elections than either party had expected. Narrowing Democratic control, the Republicans scored an indicated net gain of 47 House seats, three Senate seats and at least seven governorships. The House boost compared with an average gain of 36 seats for the party out of power over the last 54 years.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen said the President would have to re-examine his Great Society goals and that the GOP gains had put "new life into the two-party system."

Potential GOP presidential hopefuls for 1968 were pushed ahead. They included Govs. Romney of Michigan, Rockefeller of New York and Rhodes of Ohio, Gov.-elect Reagan of California, and Sens.-Elect Percy of Illinois, Brooke of Mass. and Hatfied of Oregon.

JANUARY DRAFT QUOTA SET AT 27,600

The quota was 10,500 below the 37,600-man draft this month, but 2,600 above the 25,000 figure given by Defense Sec. McNamara last weekend as the average for the next four months. The draft for December has been set at only 12,100 to allow for a two-week suspension during the Christmas holidays.

'FLYING BLOOD' EVIDENCE JOLTS SHEPPARD CASE

THE STATE rested its direct case in the re-trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard at Cleveland Wednesday, after startling the courtroom with new testimony by a blood technician who said the defendant's wrist watch was speckled with "flying drops—blood in motion."

The testimony was given by Mary Cowan, laboratory chief for the coroner's office. She was the 14th and final state witness in its attempt to send the osteopathic brain surgeon back to jail for life. Miss Cowan implied the wrist watch had been worn by the killer who struck Marilyn Sheppard, 31, the four-month pregnant wife of Dr. Sheppard, 25 savage blows as she lay on her bed in her home.

Dr. Sheppard was seen to have been wearing the watch by a couple who left the Sheppards' suburban home around midnight July 3, 1954.

U. S. ATTACK PILES UP 865 CONG DEAD

U.S. INFANTRY Wednesday night claimed a major victory over a Viet Cong division after killing 293 Communist guerrillas who charged at them from all sides in a desperate jungle attack northwest of Saigon. The U.S. troops found 95 other Communist dead stacked up in caves.

The heavy Viet Cong toll exacted by the 1st Infantry Division raised to at least 865 the number of Communist killed by American forces sweeping the jungles near the Cambodian border in Operation Attleboro — one of the war's most successful campaigns.

Troops also seized the biggest Communist arms cache they had ever found. It included 25 machine guns, 17 submachine guns, 490 land mines, 11 mines against ships, 481 Claymore mines, 19,200 grenades and 1,000 pounds of explosives.

Brooke, Volpe Run Even In City

William A. Lincoln of Newton was unsuccessful in his fight to wrest a State Senate seat away from Senator Beryl Cohen of Brookline. Lincoln was unable to carry the Newton section of the senatorial district.

Governor John A. Volpe and Attorney General Edward W. Brooke ran almost neck and neck in Newton, each piling up a plurality of close to 16,000 votes in the city.

Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson failed to do quite as well as expected in Newton.

Surveys had indicated that Richardson would pile up the biggest lead in Newton of any of the Republican candidates.

Instead his plurality on the city was more than 3000 votes below those of Volpe and Brooke and 1423 less than that of Francis W. Sargent.

This was interpreted by political analysts to mean that Richardson lost support in Newton because of his fiery dispute with Francis X. Bellotti over $12,000 in insurance fees Bellotti received while Lieutenant Governor.

Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler's purality in Newton also dropped below expectations because of the drive Senator Edward W. Kennedy and other Democratic leaders put on for Patrick H. Harrington, Jr., who was battling Mrs. Heckler for the seat held on Capitol Hill by Congressman Joseph W. Martin for the past 42 years.

However, the pluralities Mrs. Heckler piled up in Newton and in neighboring Needham, Wellesley and Westwood enabled her to overcome Harrington's advantage in Bristol County and win the election.

Newton residents voted more than 5-1 to retain the 3 per cent limited sales tax.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas had told the people of Newton that the repeal of the sales tax would mean a big increase in the city's tax rate next year. Newton voters responded in overwhelming fashion by balloting to keep the sales tax.

On Question 5 — the referendum labor leaders had placed on the ballot in a move to repeal the sales tax — the yes-vote to retain the sales tax was 31,680 in Newton as compared to a no-vote of only 5899 to repeal the tax.

Democratic Representative Joseph G. Bradley was the high vote-getter in the four-way fight for two House seats in the 4th Middlesex legislative district. Representative Paul F. Malloy came in a close second as he also won reelection.

Bradley polled 7329 votes and Malloy 7291. Wigmore A. Pierson and Arthur S. Scipione, who placed third and fourth respectively, drew 5770 and 5763 votes in their unsuccessful runs.

The voters in the 5th Middlesex legislative district split their ballots as they reelected Republican Representative Theodore D. Mann and Democratic Representative Irving Fishman.

Mann finished first in the contest with 14,462 votes, and Fishman was second with 11,541. The two losers were Republican Benjamin Shattuck who ran third with 7288 votes and Democrat Edward H. Pendergast, Jr., who trailed in fourth place with 5639 votes.

William A. Lincoln, whose hope of winning a seat in the State Senate rested on his ability to roll up a good plurality in the three Newton wards which are included in the Norfolk - Suffolk senatorial district, trailed Senator Cohen by 1231 votes in his home city.

Ex-Representative Irene K. Thresher, former Newton resident and legislator, carried the city in her bid for election as County Commissioner.

A total of 40,958 men and women, representing a whopping 84.67 per cent of the city's eligible voters, went to the polls.

Newton Native Wins Air Medal for Reserve

A young Newton Air Force scientist received the Airman's Medal for heroism last week for saving the lives of three college students in Maine four months ago.

"It was simply a matter of being in the right place at the right time. I'm just glad I was there," said 1st Lt. Richard S. Williams, Jr., as he modestly summed up the deed.

Cited for rescuing the students "With complete disregard for his own safety . . .", Williams was presented the medal by Brig. Gen. Ernest A. Local Women Win Spain Dream Trip

A dream came true last Monday for two Newton area women. They won a two weeks vacation in Spain in which they'll live in a castle like queens.

The lucky women are Mrs. Marion V. Snodgrass, of Natick, a nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and Miss Eileen Palmer, of West Newton.

The pair are grand prize winner in a nationwide consumer sweepstakes for Bank of America travelers cheques. The women will each receive a first class flight for two to sunny Oropesa, Spain, where they will occupy an elegant castle suite for two weeks in the "Parador Nacional de Turismo" castle, with all expenses paid, and the services of personal maids and butlers. In addition, they will have at their disposal a limousine and chauffeur, plus $100 in Bank of American travelers cheques for spending money.

The dream came true because Mrs. Snodgrass, a widow of 5 Judith rd., Natick, decided to take a two-weeks vacation in New Mexico last month. "It was my first real vacation in years," she said in commenting on the Cinderella story.

One of the first things she did was drop by the Newton Savings Bank to get her travelers checks. The bank, as it turned out, was participating in Bank of America's Travelers Cheques' consumer sweepstakes and Mrs. Snodgrass' purchase slip became an automatic entry.

Stanton Wins Election To School Board

A 36-year-old securities analyst was elected to fill a vacancy on the School Committee last Monday night at a joint meeting of the Committee and the Board of Aldermen.

On a 27-1 secret ballot, Vincent Paul Stanton, of 19 Hyde ave., Newton, was chosen Committeeman from Ward 7, the position made vacant by the resignation of Hugh M. Tomb. He will serve Tomb's unexpired term of office until January, 1968.

Stanton, a Newton native and a Boston College graduate who received his master's degree in business administration from Harvard, was selected from more than 25 candidates.

According to Alderman William E. Hopkins, chairman of a special committee appointed to recommend a suitable person to fill the vacancy, Stanton stated that he would stand for election by the citizens in the fall of 1967.

In addition to Hopkins, the special committee comprised the other two members of the Board representing Ward 7, Jason Sacks and H. James Shea Jr., and Harold J. Berman, chairman of the School Committee.

Volpe Catapulted To Front As GOP Presidential Hope

Governor Volpe not only won reelection to the first four-year term in the Massachusetts Governorship in Tuesday's history-making election, but the massive margin by which he carried a basically Democratic State catapulted him into the forefront as a prospective candidate for the Republican nomination for President or Vice President two years from now.

There was no evidence of any strong white backlash as Attorney General Edward W. Brooke defeated ex-Governor Endicott Peabody to become the first Negro to sit in the United States Senate since Reconstruction Days.

Whether Volpe's victory or Brooke's triumph was the more spectacular is a question over which the political experts will be arguing for some time to come, but the wins scored by both men had national significance and attracted nation-wide attention.

While some Newton Republicans cut Attorney General Brooke in the September primary when he was unopposed, the same knifing did not show up on Tuesday's returns.

Of the 40,958 citizens who went to their polling places in Newton Tuesday, 954 did not vote for either candidate for the U. S. Senate.

At the same time, however, 581 didn't vote for either candidate for Governor, while 1422 blanked the contest for Attorney General, a reflection of the feeling over the Richardson - Bellotti insurance fee row.

Secretary of State Kevin H. White was the top Democrat vote-getter in Newton, polling 26,886 votes and topping Raymond M. Trudel, his Republican opponent, by 14,465 votes.

White's plurality in Newton was exceeded only by those of Volpe and Brooke.

Volpe carried the city by 15,845 votes and Brooke by 15,770 votes.

The returns made it plain that many Newton voters crossed back and forth over party lines after marking their ballots for the candidates in the top two contests.

OAR since the command was established.

The Newton native is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Williams, Sr., who live at 475 Webster st., Needham Heights. His wife is the former Mary Ellen Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Davis, of 8 Berkshire rd., Framingham.

The 28-year-old lieutenant is a geologist assigned to OAR's Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories at L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford. He earned a Ph.D. in geology from Pennsylvania State University in 1965 and has served on active duty since that time.

Last July, Lt. Williams and his wife were vacationing in Maine. The inn at which they were staying had several cottages, and the Williams' occupied one close to the water.

At about 1:30 in the morning of July 11, they were awakened by cries for help. Williams had no flashlight and in the darkness was unable to see anyone. Convinced the cries came from the ocean, he sent his wife to the inn to arouse other guests, while he found and launched a small boat.

The sea was running high as a result of storms which passed through the area earlier, but Williams took up oars and began rowing in the direction of the cries.

Following the sound of the frantic voices, he soon found three persons in the water clinging to an overturned boat. He brought the trio back to shore and safety.

The students, all summer employees of the inn, said they had been to a party on an off-shore island. A half-mile from shore their small, outboard capsized in the rough water. Wisely staying with the overturned boat, the students tried to kick shoreward but the rough, cold water soon exausted them. Still several hundred yards from the mainland, they began to call for help.

Fortunately, Lt. Williams heard them.

In a letter to Col. Robert F. Long, commander of the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, the inn manager stated:

"Words do not adequately evaluate such an act of heroism, but I, as well as all of my staff, am exceedingly grateful to Lt. Williams."

Service Award Dinner Climaxes Fund Campaign

Irving Schwartz, of 301 Waverly ave., Newton, is chairman of the Second Annual Community Service Award Dinner to be held Sunday night, Nov. 20, at the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel under the auspices of the New England Friends of the Jewish Theological Seminary.

The affair will be attended by a delegation of 200 Newton residents representing Temple Mishkan Tefila, Temple Emanuel and Temple Emeth.

Schwartz, a trustee of Temple Mishkan Tefila, was recently awarded the Seminary's Eightieth Anniversary Medal "for the contributions he has made to the advancement of Judaism and society in general."

Actively interested in education, Schwartz serves as a member of the President's Committee at Tufts University and is a member of the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education Assistance Corp.

"This dinner," Schwartz said, "serves as a climax to the 1966 campaign to help the Jewish Theological Seminary raise $35 million for capital and endowment programs."

A special feature of the event will be the presentation of a live dramatization in which Broadway and television star Walter Abel will play the leading role.

Chairman Named By Local Red Cross Chapter

Edward Michaud, chairman, Newton Chapter American Red Cross, has appointed Mrs. Walter Hill chairman of In-Chapter Volunteers; Phillip Miller, chairman of the House and Grounds Committee, and Mrs. Stanley Epstein, vice chairman of Office of Volunteers.

In-Chapter Volunteers are greatly needed. They work as receptionists, do filing, typing and other clerical work.

The House and Grounds Committee supervises the physical plant and sees that it is in good repair.

The American Red Cross, Mr. Michaud stated, is governed by volunteers and most of its duties are performed by volunteers. When national emergencies arise, volunteer services increase in all the programs, i.e., service to the Armed Forces, service to veterans, disaster, blood, nursing, safety, international service and youth services. These volunteers are especially trained in their chapter and community work.

The Merrill Fellows program is an experiment in continuing theological education made possible through the generosity of the Charles E. Merrill Trust, Inc. Applicants must be currently engaged in the ministry and must have been so for at least five years.

Fellows are selected on the basis of their sense of need and their openness to serious consideration of the problems and possibilities of the renewal of the church and its ministry. Five Merrill Fellows are selected each fall and spring term. The course of study continues for 13 weeks.

Since the contest called for a duplicate prize for seller-bank employees, Miss Palmer, the teller that served Mrs. Snodgrass received an equivalent prize.

The two women will have until Sept., 1967, to each schedule a two week vacation for two. Once they have made their respective decisions, they'll fly first class to Spain for their "trip of a lifetime."

The sweepstakes was the third contest to be sponsored by the Bank of America. Two previous contests were for seller-bank employees only, but this year the bank included purchasers of its travelers cheques as well.

The bank is distributing 632 other prizes to winners around the United States and Mexico.

Exhibit Of Optical Art At Newton Corner Library

An exhibit of optical art at three levels of student accomplishment is on display this week at Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton.

With the assistance of Al Hurwitz, coordinator of art for the Newton Public Schools, two Newton teachers have lent samples of this dynamic type of art work from their classes.

Lawrence Kupferman, a professor at Massachusetts College of Art, and also a Newton resident, says about the painter: "Warren Alessis is one of the new young generation of contemporary artists. In his painting he is concerned with the special dynamics, speed and tempo of our scientific civilization. He is trying to come to grips with the special characteristics of thought and light in our own time."

Visitors to the exhibit, which remains on view until late November, will receive a pamphlet which describes the display and lists Mr. Alessi's works. A special OP Comment Box is available to receive written reactions to this new concept of form in painting.

The People's Right

Vincent P. Stanton unquestionably is well qualified to be a member of the Newton School Committee. The likelihood is that he will perform a valuable service as a member of the School Board.

However, the Graphic supports vigorously the objection of Alderman H. James Shea to the manner in which vacancies are filled when they occur on the Board of Aldermen or the School Committee.

It is the right of the citizens of Newton to elect the officials who serve them on the Aldermanic and School Boards.

But as Alderman Shea well pointed out, the procedure now used in filling a vacancy on either board is essentially that of an "in-group appointment."

Most members of the Board of Aldermen will be quick to reply that the present law does not allow the city to hold a special election to fill a vacancy on the School or Aldermanic Board although, as Alderman Shea observed, a special advisory election could be conducted.

However, the fact is that the existing law should be changed.

Alderman Shea has announced that he will file a bill for the consideration of the incoming Legislature which not only would permit but would require special elections to fill such vacancies.

All Newton legislatures who believe in the Democratic process and that the people of our city have the right of self-government should join in supporting Alderman Shea's measure.

New Conservation Board Given Okay By Aldermen

A matter long pending before the Board of Aldermen was settled Monday night, when establishment of a Conservation Commission under the General Laws of the State, was approved by a vote of 17 to 5, with two Aldermen absent.

Reporting as chairman of the Claims and Rules committee, Aldermen Franklin N. Flaschner reviewed previous action on the proposal by the Board, saying that it was voted down two years ago because sufficient funds from the state for acceptance of the statute were not available. However, he said, enough money has been made available to attract the interest of 251 out of the State's 351 communities, which have established conservation commissions. He said that $300,000 of the state's $400,000 is still left.

Those Aldermen voting "no" on establishment of a conservation commission were Melvin J. Dangel, William P. Matthews, John P. Nixon, Edward C. Uehlein and Harry L. Walen. The absentees were Paul J. Burke and Erneth F. Dietz.

The above matter was given a separate vote. Other matters, on which Flaschner reported for Claims and Rules were acted on as follows:

Approval was given, petition for a new front entrance shelter for parking lot attendants at the Garden City Country Club, which does business as the Chestnut Hill Country Club. Flascher explained that plans to which many of the club's neighbors objected at a public hearing on the petition had been revised to meet many of the objections. A different location for the parking of the club clientele's cars eliminated the complaint that patrons' departure would be noisy, he declared.

The petition of the Jenney Manufacturing Company for permission to modernize its filling station at 2322 Washington St., Newton Lower Falls, was approved.

The Board accepted the committee's recommendation for the denial of Leon Babloulzian's petition for a change of zone from Residence B District to Residence E District. This involved a large section of land in Newtonville bounded by Lowell Ave. Otis St., Walnut St. and the northerly side of Highland Ave. If the petition had been granted, the area would have become one of multiple-resident homes. The rejection of the application means that only two-family homes will be allowed there.

Political Highlights

Neither Volpe nor Brooke had what could be termed an easy fight. Both were opposed by popular Democrats who were tested vote-getters and had won state-wide elections. Edward J. McCormack had served two terms as Attorney General, Peabody one term as Governor.

But Volpe simply overpowered McCormack, even topping McCormack in Democratic Boston and then sweeping on to roll up a staggering plurality in the State.

The surprising thing about Volpe's impressive victory over McCormack was that surveys last May, including one made for Volpe himself by a professional polling organization, showed McCormack running slightly ahead of Volpe.

That was immediately after the first Democratic blast had been leveled at Peter Volpe, the Governor's brother, for advising State Administration Commissioner John J. McCarthy on the selection of one of the architects for the University of Massachusetts Medical School.

But after the Democratic and Republican State Conventions in June, Volpe began to pick up strength and speed, and McCormack started to fade, at least partly because of the feeling engendered by his primary fight with former Presidential Aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell.

There's a saying in politics that hindsight has 20-20 vision, but it seems apparent now that the McCormack camp was beating a political dead horse when it continued to bear down on the issue of the selection of a medical school architect.

It also is pretty evident that McCormack's assertion that a Volpe aide offered him a judgeship late in 1962 didn't cause any shift of votes to McCormack.

McCormack's campaign never really caught fire. There were actually no clearcut issues in the Volpe-McCormack fight which excited the voters.

A majority of the people were convinced that Volpe was an honest, competent Governor who had tried to do the right thing, and this was an impression McCormack was unable to overcome or break down.

Unless McCormack changes his mind, this was his last political fight, and he bid farewell to public life when he made his gracious concession speech to Volpe.

With the tremendous vote of confidence he received, Volpe should be much more successful in gaining approval of his program in the Legislature.

Things couldn't look much brighter politically for Volpe than they do right now, and he must be privately thinking in terms of 1968.

While Massachusetts is not strategically located from a political standpoint, the fact is that the Republican party might have a difficult time finding a candidate who would have a better chance of winning the Presidency in 1968 than Volpe even though he is discussed mostly as a Vice Presidential prospect.

Attorney General Brooke probably would have achieved election to Leverett Saltonstall's seat in the U. S. Senate regardless of what kind of campaign Endicott Peabody conducted.

But Peabody might have made a stronger showing if he had not played it quite so cool and if he had not tried to coast home without engaging in combat or controversy.

Peabody's drive was moving in high gear after his defeat of Boston Mayor John F. Collins in the September primary, but it began to falter and stutter in late September and early October.

An ironical aspect to the Senate race was that Brooke late last week received a poll which showed him winning by just about his actual election night plurality. The trouble was that none of the experts believed the poll figure.

One of the amazing developments produced by Tuesday's election was the tremendous margin by which the people of Massachusetts voted to retain the limited 3 per cent sales tax.

Labor leaders placed the sales tax referendum on the ballot in the expectation that the voters would jump at the opportunity to wipe out the tax.

However, the maneuvre backfired. Instead of knocking out the tax, the voters overwhelmingly endorsed it.

What this probably means is that the Legislature next year will vote to continue the tax.

As matters presently stand, the sales tax is scheduled to die at the end of 1967 unless the Legislature extends it.

The vote on the sales tax referendum might well be construed as a mandate from the people to retain the sales tax rather than substitute any other tax for it.

A hot debate which will rage for weeks in political circles is whether Liteutenant Governor Richardson helped or hurt his bid for the Attorney Generalship when he made a campaign issue of the $12,000 in insurance fees Bellotti received while he was Lieutenant Governor.

All the evidence indicates that Richardson lost votes because of the impression many people gained that he was levelling on 11th hour political attack at Bellotti even though his statements were based on sworn documents filed at the State House.

Polls made just before Bellotti's insurance fees became the hotest issue of the entire campaign indicated that Richardson had turned the corner in his drive for the Attorney Generalship, that he had come from behind, overtaken Bellotti and was moving into the lead.

With the big pluralities rolled up by Governor Volpe and Attorney General Brooke, Richardson probably would have won election as Attorney General by a comfortable margin if the insurance fees had never been mentioned in the campaign.

Instead, Richardson found himself engaged in a tight, tense, pulse-stopping cliff-hanger with Bellotti on election night.

Richardson, his top advisers and his supporters spent a long, fingernail-biting night as the election returns were slowly being tabulated.

Projections indicated a Richardson victory, especially after the Lieutenant Governor held Bellotti to a plurality of 43,000 in Democratic Boston where the political rule of thumb is that a Democratic contender must carry the capital city by more than 50,000 in order to win in the state.

But after the polls close the jittery, anxious candidates want vote totals, not projections.

Even the experts who projected a Richardson win had moments of anxiety about their estimates as Bellotti ran well enough to win in some areas only to have Richardson surge ahead in other sections.

At 3 o'clock on the morning after election, with approximately 700,000 votes counted, Richardson and Bellotti stood dead even.

Then Richardson slowly began to build up a lead and headed for the victory which came so hard.

Governor Volpe's whopping plurality was enough to pull Francis W. Sargent into the Lieutenant Governorship and overcome Joseph E. McGuire's strength in central Massachusetts.

If Volpe should be elected President or Vice President in 1968, Sargent, not Richardson, would step into the Governorship.

This, of course, was a calculated risk Richardson took when he passed up virtually certain reelection as Lieutenant Governor and chose instead to battle the politically potent Bellotti for the Attorney Generalship.

If Volpe is not elected President or Vice President two years from now, Richardson looms as the probable GOP nominee for Governor in 1970.

Massachusetts now has a Congresswoman. Pert, peppy Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler in January will become the 11th feminine member of the national House.

The pluralities Mrs. Heckler rolled up in Newton, Needham, Westwood and Wellesley enabled her to wipe out the lead Patrick H. Harrington piled up in Bristol County and sweep on to an impressive victory.

It wasn't an easy fight for Mrs. Heckler. Harrington made a strong bid for support in the northern end of the district, especially in Newton where Democratic leaders rallied solidly behind him.

Mrs. Heckler was cut by many supporters of Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who resented the fact that she opposed and toppled old Joe in the primary.

In the end Councillor Heckler weathered the political storm, went on to win a seat in Congress and today is a public figure of national prominence.

Her spectacular triumph resulted in no small measure from the energetic work of her lady supporters who demonstrated that the hand which rocks the cradle can also pack a devastating political punch.

LETTER

Seeks Morale Boost For Sightless Man

Editor of The Graphic:

I am writing to you in behalf of a blind friend who needs a boost in his effort to help himself. A little publicity will help him, will advise your readers of the availability of his service, and may build a future advertising customer for you.

George Sullivan is starting a chair repair service at 26 Maple Ave., Newton. Trained under the sponsorship of the Massachusetts Division of the Blind, he is qualified to recane chairs, and to replace pith and rush chair bottoms.

A 50-year-old diabetic, Mr. Sullivan worked as an executive housekeeper in several of our large local hospitals, and was a trouble shooter for a floor wax manufacturer before he lost his sight three years ago. His telephone number is 969-9479.

In his hearty, good humored manner, he says that he is going to work his seeing eye dog, Yana, into the business by sending her back to school for a graduate course in distinguishing the denominations of dollar bills, a task which is beyond him.

Lee Loumos Says:

In an effort to be as astute a merchant as possible, I continually ask my customers why they patronize me. Invariably the answer is that the prompt and personal service we give, and is so seldom available elsewhere, constitutes our major advantage. No one who enters our store is kept waiting; telephones are answered promptly by a responsible person and service calls are completed either the same day or never later than the following day. Couple this with very competitive prices and you have every reason to patronize your local servicing dealer every time over the large impersonal super store. If you haven't tried us in the past, why not do yourself a favor and call upon us now for your current needs in either stereo or color TV?

The "Silver Whistle," a comedy in three acts is written by Robert McEnroe. The marvelous show will be presented Friday, November 18, 1966 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, November 19, 1966, at 8 p.m. plus a special Alumni Night Wednesday, November 20, 1966.

The citation states that Miss Turtle "is among the unsung heroines behind the scenes of the college—one who does not claim a Bates degree, but whose interest, devotion and meticulous attention to detail have won the admiration and affection of those who know her."

As editorial assistant to the publications advisor of Bates College, she has worked for 23 years on college publications.

"Her duties, editing copy, proofreading, working on layouts and illustrations, are the obvious manifestations of a job well done," the citation goes on to say. "Assistance in the preparaions of 70 issues of both The Alumnus and News Bulletin, as well as 23 issues of the Bates College catalogue and innumerable other pieces of college literature is tangible evidence of years of service."

Singing Beauty Has Had Wide Global Career

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Thirty years ago a steady stream of superstitious natives in Calcutta, India, visited Eden Hospital to see Kiki Paige.

She was the first white child born at Eden Hospital—and the locals considered it good luck to cast their eyes upon her.

Now people patronize a Las Vegas "Strip" hotel to cast their eyes on Kiki for another reason.

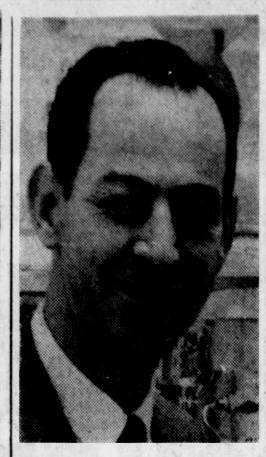
The 5-foot-4, 123-pound brunette is the swinging, singing star of the "Hello America" show at the Desert Inn Hotel, a production which was mentioned in the Congressional record because of its patriotic flavor.

Kiki came close to being born in a truck instead of the hospital. Her American parents were touring the world with a unicycle act at the time.

"When you get right down to it, I had no childhood, not as others know one anyway, she said. Had my mother and father been touring in a smaller Indian community, I literally might have been born in a trunk. Conditions in India in the remote regions were not—and probably still aren't—good for the delivery of babies."

Kiki made her theatrical debut as a singer-dancer at the age of four. Then she became expert on a unicycle and graduated to an aerial and swimming act.

DEDHAM GIRLS Vicki Locke and Mary Scafati are working in new Bradlees in the Charles River Arcade. Vicki and Mary are busily preparing the cosmetics department for the many shoppers expected to delight in its rose embossed carpet and crystal lighting.



MANAGER of Bradlees department store in Charles River Arcade is James Trainor. He was store manager with Zayres prior to joining Bradlees in 1964 and attended Boston University to further his knowledge of the industry.

Bradlee's Department Store On Chas. River Arcade Opens Monday

Bradlees department store in the Charles River Arcade, Dedham, will welcome its first neighbors on Monday, Nov. 14, at 10 o'clock with ribbon cutting ceremonies presided over by Dedham town dignitaries and Stop & Shop/Bradlees officials.

Shopping will be a "sweet" experience for the first thousand customers as attractive hostesses will pass out miniature boxes of chocolates—a housewarming gift from Bradlees.

In 1961, Bradlees, then a chain of five discount department stores located in Western Massachusetts and Connecticut, merged with Stop & Shop, Inc., well-known New England food chain.

The talents and experience of the 51-year-old supermarket chain were used during the following years to evaluate, study, improve and re-organize this new division. The latest results will be seen when neighbors visit the newest addition to the growing chain on Monday.

Bradlees in the Charles River Arcade is more than a new store . . . it's a whole new wonderful world right at your fingertips. You'll step from the enclosed mall into the magnificent cosmetic department featuring your favorite brand name goods as well as luxury cosmetics, perfumes and powders. Roses beneath your feet and crystal chandeliers lighting your way give only a hint of the glamor awaiting the lady of the house in the wonderful world of Bradlees.

The store offers an expanse of nearly 60,000 square feet of shopping space filled with a complete line of department store merchandise. The very latest in decor and equipment has been used to make this the most modern and exciting department store of its type in the greater Dedham area.

Because of the large quantity buying, mass displays in stores, and self-service operating procedure, Bradlees is able to offer top quality merchandise at amazingly low prices. Bradlees is one of the few chains that sends buyers thousands of miles a year from New York to California, Italy, Spain, England, France and the Orient to search out the latest fashions and solid values from these distant markets. This vast variety of merchandise makes each Bradlees store a shoppers' paradise.

Every single item offered in a Bradlees department store is first quality with a money-back guaranee. The operating policy of "accent on quality . . . emphasis on value"' has been warmly accepted and much of the amazing growth must be credited to this method of operation.

Computer Fights River Pollution

FORT WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — Electronic "sentinels" will one day patrol every American river to help curb water pollution.

Their findings — the degree of a river's pollution and the cause — will be recorded automatically on paper tape for later computer processing and analysis, according to A. H. Keyser, water quality official of Honeywell, Inc., here.

He said that, by the end of 1967, more than 100 of these water quality sentinels will be in operation throughout the United States.

"Pollution control depends upon accurate and reliable data on the quality of a river's water at any given moment," he said. "Data collection systems, even though unattended and in remote locations, can do this and transmit their findings rapidly."

Only a few of the nation's key waterways — the Ohio, Delaware and Potomac rivers and Puget Sound — are now being monitored to any extent, Keyser said.

Beginning next year, systems developed by Honeywell in cooperation with the U.S. Geological Survey will be installed on rivers in Ohio, Texas, California, Oregon, Nebraska, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, North Carolina, Connecticut and Maine. They will form the beginning of what eventually will be a coast-to-coast network of water pollution monitors.

Iron Curtain Eases Travel Restrictions

By THOMAS A. CRAWFORD, JR.
United Press International

BELGRADE (UPI) — Yugoslavia has taken another step to lift the Iron Curtain with a decree to liberalize procedures and requirements for its citizens who wish to travel abroad.

Like the regulation it supersedes, the decree stipulates that exit permits (called visas in Serbo-Croatian) will be valid for one year.

But applicants under the new decree may apply for permits for single trips, several journeys, or unrestricted border crossings during the one-year period. Up to now, Yugoslavs have had to reapply for a new exit permit for each trip abroad.

The liberalization is designed to benefit an estimated 200,000 Yugoslavs now working abroad, relatives of Yugoslavs abroad, businessmen, delegations, and residents of border areas.

Yugoslav newspapers said the decree, would remove a financial burden from the applicants and an administrative burden from the government.

The liberalization is a logical consequence of increased freedom being granted to Yugoslavs to travel abroad.

A Belgrade daily has called the Yugoslav-Italian frontier the busiest border in Europe. There also is a steady stream across the Slovenian-Austrian Alps.

In recent years and months, Yugoslavia has concluded agreements with several countries abolishing visa requirements.

Of course, passport and visa control is not the only means to limit travel.

Yugoslavia's Socialist neighbors apply stringent financial restrictions on their citizens. And Yugoslavs, many of whom have foreign currency bank accounts at home or abroad, are required to declare the source of these funds.

One Belgrade daily has reported that a proposal was expected to abolish this foreign currency declaration requirement.

George A. Marsh Elected To Quarter Century C

George A. Marsh of 1[illegible] Concord St., Newton, has been elected a member of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston. An assistant cashier in the real estate division of the bank, he joined Shawmut in 1941.

He was welcomed to membership in the Quarter Century Club by Lawrence H. Martin, Shawmut president at a dinner meeting of the group held in Boston recently.

Naturally, he's been a Head man for years. Skied the classic Standard, for openers . . . moved up to the Master . . . then to the hot Competition. This year he's discovered Head's new 360, only the most versatile ski ever built. So he has also discovered TF-8, the radically smooth, tough base now on all Head Skis (and no others).

Newton Women Voters League Sponsors 2nd Membership Night

The League of Women Voters of Newton is sponsoring a second membership coffee evening to be held next Monday, (Nov. 14) at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Allan Mann, 26 Merrill Rd., Newton Centre.

Due to the many requests from prospective members, it was decided to hold another membership coffee in order to accommodate the women of Newton who are interested in learning more about the League and its activities.

The League has been most active in Voters Service these past months before the election, informing the electorate on the issues, assembling and distributing a Voters Guide, and arranging Candidates Night in order to bring the candidates face to face with the voters of Newton. Among the topics to be tackled by the League in the coming weeks are Public Education, Water Resources, and Structure of State Government.

At the Coffee Meeting on Monday, the subject under discussion will be an examination of our State government: the Executive and Legislative branches — past and future. The speakers will be Mrs. Ernest Picard, Mrs. Nicholas Wolfson, and Mrs. M. D. Erlich. Greetings will be extended by the president, Mrs. Proctor Houghton.

All women eligible to vote can join the League of Women Voters. Anyone who is interested is welcome to attend the Membership Coffee or to contact Membership Chairman, Mrs. Robert Barris at 969-8459; or Mrs. Robert Sales at 969-6832.

St. Demetrios Boutique Bazaar To Have Many Fine Attractions

Art lovers, gourmets and anyone who appreciates the unusual in boutique items are invited to the Christmas Boutique Bazaar sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church of Newton - Wellesley, 2342 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, Saturday, Nov. 19, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., on the church grounds.

This year the committee has put emphasis on the original and everything designed is hard-crafted and will be sold at modest prices.

The committee members, many of them artists, in their own right, have designed outstanding articles, such as Scandinavian birds made of colorful felt for Christmas tree ornaments similar to the ones sold by Georg Jensen of New York and Copenhagen.

Mrs. James Petrakos has acquired for her booth of paintings, many by Boston's outstanding artists, such as watercolors by Charles Demetropoulos, Oils by Steve Stravopoulos, Louis Stamoulis, Mrs. Edward Meissner, Miss Florence Kostarelos, and ceramics by Robert Andrews, all modestly priced.

Children's Corner chairman, Mrs. Geo. Meimaris, has been working with her committee for weeks making felt hand-puppets, stuffed animals and dolls, cobbler aprons and painting smocks for the younger set and teenagers. With emphasis on gifts the children may buy for their teachers and parents.

Mrs. George Xydeas of Newton, who has charge of baked goods, is promising the traditionally popular pastries of Greece, together with gourmet delights ready for your freezer in time for the holiday season.

There will be all the usual attractions found at affairs of this kind, including aprons, varied types of Yule decorations, flowers, jams, jellies, etc., and Mrs. George Samelles of Newton, is providing the latter in many tempting varieties.

Women Voters Units To Examine Public Education

From Nov. 16 through 18, the League of Women Voters of Newton will conduct a unit on Public Education.

In this unit the League will be examining the new Board of Education, its structure, powers, and duties. The relationship of the new state Board of Education and the local school committees will be reviewed. The League will be looking into areas where minimum standards might be set, and discussing services that the Board of Education might render communities to help them achieve quality education.

At each unit a representative of the committee on public education will serve as a resource person. The committee, headed by Mrs. Robert Rediker, and Mrs. Malcolm Green, includes Mrs. John Lorad, Mrs. William Woehrlin, Mrs. Eugene Bronstein, Mrs. Calvin Saravis, Mrs. Richard Goldman, Mrs. Jack Barber, Mrs. Ira Dyer, and Mrs. Martin Saklad.

Mrs. Rediker's committee poses some questions to consider on public education. What requirements will the board make to insure that all schools in the state will offer quality education? How will minimum standards affect a quality school system such as Newton? How will Board standards and requirements be enforced? What can citizen groups like the League do to enable the Board to carry out its legal mandate without interference? As a result of discussion on these and other questions at unit meetings, the League will be looking for a consensus in the areas of minimum standards and services that may be provided by the Board of Education.

The schedule for discussion units follows:

Wednesday, Nov. 16 — Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut St., 9:50 to 11:15 a.m., home of Mrs. Alan Goldberg, 31 Sheffield Rd., Newtonville, 1:15 to 3 p.m.

Thursday, Nov. 17 — Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus St., 9:30 to 11:15 a.m., home of Mrs. Calvin Saravis, 110 Evelyn Rd., Newton Highlands, 8 to 9:45 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 18 — Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock St., 9:30 to 11:15 a.m. A baby sitter will be present.

Barry House At NHS Financially Adopts Child

A little girl in Bueanaventura, Colombia, whose family is trying to subsist on 13 cents a day, has been "financially" adopted by members of Barry House, Newton High School, who, through Foster Parents Plan, Inc., 352 Park Ave. South, New York City, will contribute $15 a month to the family for a minimum of a year.

The child, Mariela Salcedo, belongs to a family among Colombia's poorest of the poor. The father abandoned his wife and four children six months ago, and a fifth child is expected. The mother goes every day to the market to sell bananas, and never earns more than 13 cents a day.

Being dedicated at the same time will be the Emily R. and Kivie Kaplan Family Lobby in the CJP building.

Noting the significance of these and subsequent dedications, Lester S. Morse, CJP endowments and bequests chairman, said: "This initial dedication of the suite and lobby is without question an important milestone in our efforts to make certain that the needs and challenges of tomorrow will be met by our community."

Chairman Mrs. Huber, thanking the community for the local support which makes this work possible, said "The emergency welfare assistance given this community in The Salvation Army tradition of 'Heart to God and Hand to Man' is possible, to a large extent, because of your generous gifts through the Massachusetts Bay United Fund. of the joint convention, Hopkins said the recommendation was the result of "an orderly and thorough review of the many fine citizens of Ward 7" whom the committee had reason to believe, because of their previous community interests, could and would serve the city with distinction.

He went on to say that the committee seriously considered every name submitted to it by interested citizens, and interviewed several of the candidates.

"Vincent Paul Stanton," Hopkins stated, "is a native Newtonian and is the son of Dr. Joseph R. Stanton, a well known Newton physician. A businessman with a fine educational and cultural background, he has given much time and effort to promoting understanding between groups of the population, particularly as relates to the young. He has four children in the Newton schools, and is well informed on problems of education.

"He has been acquainted with the duties and responsibilities of the School Committee. We are convinced Vincent Paul Stanton would be a sincere, hard working member of the School Committee, and would bring to it valuable experience in finance, educational activities, and community contacts."

Prior to the vote of the joint convention, Alderman H. James Shea, who seconded Stanton's nomination, sought permission to state his belief that the wrong method for filling a School Committee vacancy had been used.

President Bauckman suggested Shea wait until after the voting to express his opinion, but Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell moved he be permitted to speak prior to the voting. On a roll call, five members of the board favored his being granted permission, and 16 voted "no." There were three Aldermen absent.

Those voting "yes" were Paul J. Burke, Andrew J. Magni, William P. Matthews, Joseph M. McDonnell and H. James Shea, Jr. The absentees were Ernest F. Dietz, George L. Hicks and Harry L. Walen.

Shea's statement, made after Stanton had been sworn into office, was, in part, as follows:

"While I concur and endorse the committee's recommendation of Vincent Paul Stanton, I feel it my duty to state my strong objection to the procedure used to fill a vacancy in the position of school committeeman — a position which is, after all, an elective, and not an appointive office.

"Your committee, which was ably chaired and did a thorough job in assessing the qualifications of numerous candidates recommended from diverse sources, performed, in my opinion, in exemplary fashion. But this fine performance still does not negate the fact that we are filling an elective office by a procedure which is essentially that of an in-group appointment.

"On Aug. 22 of this year I stated on the floor of this board that 'our voting to fill a vacancy without the advice of the citizens of a ward, if not of the entire city in an at-large contest, is a practice which is inadequate, outdated, and not in accord with the aspirations of our democratic society.

"We could eliminate the wrong of filling an elective office by appointment if we were to hold and abide by a special advisory vote for school committee. This approach would be similar to the one that I suggested at the time of the recent Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large vacancy. While the law presently will not allow us to hold a special binding election, the applicable state law will allow us to hold a special advisory election. Such an advisory ballot would certainly be a more equitable way of filling this vacancy in elective office, than is the present practice of appointment by 31 incumbent office-holders.

"I am going to submit to the next session of the State Legislature a bill which would permit, and indeed require, special elections to fill vacancies in elective positions on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee.

"In this way I respectfully hope that we will place the responsibility for filling vacancies in elective public office where it traditionally and ideally belongs—in the hands of the voting public."

Beth Avodah Diet Workshop Next Week

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone lane, Oak Hill, invites men, women and teenagers who are interested in losing weight sensibly to attend either one of two free open house sessions to be held at the temple Monday, Nov. 14 at 8 p.m., or Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 10 a.m.

The purpose of the Diet Workshop is to teach people how to eat properly and lose weight slowly without 'starvation' or the use of diet drugs. The meetings emphasize gourmet foods and recipes.

Members exchange ideas and solutions to problems such as dining out, entertaining, satisfying the nibbler as well as the big eater, and coordinating a diet plan with family meal preparation.

A small weekly fee is charged, but once the desired weight is reached, the dieter is entitled to "free maintenance" and to attend meetings free in order to help keep slim.

There will be a regular meeting of the Sisterhood next Wednesday evening at 8:30. Mrs. Richard Knopping will read the opening prayer, and Mrs. Alan Fain, program co-chairman, will introduce the guest speaker, Dr. Leonard Safon, obstetrician, gynecologist and Chief of Fertility at Boston Lying-In Hospital. Mrs. Lewis Aronson and Mrs. Carlton Ranen, and their hospitality committee, will serve refreshments at the meeting's end.

Scout Troop 219 In Membership Night Tuesday

Troop 219, Boy Scouts of America, announces a membership night, Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 in the First Church in Newton, 1115 Centre St., Newton Centre.

All boys age 11-14 and their parents, and any other interested people, are invited to the meeting in the dining hall.

The meeting will feature a full-color, sound movie of Troop 219 Scouts, taken of last year's activities, and S. Joseph Melick, scoutmaster of Troop 250 in Oak Hill, who will demonstrate axes and axmanship. A question period will be available to enable parents and boys to learn about Troop 219 and Scouting in general.

The troop activity schedule includes camporees and local camping trips to Nobscot Reservation in Sudbury, hiking and camping trips in Vermont and New Hampshire, and weekly meetings with special speakers, demonstrations, and Courts of Honor.

Morris MacFarlane, membership committee chairman, states, "Although we meet at First Church, Troop 219 is non-sectarian and welcomes boys of all faiths."

Says Assistant Scoutmaster Clifton Dean: "Some boys think the Boy Scouts is a 'sissy' organization. We invite all such skeptics to come to our meeting and see what we have to offer before rejecting the opportunity for membership in our fine, active troop."

Scoutmaster Kenneth Patterson concludes, "We would like nothing better than to have 50 boys and their parents come to our meeting Tuesday.

Faith, Love Cannot Be Fed Into Lifeless Computer, Rabbi Kieval Preaches

Emotionless computers cannot take the place of faith and love, Rabbi Philip Kieval of Temple Reyim declared in his Sabbath sermon last Friday.

The Newton rabbi labeled computerized dating a poor basis for a solid marriage, but conceded that machine match-making does have a "limited use."

He said that in a "very limited way computers may be of help in bringing together people with similar interests, "but that its use was no match for hope, faith, love and time" in making a happy marriage.

"Marriage is too serious and involved a matter to be left to a machine," Rabbi Kieval told his congregation. "Human beings fortunately are too complex, and human personality is too rich to be classified by so many holes in a punchcard."

In a sermon entitled "Matching by Computer," Rabbi Kieval said that "from a theoretical viewpoint" the process "doesn't sound like a bad approach.

"At first glance this method, which appears to be scientific, has much advantage over the traditional hit-and-miss method of dating. But in actual practice," he said, "there are pitfalls and drawbacks to the computer method."

The method generally involves young men and women feeding information into a computer, which matches those whom the machine computes are best suited for one another.

Rabbi Kieval contended that "the applicant gives to the computer only that information he wants to feed it. The computer is no better than the information fed into it.

"A person's real motivations, real emotions, frequently are withheld from a questionnaire. Moreover, there is a tendency on the part of the individual to falsify certain answers to questions," the Rabbi declared.

The "Dynamics of Family Living" group of the First Unitarian Society in Newton is meeting again this year on Thursday mornings 9:30 to 11:30 at the Parish House in West Newton Square, under the leadership of Mrs. Barbara Kovar of Newton Centre.

The overall objectives are to provide an opportunity for interested mothers in the community to exchange ideas and come to an understanding of themselves and the society in which they live.

The discussions are nonsectarian and are offered as a service to the public. There is no fee and baby-sitting is provided.

Mrs. Kovar is a former social worker, mother of four, and a member of the executive board of Newton P.T.A. Council. She was previously associated with the Newton Baker project.

The weekly gatherings, beginning this year with a focus on American sub-cultures, are free-wheeling and informal.

Customer Satisfaction Is Theme Of New Black Store

A brand new Black Supply Company was dedicated recently at 140 Lexington St., Waltham. Housed in a beautiful white stone building the new store consisting of about 35000 square feet of floor space features wide aisles, modern bright lighting and a host of modern features to make a visit a virtual shopper's paradise.

10 years ago, Mr. Moe Black, president of Black Supply Company, opened a self-service department store type of operation known as Moe Black's Shack, and from these modest beginnings evolved the magnificent new building dedicated last week.

Known for its tremendous assortment of merchandise and its outstanding values, the new Black Supply Company is a far cry from the Moe Black's Shack of the past.

Today, a customer shops in air-controlled comfort, in a virtual wonderland of merchandise. Courteous, gracious sales people are available to wait on trade. Merchandise is departmentalized for easy selection. Nationally known, famous branded merchandise is carried in all departments.

Now going into his 10th year, Mr. Black has never deviated from his policy of guaranteeing complete customer satisfaction and this policy together with providing quality merchandise at value prices has accounted for the growth of the Black Supply Co.

Haynes Johnson Launches New Lecture Series Here

Haynes Johnson, winner of the 1966 Pulitzer Prize for national reporting, will speak on "The War on Poverty — Boon or Boondoggle?" at Newton College of the Sacred Heart next Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. in Chapel Hall.

The Washington correspondent will be the lead-off speaker in a new lecture series named in honor of David Reeves of New York, long a friend and outstanding benefactor of the Newton College library.

Subsequent David Reeves Lectures this academic year will be given by Allen Tate, American author, poet and critic, Tuesday, Feb. 14; Dr. Seymour M. Lipset, Harvard professor of government and social relations, Tuesday, March 7, and Dr. Albert Bush - Brown, president of Rhode Island School of Design, Tuesday, April 11.

The interested public is invited to all four lectures in the series, free of charge.

Mr. Johnson, National Affairs Correspondent for the Washington Star, has observed firsthand the War on Poverty from its initial background conferences at the White House, to fact-finding inspection trips with President Johnson.

The columnist's syndicated 10-part, 30,000-word series on "The War On Poverty: A Frontline Report" was the result of an intensive two-month examination of the operation of the War in all of its many phases in every area of the country.

A graduate of the University of Missouri's School of Journalism with a master's degree in American history from the University of Wisconsin, Johnson began his career with the Wilmington (Delaware) News Journal. In 1957, he moved to Washington to write for the Star.

Beginning with his highly acclaimed "Negro in Washington" series in 1961, Johnson has examined and attempted to define the problems of poverty in the Nation's metropolitan areas. A further expansion of this study was evidenced in his book, "Dusk At The Mountain."

Johnson is also the author of The Bay of Pigs, a critical and controversial book that deals with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Meredith Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Howard, Newton Lower Falls, was elected at Hood College, Frederick, Md., to represent Hood in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She was one of six Hood seniors chosen because of their outstanding qualities of scholarship, service to the college and leadership.

Lions Take Tech Squeaker . . .

Newton South Gridsters Gird For Mighty Melrose

BY NORMAN KAPLAN

After catching their breaths from an 8-0 squeaker over Rindge Tech., the Newton South Lions will be going after Melrose this Friday at 1:30 in Dickinson Stadium. The Lions are playing at home again, and this will be about their only advantage against highly touted Melrose, whose 6-1 record speaks for itself. Melrose, however, was the victim of a surprise attack by an underdog Reading team Saturday. Melrose suffered an aggravating 15-14 loss, their first of the year. The Lions will certainly be aiming to duplicate Reading's feat on Friday afternoon.

Although only eight points were scored in the Newton South-Rindge tilt last Saturday, the game was not devoid of action, football and otherwise. Both teams came to play football, but the gridiron sport was complimented with a little boxing and wrestling.

Almost enough penalty flags were dropped during the game to carpet Dickinson Field in bright red. Twice penalty calls nullified Rindge touchdowns. The very first time Tech. had the ball they went 67 yards in 10 plays, with their fullback churning out the last eight into the end zone. However, an illegal procedure call deprived Rindge of six points and cost them a loss of five yards back to the 13 yard line. Three plays later South end George McKinney batted down a fourth down pass to kill the drive.

The run which brought the home crowd to their feet, was in vain though, as two successive penalties brought the ball back to the 35 yard line. This forced the Lions to punt and lose a promising scoring opportunity.

With 55 seconds to go in the first half, sophomore cornerback Tom Rezzuti intercepted a Rindge pass on South's one yard marker to send both teams off the field at half time in a scoreless tie.

The third quarter saw Rindge frustrated again. Rindge quarterback, Wilfred Cox, tossed a perfect 20 yard touchdown pass, but the six points never reached the scoreboard. A clipping penalty was called, and the Rindge touchdown bid was killed.

The only successful drive of the day was launched in the third quarter by the Lions. Frank and Tom Rezzuti and Steve Cooper brought the ball 86 yards on the ground in 15 plays, despite three setbacks due to penalties. Finally Frank Rezzuti plowed one yard up the middle for the first and only touchdown of the game. QB Gordon Megrian connected with Tommy Rezzuti in the end zone for the two point conversion.

Thirty-eight seconds were on the clock in the fourth quarter when Ridge QB, Cox, flipped a short screen pass to his end Walter Collins. Collins grabbed the toss on his own 40 yard line and ripped down the right side with no Lion defender in front of him. However, South sophomore linebacker Dan Mendelson never gave up his pursuit, and nailed Collins on the four yard line. On the next play, a bad snap from center resulted in a Rindge fumble.

South recovered the loose ball to wrap up their fourth victory against two losses.

Tigers Meet Waltham In Watch City Today

Newton high's chances for a winning season look bleak this week as they prepare to take on Waltham tomorrow in a football tilt in the Watch City.

Gary Rodrigues, 143 pounds, 5-feet-6, carried the ball only three times for New Bedford but he did it brilliantly to score twice in the fourth quarter and register a 20-14 upset win over favored Newton.

Another Whaler, Cliff Kershaw, was also a thorn in Newton's side. He was New Bedford's leading ground-gainer with 52 yards in 16 carries. Coach Joe Bettencourt, New Bedford's mentor, credited Kershaw with "making the difference" in the game with his punting.

He boomed New Bedford out of trouble three times with punts of 49, 38 and 48 yards when the Whalers were deep in their own territory.

The performance of Rodrigues and Kershaw overshadowed the play of classy Newton quarterback Dick Dezotell who had his best, albeit losing, day of the season. He was 10 for 15 in the passing department for a total of 151 yards through the air and connected with Dick Lawrence for his ninth touchdown pass of the season.

Even though Newton lost, it was still a good, exciting game of football to watch, with Newton scoring first in the tilt, thanks to a pass interception by Ed Norton on the New Bedford 39 yard line.

Steve Colantuono carried three yards to the 36 before Dezotell connected on three straight passes to move Newton to the 20. Then fullback Bob Cohen burst into the end zone for the score, bouncing off three defenders and breaking a tackle enroute.

New Bedford came back early in the second period to take an 8-6 lead on only three plays.

Two minutes later Newton scored again. Dezotell and Colantuono rushed for six yards apiece, then Dezotell hit tight end Dick Lawrence on the look-in pass. Lawrence, 190 pound senior, broke two almost sure tackles and raced downfield, beating everyone to the goal line. Cohen rushed the conversion and the half ended with the score 14-6 in favor of Newton.

New Bedford settled the contest in the second half by blanking the Newton offense and scoring 14 points of its own. The first New Bedford score was set up by a Newton roughing the kicker penalty which gave the Whalers an important first and 10 at the 47. In this drive, QB Tom Farias hit backs Wayne Wright and Ed Mello for good gainers to keep the attack going and moved the ball to the Newton 20. On a third down play, Denis Labelle got loose on the draw and went all the way to the five. After two rushes gained two yards, Rodrigues plunged off right guard for the six points. Warren Houston and Dom Boudreau combined to stop Rodrigues in the try for the points and the score was deadlocked

The next series of Newton downs decided the outcome of the game. On a third down and one, Cohen fumbled the pigskin and New Bedford's Gil Rua pounced on the loose ball to give the Whalers excellent field position at the Newton 35. After a Farias completion to Bob Chadwick for fourteen, and a Tiger holding penalty, Rodrigues sliced 10 yards off right guard for the third New Bedford touchdown. Defensive end Lawrence batted down Farias' pass in the try for the two points.

Newton took the kickoff with three minutes left on the clock and tried desperately to connect for long yardage with the "bomb" but a determined New Bedford defense adjusted perfectly and kept the Tigers boxed in their half of the field.

Standouts in a losing cause were Newton end Dick Lawrence and Pete Cully. Besides bringing the crowd to their feet on the exciting pass-catching romp, Lawrence shone defensively, making several key tackles. Cully, playing in his first varsity game, showed great promise at his defensive tackle position. The tackle is just recovering from a severe leg injury, which was injured early in the season.

"Poor tackling," which has been Newton's major weakness, again was the Newton failing, with several New Bedford runners slipping the grasp of Newton defenders, going for long yardage.

- $1.00 a week will provide skilled vocational evaluation and counseling for a person at a United Fund agency.

- $1.25 a week will provide organized activities for 20 boys and girls at a United Fund neighborhood center.

1. WHAT'S THE ADVANTAGE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY UNITED FUND OVER SEPARATE COMMUNITY FUNDS?

The 1966-67 MBUF Campaign will provide a single campaign in 64 Massachusetts Bay communities. Residents of one community who work in another can now pledge their Fare Share at their places of employment and be assured that the community in which they live will receive increased benefits. Moreover, the resources of the 340 agencies and services included in this fall's United Fund drive are geared to meet the needs of the residents and workers of the entire Massachusetts Bay area.

2. WHO RUNS THE UNITED FUND?

It is a voluntary organization of givers. As a non-profit corporation chartered by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it is governed by a volunteer Board of Directors—men and women from management, labor, the professions, including housewives and other interested citizens. The Board members spend a great portion of their time making certain that their gifts and the gifts of others are properly used.

3. HOW WAS THE GOAL SET?

Community needs were carefully studied by committees of able and experienced volunteer leaders from business, industry, labor finance and the professions. The total needs were then appraised by the United Fund Executive Committee in light of a goal figure which, although lower than agency requests, would raise the most money.

4. WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THERE WERE NO UNITED FUND?

The Massachusetts Bay Area would be plagued with 340 separate appeals—almost one each day throughout the entire year. Agency personnel would be required to spend a great deal of time on fund raising activities, thereby curtailing services to those in need. Chaos would replace sound community planning unless some of the less popular of less well known agency services were taken over by the government. This, in turn, would increase our taxes.

5. WHY ARE THERE CAMPAIGNS OUTSIDE OF THE UNITED FUND?

Our United Fund is one of the most complete in the nation, and it maintains an "open door" policy; nevertheless, there are still some organizations which conduct separate drives. Some national health agencies refuse to accept the principle of community-wide budgeting and program coordination by local citizens. Their go-it-alone attitude will continue so long as the public provides funds to support them. Separate campaigns will be reduced only when their sponsors find it difficult to recruit volunteers and raise money easily.

6. WHAT ABOUT THE GOVERNMENT'S ANTI-POVERTY PROGRAM?

The Economic Opportunity Act, more familiarly known as "The War on Poverty," specifically states that projects supported by the government program may not replace, supplant or duplicate any existing services in a community. Therefore, Anti-Poverty funds cannot be used to finance any services now supported by your United Fund. Moreover, the "poverty" programs will not lessen the future need for United Fund support of agency services. As families and individuals free themselves from poverty, it is a certainty that demands for services provided by United Fund-supported agencies will increase.

7. DOES THE UNITED FUND SUPPORT MEDICAL RESEARCH?

Yes—through the Medical Foundation, a United Fund agency. The Foundation plans and carries out a broad program in health education and medical research which cuts across lines of all diseases. A United Fund Fair Share contributor meets his full citizenship obligation for support of medical research of all types.

Mother-Daughter Team Lead Two Temple Groups

A Newton Highlands mother and daughter are having a busy year as they lead two auxiliary organizations of Temple Beth Elohim of Wellesley.

Mrs. Robert S. Katz, the former Elyse Lipkin of Brookline, is serving as president of the Temple's Sisterhood and daughter Sharyn is serving her second term as president of the Temple's Youth Group.

The Katz family, residents of 100 Andrew st., Newton Highlands, and former residents of Wellesley, are among the founders of the Wellesley Temple and Mrs. Katz served as the Temple's first corresponding secretary in 1959-60. She has also served on many Temple and Sisterhood committies.

In addition to her Sisterhood activities, Elyse Katz is a Life Master of the American Contract Bridge League and is well known in area bridge circles for her popular newspaper bridge column and her teaching.

Sharyn Katz is a graduate of Temple Beth Elohim's ten year Sunday School and was Bat Mitzvah in 1962. She is a senior at Newton South High School where she has recently received a Letter of Commendation in the National Merit Scholarship Examinations.

Last year Sharyn was one of the few high school juniors in New England to serve as a youth group president.

She has attended three Conclaves and Institutes of the New England Federation of Temple Youth. This past summer she was one of eleven NEFTY members from 36 New England Reform temples to attend the two week National Leadership Institute for youth leaders in Warwick, N.Y. The leadership camp provided an opportunity for 160 national youth leaders to broaden their horizons in such fields as religion, teaching, Hebrew, song leading, Israeli folk dancing, drama and communications.

This year, Sharyn is working as an assistant teacher in the first grade of Temple Beth Elohim's Sunday school. She will be a delegate to the Fall board meeting of the New England Federation of Temple Youth on Nov. 20 at Temple Emanuel, Worcester.

Thieves Net Picayune In Three Breaks

A home, a store and Newton High School were targets for thieves in Newton over the past weekend but they didn't get too much for their trouble.

Arrival of a family member frightened a thief from the home of William K. Rab, of 39 Floral St., Newton Highlands, after $10 and some film slides had been taken. Entry had been gained by breaking a window.

Thieves broke into the Hub Apparel Store, 47 Langley rd., Newton Centre, and took $35 worth of football equipment. Entry was gained by smashing a wooden panel on a rear door.

One safe was opened, and an attempt made to open another, at Newton High School. The safe-crackers gained entrance to the school through an unlocked door in the wood shop.

The intruders then broke into the metal shop and took an acetylene torch and carried it upstairs where they opened one safe and attempted to cut through another, walk-in safe.

N. E. Baptist Hospital Annual Dinner Speaker

Aubrey Schurman of Newton Centre, member of the executive committee of the New England Baptist Hospital and chairman of the house committee, will be a principal speaker at the 73d annual dinner meeting of the hospital on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, at 6 o'clock, in the hospital dining room.

PTA Of Day jr. High Conducts First Meeting

The first general P.T.A. meeting of F. A. Day Junior High School was held recently. Parents visited all classrooms attended by their children and were presented an interesting outline of their curricula by their theachers.

A short business meeting followed with President, Charles W. Laffin, presiding. Ralph Morse, principal, welcomed the parents and introduced the new members of the teaching staff.

The PTA officers for the year are Mr. Charles W. Laffin, president; Barry Hyman, 1st vice-president; Ralph Morse, 2nd vice-president; John M. Shaw, recording secretary; Mrs. William Eger, executive secretary; Mr. and Mrs. William Wolf, treasurer; Benjamin Goldfarb, advisor.

Refreshments were served in the auditorium following the meeting by Mrs. John Marvin and Mrs. Thomas Keleher, hospitality co-chairmen and their committee.

Painting Exhibit Next Tuesday At Beethoven School

The Newton Art Association promises a night of features next Thursday (Nov. 17) at the Beethoven School, Waban. Glenn MacNutt will return for a second appearance this year, to do a painting in Casein. The program will start at 7:30 p.m.

MacNutt is a member of the Boston Watercolor Society and a prominent artist and exhibitor in New England.

After the regular meeting and while refreshments are served, Ed Faber will show his craft in silk screen. Faber, a pioneer in this medium, heads the silk screening department at Rustcraft.

The public is cordially invited to enjoy both these exceptional artists and will be afforded an opportunity to ask questions.

Electric Auto Seen On Road To First Comeback

By DAVID W. CHUTE
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Revelation by Ford Motor Company of details of its new battery power source raises the possibility of a comeback for the electric automobile.

But for the foreseeable future, at least, it won't take the place of the conventional family car in this country.

It could in Europe and other parts of the world, however, and that's the reason European carmakers have been so interested in finding out what Ford has got.

The new battery source of electric power is aimed primarily at the small car with limited range and speeds at or below 60 miles an hour. It's not sufficient to move a two-ton vehicle on cross-country trips over superhighways at superhighway speeds.

Europe specializes in small cars. So does Japan. And it's these types of cars that the Ford battery could compete with.

Briefly, the battery consists of three things. Sodium, sulphur, and a solid electrolyte of ceramic, made primarily of aluminum oxide. It's this ceramic that's the key to the whole operation.

Sodium and sulphur are well known, common materials but nobody ever knew how to use them together to get a flow of electrical energy from their interaction. This is what the ceramic does. It provides a barrier between the sodium and sulphur, but allows sodium ions to filter through, reach the sulphur and combine to make a sulphide. In combining, it generates an electric charge which can be tapped to provide useful energy.

Another secret, however, is that the battery must be hot . . . very hot. Both the sodium and the sulphur have to be in a liquid state.

This means they have to be maintained at a high enough temperature to melt, and it means operating the battery at roughly between 500 and 600 degrees fahrenheit. Ford officials consider that no problem.

First, when the battery is discharging while being used, or while it is being recharged from an outside electrical source, heat is generated which keeps the battery at its proper temperature.

Suppose you leave your car idle with the battery not in use. Ford scientists say the battery can be insulated so efficiently it could stand idle for up to 14 days at a time and still be at the required temperature to start.

Will it be used in conventional type automobiles, merely being substituted for the conventional internal combustion engine? No, the scientists say that wouldn't be the best thing.

Ford now is designing and building a new car in England expressly for battery driving. It has also developed a new lightweight powerful electric motor to be used with it. And it is building more efficient controls. Several cars will be built, some tested in London and at least one will be brought to this country to be tested in traffic patterns in the Detroit area.

When the battery is built, it will weigh about 500 or so pounds, which isn't must different than present-day gas engines in cars. Right now, all Ford has are tiny batteries, about the size of a test tube. But they're already planning to build a 22-pound battery which will have an output of about 2 kilowatt hours. That's 2,000 watt hours with a 22-pound weight, or nearly 100 watt hours per pound. Scientists say any battery with a power output of 50 watt hours per pound or more is practical for an electric automobile.

Red Tape Has French Official Fit To Be Tied

PARIS (UPI) — Finance Minister Michel Debre thinks France is strangling in a maze of bureaucratic red tape and he aims to do something about it.

Anyone in France who has ever been given a traffic ticket, stood in line for a driver's license or a residence permit, bought a savings bond or tried to join a club is almost bound to support him.

In a continent where they seem to love filling out forms, France stands out as a major claimant for the title of the form-fillingest country of them all.

Debre thinks the time spent filling out forms can be cut without any loss of efficiency. More important, as the guardian of the nation's purse he thinks millions of francs can be cut from the budget by doing away with useless bureaucracy.

Some of the wastage is glaringly apparent. Items:

— If your electricity bill isn't paid in the stated time the state-run electricity company sends you a reminder — by registered letter at triple the cost of a regular letter. The reminder gives you two more weeks to pay and could have been sent at the regular rate.

— If a cop gives you a traffic ticket, the particulars he needs from you, in addition to those on your driving license, include the names, dates and places of birth of your mother and father.

— A tax collector will spend 30 centimes (five cents) on a stamp to remind a taxpayer he owes one franc (20 cents) in taxes.

—A French insurance company issues you a green certificate of insurance to show to the police, if required. It also issues you with a yellow certificate, giving the same information and based on the same two-page list of questions, to be shown to customs officers when crossing frontiers.

— Applying for residence permits here, foreigners have to provide not only the names, dates of birth and places of birth of their parents but also the same information on the parents of their wives. Strangely, the forms don't ask if the parents in question are living or dead, or where they are living now.

Every government office has stacks of forms of all descriptions, and dozens of clerks busy filling them in. It is not uncommon to give information to a clerk and see him laboriously copy it all down, then have to move on to another clerk 20 feet away and give him practically the same information for a different form — while the first clerk is still at work filling out the first form.

It is considered bad form here for the clerk to give you the form to fill out yourself.

Debre wants to cut down all of this and increase not only efficiency but government savings. He has asked President Charles de Gaulle's cabinet to study the setting up of a "center for the revision of official forms" where all forms now in use could be studied by experts charged with cutting them down to more reasonable proportions.

Even if Debre has his way it is likely to be several more years before the man in the street feels the benefit of it.

Harried Comedian and Hat Is Best TV Show For Some

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Hat Council, a group of manufacturers dedicated to making hats more popular, has a new hero — Jack Sheldon, a television star who always wears a hat while being chased by a quartet of gangsters on the CBS show "Run, Buddy, Run."

What makes the Hat Council even more delighted is that the four hoodlums also wear hats — a couple of pearl gray homburgs and a couple of snap brim felts, the 1966 version of the ones worn in the Edward G. Robinson-George Raft era.

Sheldon wears a narrow brim casual corduroy—so casual it looks as if it had been jammed on his head. The hat is a direct descendant of Harry Langdon's crushed felt. Sheldon even wears it with the brim up as did his wistful, pasty-faced predecessor.

"Although Madison Avenue may be dubious about the image that a harried comedian and his quartet of hoodlums give hats, the members of the Hat Council aren't concerned one bit," a spokesman said. "They feel the public, which knows the obvious benefits derived from wearing a hat, is not yet aware of the fun involved too.

"Therefore all this jesting emphasis on hats couldn't be more appropriate, especially with more and more men of all ages, in all walks of life sporting all kinds of hats — from poplin bucket hats on college undergrads, snappy felts on younger executives to distinguished, dressier types on more mature business and professional men."

Comedians and hats seem to have some sort of affinity —Langdon with his crushed felt, Buster Keaton with his flat little straw, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy with their derbies.

"The hat is a comedy constant," explained Leonard Stern, writer-producer-director of the series. "It's something to hold onto when everything else fails. It also serves as a trade mark."

He dipped back in history to recall Fatty Arbuckle's gray bowler, Mack Swain's silk topper and Charlie Chaplin's black derby.

Sheldon will always wear the same hat in every segment of the series. So will the men who chase him. Gangster father and son, Bruce Gordon (late of "The Untouchables") and Jim Connel will wear the natty homburgs. Crime Syndicate members Nick Georgiade and Gregg Palmer will wear the snap brims.

Sheldon, who was born Nov. 30, 1931, in Jacksonville, Fla., has not always been a comedian. He was a swimming star and swimming instructor in his youth, when he wore no hat at all, and later a trumpet player of some note, when he did.

His tour of military duty included a trumpet playing role with the 503rd Air Force Band and then he was featured with such combinations as Stan Kenton, Benny Goodman, Les Brown and Woody Herman.

His career as an actor-comedian started more or less accidentally when he made an appearance on the late night Steve Allen show. When he appeared in a CBS special called "Nuthouse" he was formally "discovered."

Dover Lecture On Christian Science Nov. 15

Spiritual power and its release in human affairs will be discussed in public Christian Science lecture to be given in Dover on Tuesday, November 15, by William Henry Alton, C.S.B., of New York City. Titled "God's Power at Hand," the lecture is scheduled for 8 p.m., in The Dover Church, Springdale Avenue.

Mr. Alton is a teacher and practitioner of Christian Science, and will speak under the auspices of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. He is currently on tour as a member of the Church's Board of Lectureship.

Before entering the Christian Science healing ministry, Mr. Alton was administrator for the Rockefeller Brothers Governmental Studies and held a number of executive posts in the oil industry and other international development enterprises. During World War II he was a Captain of Military Intelligence with the Airborn Corps in Europe.

People Do Not Need To Scratch In Flea Market

The market — called Porta Portese from the name of the gate near the Tiber where it begins — is open only on Sunday mornings, but the vendors, many of whom come from out of town with their wares, often start setting up their stalls after midnight Saturday.

The bargain hunter should get there early and be prepared to bargain. The price asked for an object is seldom the real one. It's just the vendor's way of saying what he would like you to pay. The veteran bargainer usually counters with an offer of half the asking price and serious financial discussion gets under way.

The flea market stretches for more than a mile in the heart of the Trastevere quarter from the Porta Portese. Entering from the gate, the visitor finds himself in the car parts section. A persistent mechanic could probably put together a whole car from the various bits on sale.

Next come the clothing stalls — specializing in new blue jeans, old army uniforms and sometimes evening clothes dating back to the turn of the century.

The greatest attraction of the market is the junk. Each vendor displays what looks like the contents of a dozen attics. One recent Sunday Romans were offered busts and portraits of Mussolini, a painting of the Ethiopian royal family, circa 1920, rollerless roller skates and broken telephones.

The antiques attract many bargain hunters. But the days of bargains seem to be gone. Prices are the same as in the for the sound reason that many of the stalls are run by the antique shops.

French Air Plan For Hover-Train

BY PAUL TREUTHARDT
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — French engineers hope to have the world's first commercial hover-trains in operation within 18 months.

The vehicles, weighing about 20 tons and carrying 80 passengers, will ride on air cushions at speeds up to 155 miles per hour.

A spokesman for Jean Bertin, French air-cushion vehicle pioneer and designer of the "Aerotrain," says his company had "very strong hopes" the French government would grant a 30 million franc ($6 million) contract for the first section of the Aerotrain line within the next four months.

The line could start operating about a year after the contract was signed, the spokesman said.

A half-scale Aerotrain has been operating successfully on a 3.5 mile line near Paris for the past six months. The design was "absolutely confirmed" in the tests, in which the Aerotrain reached a speed of 120 m.p.h. within its first four days of operation, the spokesman said.

The full-size vehicles, the spokesman said, would run on a similar inverted-T of concrete, but set on pylons 12 to 15 feet above ground to leave the land free for other uses.

The vehicles will be powered by turbo - jet engines driving cowled fans.

The spokesman said the company is in close contact with several foreign nations interested in the Aerotrain, but declined to be more specific.

The Bertin group also is working on several designs of hovercraft, known as naviplanes, among them a fire-float and crash rescue craft.

Bertin claims to have developed the flexible skirt principle for air-cushion vehicles, and he developed his vehicles independently of Christopher Cockrell, designer of the British hovercraft.

Three Newtonites Pass Bar Exams

Three Newton residents, all Suffolk University Law School graduates, have been recommended for admission to the practice of law in Massachusetts, Walter Powers, chairman of the Board of Bar Examiners, announced.

They are: Joseph A. Donoghue, of 116 Dickerman rd., Newton Highlands, Sylvia Katsenes, of 175 Newtonville ave., and David G. Nagle, Jr., of 37 River st., West Newton.

Donoghue, son of Mrs. Julia M. and the late Frank L. Donoghue, of Lowell, is a graduate of Merrimack College and the U. S. Naval School of Military Justice, Newport, R.I. He earned his Bachelor of Law degree from Suffolk University last June.

A Lieutenant Comander in the Navy Reserve, Donoghue served on active duty with the Navy from 1956 to 1959, and currently is a specialist in the Massachusetts Welfare Department's Division of Child Guardianship.

He is married to the former Helen M. O'Brien, of South Boston, and they have four children, Richard, Kevin, Joseph and Janet.

Miss Katsenes, attractive daughter of Mrs. Catherine and the late Arthur Katsenes, is a 1963 magna cum laude graduate of Suffolk University. While in college she was a Dean's List student, president of the French Club, and in 1961 was elected Miss Suffolk University.

While attending Suffolk Law School on a trustees' scholarship, she was also a Dean's List student. In 1964 she represented the law school in the National Moot Court Competitions.

She plans to practice law with her brothers, William and Charles, in the Newton firm of Katsenes and Katsenes.

Nagle, also a graduate of the Suffolk University Law School, is the son of the late Massachusetts Superior Court Justice David G. Nagle, Sr.

The Sisterhood requests that members of the community willing to donate any old rare books, pocket-size books, magazines or comic books bring them to the Temple either next Sunday (Nov. 13) or the following Sunday (Nov. 20). These will be sold to obtain funds to buy books for the religious school library.

Pick up service is available, and additional information on the various categories of books and magazines desired, may be obtained by calling either Mrs. Robert Maltz at 244-3192 or Mrs. William Cohen at 332-4640.

Newton School Secretaries At State Meeting

Plans are well underway for the coming observance of the 20th anniversary of the Newton Educational Secretaries Association, it was disclosed by the program chairman, Mrs. Ruth M. Corey of West Newton. A dinner marking the event will be held at the Meadowbrook Junior High School on Wednesday (Dec. 7), to which all past and present office employees of the Newton school department as well as honorary members of the Association, are invited.

Free Lecture Series Starts In Newt'ville

The problems created by food additives, drug abuses and medical quackery are just a few topics which will be aired by Mrs. Beula B. Marble, consumer consultant for the federal Food and Drug Administration, on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 8:15 p.m. in the Newtonville library, 345 Walnut st., Newtonville.

Methods of control and regulation used by the FDA will also be covered in her discussion "The Law Behind the Label," as well as the scope of the law enforced by this agency.

This is the first of a series of free lectures to be held in the library, sponsored by the Friends of the Newton Free Library.

The public is urged to attend. Free refreshments will be served.

NHS Juniors To Beautify School Grounds

The Junior Class at Newton High School has planned an unprecedented project of beautifying the grounds of the school. Every Newton citizen who has driven by is aware of the sad state of the grounds surrounding all three buildings. They feel that by cleaning up and landscaping the grounds, the atmosphere at the high school will be more pleasant for both teachers and students.

In order to carry out this huge project in the two years left at the high school, the class needs to raise money. Its present treasury is not large enough to sponsor class activities, and also support a school project.

Therefore, the Junior Class has scheduled various fundraising events. The first one is this Saturday, Nov. 12. It is a car wash at Newton High School and a Bake Sale at The Newtonville Star Market.

The Class has many enthusiastic car washers and bakers, but more important, public support is needed. Without it, the project cannot be carried out.

12 Newton Groups Assure Lecture Series Success

The Community Lecture Series on "The Negro in American Society," a cooperative educational program sponsored by organizations in Newton and Roxbury is to get underway Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 8 p.m., in the Patrick T. Campbell Junior High School, 77 Lawrence Ave., in Roxbury's Grove Hall section.

The impressive start of the series will be due in great measure to the support of 12 organizations from Newton, committed to the sale of 20 series subscriptions, and the participation of their members.

These organizations include: N.A.A.C.P. (South Middlesex Chapter), Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights, Roxbury-Newton Freedom School, First Unitarian Society in West Newton, Temple Shalom, St. Bernard's Church, League of Women Voters, Newton Committee for Operation Exodus, Voice of Women, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Newton METCO Coordinating Committee, and the Community Parents Organization. There are 12 Roxbury sponsoring organizations bringing the total sponsorship for the series to 24 groups.

The first lecturer will be Dr. Willard Johnson, assistant professor of Political Science and specialist on African Government at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His subject will be: "The Old World of Negro Americans: Notes for sons of 'Natives.'" Dr. Johnson has spent several years in Africa engaging in research and is presently writing a book on African political independence. His lecture will explode some of the myths and distorted notions that many people hold about the Africa from which the first slaves came to America.

The series will include six lectures, three of which will be held at Warren Junior High School in West Newton. The Newton dates include Bryant Rollins, editor of the Bay State Banner and novelist, speaking on "The Literature of Negro Americans," (Dec. 14) Wyatt Tee Walker, president of Educational Heritage, publishers of the Negro Heritage Library and former chief aide to Dr. Martin Luther King, speaking on, "The Negro Church and Social Protest," (Mar. 8) and Bayard Rustin, executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, speaking on "The Black Man's Resistance to Oppression in America," (Apr. 5).

Two other lectures will be held in Robury. On Jan. 15, at 3:00 p.m., Lerone Bennett Jr., senior editor of Ebony Magazine, will lecture on "The Negro in the Civil War and Black Reconstruction." On Feb. 8, Dr. Adelaide Hill, assistant professor of Sociology at Boston University, will lecture on "The Early Urbanization of the Negro."

The purpose of the Community Lecture Series is to provide a better understanding of contemporary events through presentation of the history of the Negro in America, to expose the Newton and Roxbury communities to outstanding Negro intellectuals who have made substantial contributions to America, to develop an awareness that the true history of the Negro in America has been excluded from educational curricula and from the consciousness of White America, to stimulate an interest in pursuing further reading and study on ethnic aspects of American History, and to provide an opportunity for people from Newton and Roxbury to share a significant educational experience. The sponsors are hopeful that educators will take advantage of this educational opportunity.

Dr. Weisberger Noted Researcher In Oral Surgery

Services for Dr. David Weisberger, 63, of 189 Mt. Vernon St., West Newton, professor and director of dental medicine at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine and oral surgeon and chief of Dental Medical Service at Massachusetts General Hospital, were scheduled to be held Thursday, Nov. 10, in a Boston funeral chapel.

Dr. Weisberger died Nov. 8 after a short illness.

A noted researcher, Dr. Weisberger's experiments more than 25 years ago showed that tooth decay became rampant in animals deprived of their salivary glands and secretions from glands. He also did original work in the role of glycogen in leukoplakia, a disease in the membranes of the cheeks, the region involved in approximately 40 percent of all oral cancer.

A native of Pennsylvania, he was graduated from the old Harvard Dental School and held an M.D. from Yale. In 1957 the American Academy of Dental Medicine awarded him an honorary degree.

He was a member of the National Institute of Dental Research, a director of the Massachusetts division, American Cancer Society, and a consulting surgeon of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, Children's, Peter Bent Brigham and Waltham Hospitals.

Also, he was a diplomate of the American Board of Oral Medicine, a fellow of the American Academy of Dental Sciences, and a member of the Massachusetts Dental Society, New England Society of Oral Surgeons and the New York Academy of Sciences.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Elida (Jackson) Weisberger; and two sisters, Mrs. James Laderer of New York and Miss Adele Weisberger of Boston.

Aldermen Provide $100,000 To Cope With Early Storms

An appropriation of $100,000 to cover the cost of coping with any snow or ice storms which may hit Newton during the final weeks of the year was one of the measures approved by the members of the Board of Aldermen at their meeting Monday night.

George L. Hicks, acting chairman of the Aldermanic public works committee, estimated that each inch of snow which falls on Newton streets costs the city between $8000 and $10,000.

A request by Police Chief Philip Purcell for an appropriation of $40,000 to cover overtime pay in the police department for the remainder of the year also received an Aldermanic okay.

A recommendation by the Retirement Board for an appropriation of $1446.49 was approved by the Board of Aldermen to pay the survivorship allowance of Mrs. Marjorie W. Acomb, widow of the late Allan Acomb.

Mr. Acomb was former director of personnel in the school department. A veteran of World War 2, he served in the school department for 32 years. His widow is entitled to a payment of $5616.29 per year.

A request by the commissioner of public buildings for $3600 from surplus, covering the cost of a canopy to protect F. A. Day Junior High School pupils from snow or rain while passing from the main building to the rear of the school was approved.

Approval was also given a request by the acting water commissioner for $2355 for the extension of the water main in Silver Lake avenue, Newton.

The Street Traffic committee reported on four items, of which two were recommended for approval and two for denial, and the committee's report was accepted.

One of the approved items banned parking on the west side of Cypress street, Newton Centre, from Bow road to Jackson street. The other, whose approval awaits receipt of a petition from the police department, requests a Traffic Commission study of the intersection of Auburndale avenue and Lexington street, Auburndale. In this matter the Traffic Commission recommends that the chief of police petition the Board for a hearing on the trimming of hedges there.

One of the items for which denial was recommended was for installation of two stop signs, one on Oakdale road at Woodcliffe road, Waban, and the other on Parker avenue at Woodcliffe road. The other rejected item sought to restrict heavy trucking on Centre street, Newton.

PTA Council Seeks Review Of School Bus Fare Hike

Delegates of the Newton Council of PTA's at their recent meeting unanimously adopted a resolution requesting a review of present school bus fares by Mayor Monte G. Basbas, the Board of Aldermen and School Committee.

The resolution, offered by Herbert Regal, vice president of the Council, expressed concern over the boost in school bus fares from 12½ to 20 cents, which became effective at the start of the present school year.

Bernard Kaplan of Waban remarked on the concern of both parents and pupils over the boost in the fares and said this has been reflected in editorials in school newspapers.

The events and considerations which led the action of school and city officials to raise the bus fares were outlined and discussed.

Members of the Council also did some soul searching under the general topic of "PTA-Why?" in an effort to reach some agreement as to the matters and problems with which the PTA members should concern themselves.

Short but intensive group discussions were held as to the direction and effect the 33 Newton PTAs involved in the Council have in relation to their individual school problems, their relationship with the Council with the School Department itself, and, finally with other community groups.

The group interplay did not reach many positive conclusion, although it did raise a number of questions.

Mrs. William Heine of Newtonville, Chairman of Program Planning for the Council, who is also on the staff of the Human Relations Center at Boston University, conducted the subsequent fact-find session which came out of the individual group discussions.

The groups discussed problems such as whether issues should be developed through Council and PTAs with regard to such matters as the new high school or elementary school schedules. Should more time be spent educating parents and the community through Council and PTAs as to the schools' financial needs and their justification? Should the PTAs be more social-minded? Should they be political?

Subsequent meetings were planned to develop answers to these questions.

Appearing before the Council were Dr. William Stone and Donald Daniels from the Newton Mental Health Center, and Dr. Edward Landy, Assistant Superintendent for Pupil Personnel in Newton Schools, in behalf of the Newton Community Relations Committee.

Dr. Stone spoke on the importance of the first year's activities and programs of his committee citing that 212 families have already been referred for counselling and diagnosis, 75 to 80 per cent of which referrals have come through the schools, both private and public. The bulk of referrals have come from the elementary school level. Educating citizens through special programs at PTA gatherings, therefore, is one of their vital concerns, he said.

Dr. Landy spoke with regard to the great strides that the newly reorganized Commission on Human Relations has made with its central focus being a dynamic approach in developing better community relations between various ethnic, racial, religious and other groups. Having no policing power, the strength of the Commission lies in the power of moral persuasion when issues of fair housing, employment and so forth come before it, he stated.

Groups of all types are invited to appear before the Commission for dialogue in their particular fields, he said. For example, he told his listeners, a group of realtors has been encouraged to develop their own Fair Housing Committee to operate among themselves.

A Newton Clergyman's Committee, involving all faiths, has been formed. Leaders from the school community, both public and private, have also lent their talents and offices for a more far-reaching involvement of the community, Dr. Landy reported.

Their function is most definitely to seek through educational methods a better understanding of community needs, he declared. Landy voiced the Commission's feeling that "many problems that exist today exist because people are not willing to respect one another as hunman beings."

Dr. Landy further disclosed plans for a Community Relations Week in Newton during April. He said his purpose in appearing before the Council was to invite them to participate as a co-sponsor of the week in conjunction with the Council's Spring Conference generally held at about that time. Hopefully, world-renowned individuals will be invited to participate in variety of events, along the same lines as the Creative Arts Week developed by the Council a few years ago, he stated.

Other delegates to the Council represent the Creative Arts, Legislation, Library Coordinators, the Teachers Association, Recreation, Safety, School Committee Liaison, School-Community Relations, Administrative Staff from the School Department, and the presidents and principals of each school and PTA.

Kaplan announced that the next meeting will be held in January instead of December. The Executive Board will attempt to work out plans to meet in various schools throughout the city. They expect to extend special invitations to individual PTA Boards in an effort to promote better communication flowing both ways.

HUBERT E. JONES

Newtonite Is Instructor In Youth Program

President William E. Park of Simmons College has announced the appointment of Hubert E. Jones of 21 Talbot street, West Newton, as an instructor in the Urban Youth Teacher Preparation Program.

A graduate of the City College of New York, he received his master's from Boston University School of Social Work. Mr. Jones' primary professional career has been in group work.

He is currently the assistant director of the Roxbury Multi-Service Center, a new health and welfare agency providing a variety of services for residents in the Roxbury-North Dorchester area.

The Simmons program, started last year, is supported by an original grant of $75,000 from Carnegie, supplemented by Simmons College funds. It is specifically designed to prepare teachers for the elementary grades where they can help boys and girls from disadvantaged areas who might otherwise be early school dropouts.

The program has the complete cooperation of the City of Boston School System, so that students will be able to do their field study in the actual settings in which they will ultimately teach.

Mr. Jones has been director of the Social Group Department for the Newton Unit of the Judge Baker Guidance Center, and on the staff of the Boston Children's Service Association, where he worked with a group of physically handicapped and emotionally disturbed children.

He is also field work instructor for Boston University School of Social Work, and was group trainer at the Tufts University NDEA Institute for teachers working in disadvantaged communities.

He is a member of the Boards of Directors for the National Association of Social Workers, the Newton Community Action, Inc., and the Newton Mental Health Center. He is also chairman of the Civil Rights Commission of the National Association of Social Workers.

PRESIDENT "EXTREMELY WELL" AFTER SURGERY

PRESIDENT JOHNSON underwent successful throat and abdominal surgery Wednesday and rebounded so vigorously that by nightfall his family doctor complained of the difficulty in keeping him quiet.

Dr. James C. Cain told newsmen Johnson was "doing extremely well" after a hernia in his midriff was repaired and a tiny, non-cancerous polyp was removed from his throat in 53 minutes of surgery at dawn at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The Chief Executive's recovery "couldn't be better," Cain said, reporting that his patient got out of bed for two hours in the afternoon, taking as many as 200 steps and sitting in a chair doing light work. Johnson was expected to leave the hospital in a few days.

BISHOPS TO STUDY NATIONAL BOARD OF PRIESTS

ROMAN CATHOLIC bishops of the United States agreed Wednesday to study the possibility of creating a national pool of priests to even out the distribution of priestly manpower between various parts of the country.

Also set up by the bishops was a special committee to look into the desirability of ordaining married men for permanent duty as deacons. Deacons now may perform many of the offices of a priest but may not celebrate mass or hear confessions.

The bishops debated but did not complete action on a nine-page statement permitting American Roman Catholics to eat meat on Friday except during Lent. Authoritative sources said the discussion was mainly concerned with minor changes in wording. They were confident, that the document will be approved Friday.

DR. SHEPPARD NOT GUILTY

Before entering the deliberation room in the 20th day of Sheppard's second trial, the jury of seven men and five women was instructed by Judge Francis J. Talty not to be moved by "sympathy or bias."

Judge Talty explained there were three possible verdicts: Guilty of second degree murder, guilty of first degree manslaughter, or not guilty.

SPECK RULED COMPETENT TO STAND TRIAL

A CHICAGO crimminal court judge denied objections of Richard Speck's lawyer Wednesday and ordered a hearing to determine whether the 24-year-old drifter is mentally competent to stand trial on charges of murdering eight nurses.

Judge Herbert C. Paschen also rejected a demand by public defender Gerald W. Getty that the indictment against Spreck be quashed on the grounds that the grand jury that returned them was influenced by "malice and hatred and ill will."

The court delayed a ruling on Getty's request that any trial be shifted out of Chicago to find prospective jurors not influenced by adverse publicity.

NEW HAVEN MAN GUILTY IN KILLING SIX

ACCUSED MASS slayer Arthur J. Davis of New Haven was convicted on six counts of first degree murder Wednesday. The decision could send Davis to the electric chair, although no convicted killer had been electrocuted in Connecticut for 10 years. The three-judge court reconvenes today to pass sentence. Davis allegedly stormed into a New Haven factory, gunned down six persons in a drunken frenzy after a vain search for his estranged sweetheart, who had fled to Boston in fear for her life.

POLICE SAY 6 TO 8 SAW HOODLUMS SLAIN

A NORTH END night spot was singled out Wednesday as the execution chamber for two loan sharks as Greater Boston's smoldering gangland war threatened to flare back to life.

The bodies of Arthur C. Bratsos, 32, of Medford and Thomas J. DePrisco, 24, of Roslindale were found crammed into the rear seat of Bratsos' blood drenched car in South Boston. Acting on a tip, police went to a Commercial St. bar and took samples of bloodstains from a bar stool, door rugs and from the sidewalk outside. Police were confident the double laying took place there and was witnessed by six to eight other persons. Police said they received reliable information Bratsos was carrying more than $35,000 in cash when he was gunned down. The money, not on his body when he was found, allegedly was to be used as part of the $100,000 bail money to free Joseph Barboza Baron, 33, of Swampscott from jail.

TV STRIKE LOOMS BUT GRID GAMES WILL BE SEEN

THE BROADCASTING industry and two performers' unions were unable to agree on resumption of contract negotiations in New York Wednesday and a union spokesman said a blackout of live performance on network television and radio was "imminent."

Donald F. Conway, executive secretary of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) met with the executive committee of his union and of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) to map action as a result of the industry's reported refusal to improve its final contract offer.

Even if a strike is called, it appeared that management will be able to produce television shows of the major football games, including the Notre Dame - Michigan State battle, on Saturday. A strike by the performing Unions would not affect these features, industry spokesmen said.

HEAVY RAINS HELP VIET REDS STEP UP WAR

NORTH VIETNAMESE troops struck under cover of monsoon rains Wednesday in the heaviest fighting in more than six weeks along the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. In the South, Viet Cong mortars shelled a U.S. armored command post east of Saigon. Heavy fighting also flared in the jungles northwest of Saigon where a U.S. Infantry battalion was locked in combat with a Communist force as the Americans surged through War Zone C in the war's biggest operation.

TWO PARTIES MAY BAR EX-NAZI'S RISE

TWO MAJOR West German political parties made an agreement Wednesday that could block former Nazi Kurt Georg Kiesinger from becoming Chancellor. The understanding, reached during informal talks between leaders of the Social Democrats and the Free Democrats, might put a Socialist at the nation's helm for the first time since 1949. $750-Across-The-Board Raise Aim Of Teachers

By JAMES G. COLBERT, JR.

A $750-a-year, across-the-board pay raise was requested by Newton public school teachers at Monday night's School Committee meeting.

If approved by the School Board, the increases being sought by the teachers would cost an estimated $836,000 for a 12-months period. That would be equivalent to about $2.50 on the city's tax rate.

Other proposals submitted to the School Committee by spokesmen for the teachers, added to the suggested raises, would boost the school budget a total of $1,028,162 for a year, which would represent slightly more than $3 on the tax rate.

Members of the School Committee took the request of the teachers under advisement and have not yet made a decision on it.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, an ex-officio member of the School Committee, has not taken any position for or against the requested $750-a-year wage hike for the teachers.

However, Basbas has urged the School Board members to review the 1967 school budget with a microscope and "to keep in mind their responsibility to the city as stated by them on several occa-

$300,000 Tab Set In Lunch Program

A cold lunch program for Newton school children would cost between $250,000 and $300,000 per year, Superintendent Charles E. Brown told the members of the School Committee at their meeting Monday night.

He gave this estimate while reporting to the School Board on the progress being made by a committee studying the possibility of a single school session and the problems such a change would involve.

In response to a question by Committeeman Francis P. Frazier, Dr. Brown stated that the principal expense would be for supervisors for the lunch period.

He said the children would bring their own lunches from home and would be supplied only milk at school.

Dr. Brown declared that appropriation for this purpose could be carried as a pending item until the Finance Committee of the Newton Aldermen takes final action on the school budget in March.

The superintendent added that he has obtained a 91 per cent response on a questionaire sent to Newton teachers on the single school session. He did not elaborate upon the opinions expressed.

He stated that the study sessions committee is now working on a system to sound out the opinions of all Newton parents.

School Board Turns Down Exodus Fund

A request that a collection be made in the Newton publice schools to help finance the Exodus program for the bussing of Negro school children in Boston was turned down at Monday night's meeting of the School Committee.

School Board Chairman Harold J. Berman explained that existing rules prohibit any collection in the city's public schools.

Committeeman Francis P. Frazier seconded Berman's statement. Frazier added that although he personally sympathized with Exodus, he felt that it would be improper for

Abatement Requests Cut By Sales Tax

Partial credit was given the sales tax toward a reduction in real estate abatement applications in Newton this year. Newton Assessors said this week that applications for abatements have been the lowest in 15 years.

They said the assessors office has received only 135 abatement applications among more than 25,000 tax bills sent out for 1966.

Assessors Edward A. Fahey, Isabelle R. Mackey and J. Philip Berquist feel the small number of applications this year is "attributable in some degree to the $1.5 million received by the city from the sales and use tax."

The Assesors said the sales tax money enabled the city to establish a tax rate of $72.20, a minimum increase over the 1965 rate of $70.40.

Aldermen Engaged With 10 Hearings

One of 10 hearings on petitions, held in City Hall jointly Monday night by the aldermanic committee on Claims and Rules and the Planning Board, ended after a forest of hands had been raised by property owners who were opposed to a request of V. George Badoian of Cambridge for permission to construct a recreational complex as a part of a 39-acre tract on LaGrange st., Chestnut Hill, in the vicinity of Vine st.

The two Alderman who counted the upraised hands estimated their number at "approximately 48." None was raised in favor of the project.

The proposed complex, on six acres of a 39-acre tract, would have tennis courts, swimming pool, wading pool, a putting Green and facilities for a variety of activities, inhorse shoe pitching.

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Await Decision By Collins; Problem Facing Richardson

Boston Mayor John F. Collins and Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General-elect Elliot L. Richardson both must make important political decisions—but of a completely different nature.

Collins, who now looms as one of the leaders around whom the Democratic party will build for the future, must decide shortly whether he will stand next year for reelection to a third term as Boston's chief municipal executive.

While Collins presently is disposed to retire from office at the close of his present term, increasing pressure is being brought on him to change his mind and run again.

Richardson's problem is to convince a large number of voters across the Commonwealth that he was not engaging in cheap or dirty politics when he raised the issue six days before the election of the $12,000 in insurance company fees Francis X. Bellotti received while he was Lieutenant Governor.

Newton Woman's Soviet Tour Subject of Lecture

"Russia Revisited" is the title of a talk, illustrated with color slides, to be given by Mrs. Kay E. Stein of Newton Highlands, at the Eliot Church on Tuesday evening, November 22 at 8:15 p.m.

The program is sponsored by Newton Voice of Women, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Newton Peace Centre and Newton PAX. After the talk there will be a question and answer period. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Stein, wife of Dr. Harold J. Stein, recently returned from three weeks in Russia, as a member of a delegation of five women, chosen by the Committee for International Friendly Visits, to represent the United States on a goodwill exchange visit.

Because the delegation were guests of the Soviet Women's Committee, Mrs. Stein had a unique opportunity to discuss international problems with many prominent and influential Soviet women. Without exception, the Russian women expressed their profound dread of another war and their intense desire to see an end to the Vietnam conflict.

United Fund Volunteer workers are putting forth their best efforts this week to complete solicitation and meet the Newton goal of $144,517 by Nov. 22.

Fund officials pointed out that "undoubtedly some Newton residents have not been reached and therefore have not had the opportunity to give." In view of the need to reach the quota, they requested those not contacted to please—

"1. Mail your gift to the Newton Massachusetts Bay United Fund at 12 Page road, Newtonville. 2. Call headquarters at 969-9290 and arrange for a volunteer to pick up your pledge at your home.

Local Effort Assists State GOP Victory

GOP workers in Newton were lauded this week for their efforts during the election campaign which were reflected at the polls when Newton voters showed overwhelming preference for Republican candidates.

Chairman William A. Lincoln, of the Newton Republican City Committee, cited the several hundred Newton men and women members of the eight Ward committees for their "dedicated and sustained work.

"By far the greatest part of the credit for the gratifying results in Newton is due these men and women," Lincoln said.

Stressing that scores of men and women had worked on various assignments for many months in a variety of volunteer tasks, Lincoln said "they have made a positive and significant contribution to the strengthening of the two-party system and to the cause of good government.

"While I will most certainly communicate with each committee member personally," Lincoln stated, "I take

Newtonville Science Church Thanksgiving Day Service

Thanksgiving will be observed at a 10:45 a.m. service on Thursday, Nov. 24, in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut st., Newtonville.

Sermon readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook will bring out the close relationship between prayer and Thanksgiving.

A period will be set aside for testimonials of thanks from individuals in the congregation, who will also join in several Thanksgiving hymns.

The church soloist, Mrs. Marian H. Haynes, will sing "Sing with Grace in Your Heart," by Handel, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Shirley R. MacCloskey.

A Golden Text from Colossians and responsive reading from Psalms will set the theme for the service: "Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving . . . pay thy vows unto the most High."

The Bible lesson will include Jesus' instructions to pray "in secret," along with related passages from the Christian Science textbook:

"Christians rejoice in secret beauty and bounty, hidden from the world, but known to God . . . Prayer, watching, and working combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind . . . To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, to-day is big with blessings" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

The service will be conducted by the First Reader of the church, C. Hugo Berkman, and by Miss Marion J. Ketes, Second Reader.

The $1.80 increase was accomplished despite the fact that expenditure for Newton schools was over $1 million during this period.

In another phase of abatements, the assessors announced that about 1300 will seek benefits due to the state ruling last month concerning home owners over 70. The law provides that such owners who have homes assessed under $20,000, are entitled to a flat $350 abatements. Previously the abatements averaged $288.

The 1300 expected applications for abatements, times the $62 difference, is expected to cost the city about $81,000 this year.

They emphasized hope for increased trade with the U.S. and their wish for more personal contact with Americans through exchange visits. Interestingly, the Russian women spoke freely about hitherto taboo topics, such as Hungary and the demise of Stalinism.

Deputy Mayor Prosietova of Moscow, a woman, was delighted to receive a letter of greeting brought by Mrs. Stein from Mayor Basbas of Newton.

While in Moscow, the delegation visited various educational institutes, including the Engineering Institute and an English Specialty School where, beginning in the sixth grade, all classes are taught in English.

Several dinners given by their hostesses in their own homes gave the American women a glimpse of Russian family life. They discovered that Russian teen-agers spend much of their leisure listening to taped American music, and dancing the Frug and Watusi.

After visiting Leningrad and Volgagrad (formerly Stalingrad), the delegation went to Volzhski. There, the chief architect, an exhuberant 35-year old woman, showed them around the entirely new city. Volzhski began in 1952 as a "tent city" with a population of 14,000 and has now grown to 120,000.

At Tallinn, the capitol of Estonia, the chairman of the delegation and Mrs. Stein were interviewed on television and, much to their astonishment, were paid ten rubles ($10) cash!

One of their hostesses in Tallinn was the wife of the Prime Minister Lauristin of Estonia. She showed the delegation lovely examples of Estonia's famed ceramics, leatherwork, jewelry and abstract art.

Next year a delegation of Russian women will visit the U.S. They plan to spend several days in the Boston area. Mrs. Stein is looking forward to reciprocating the warm hospitality she received during her trip to Russia.

U. S. Vietnam Involvement Theme Of Sunday Meeting

A meeting for all those concerned with peace and organizing around community issues, is going to be held on November 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Claflin School, 465 Lowell ave., Newton.

The purpose of the meeting is to introduce the new Newton PAX Coordinator, Richard Sterne, Professor of English at Simmons, and a resident of Newton.

Jerome Grossman, chairman of Massachusetts Political Action for Peace (PAX), will make the introduction of the new chapter Coordinator for Newton PAX.

The keynote speaker of the evening will be Dr. Howard Zinn, Professor of Government at Boston University, author of "The New Abolitionists" a recent study of S.N.C.C.

He will examine the role of the peace constituency in this post-election period as they attempt to lay the foundations for effective political action in Newton in 1968.

After Dr. Zinn's address, the audience will break up into small group discussions, based on the 8 wards in Newton. Their purpose will be to highlight several community issues, and to relate our involvement in the war in Vietnam to them.

In this way, Newton PAX is concerned to come up with an effective program with the community. Adjournment is planned after the group discussion at 10 p.m.

Those concerned with our mounting involvement in Vietnam are invited to attend this meeting. Newton PAX believes that the situation is urgent and grave, and wishes to underline the importance of the meeting on November 20.

They point out that the Administration in Washington does not talk much about escalation. Yet, every day sees a fresh escalation of American troops, supplies and planes in Vietnam. Every day sees another fateful step down the road of American unilateral action in Vietnam.

The Claflin Elementary School is located on Lowell ave., just north of where Commonwealth avenue crosses that street.

Notwithstanding the creditable showing in Newton, however, GOP City Committee officials said they will make a sober evaluation of the organization's performance before and on election day. They are determined to find the weak spots and apply remedial action.

While most effective in contributing to the election of the three top constitutional officers and a U. S. Senator, City Committee officials acknowledged a number of organizational weaknesses, particularly in the races for the State Legislature where the Newton GOP organization intends to do better.

There are expected to be serious and critical analyses in this particular area and greater emphasis will be given to programs for betterment, a GOP spokesman said.

One official stressed the continuing need to emphasize "better worker and candidate recruitment; development of leadership at ward and precinct levels, and better communication between all levels of the organization and the community."

The same official advanced the opinion that the GOP organization in Newton today represents a vast improvement over what it was a few years ago. ....

"But," he added, "we are the first to recognize there is a great deal of room for improvement. We propose to start corrective work at once."

Meredith Thompson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thompson, 1141 Walnut st., Newton Highlands, and Hawley M. The Exodus program should not be confused with the METCO program. The METCO program involves the bussing of Negro children to a number of communities including Newton. It is helped by Federal funds.

Under the Exodus program Negro children are bussed from Roxbury to outlying sections of Boston. It is supported by private funds and presently is in financial difficulties.

Hearing

serving facilities for on-premises consumption, and a club or clubhouse.

The intention for the major portion of the land is to develop it with 139 single-family houses.

The city has contended that the part of the land for the complex and homes is a flood water retention area, and that its development would be unsound.

Boston Atty. James M. Langan, spokesman for the petitioner, declared that the proposed development would be helpful for the retention of water, adding that it was planned to widen and line the brook on the property, and that the grading would be carried out in a manner that would not affect the water flow.

The attorney denied that the complex was intended as a project similar to the nearby Sidney Hill Country Club.

Members of the Claims and Rules committee, including its chairman, Franklin N. Flaschner, who conducted the hearings, questioned Langan at considerable length in an effort to determine if membership in the recreation facility would be confined to the families of the 139 houses in the proposed sub-division. Stanley Miller of the Planning Board expressed doubt whether those families only could support the project.

Opponents of the proposal who spoke included Edward M. Hallet, Jr., president of the Oak Hill Improvement Association, who said the members were unanimous in their opposition; Richard W. Cohn, 73 Harwich rd.; Sidney Berkowitz, 174 Vine st.; Norman S. Berkowitz, 140 Vine st.; Marshall B. Paisner, 64 Harwich rd.; Herbert A. Nachman, 87 Harwich rd.; Dr. Gerald Sousy, 95 Harwich rd.; Dr. Julian C. Snyder, 59 Harwich rd.; Stanley E. Wiesman, 120 Harwich rd.; Melvin B. Miller, 45 Harwich rd., and Dr. David Kahn, 77 Vine st.

Two petitions by Leona Fontecchio et als for a change of zone from Private Residence to Residence D District on land on a lot in the rear of 392 and 400 Langley rd., Newton Centre, and for construction there of two garden apartment buildings containing 30 apartments in all, also met with opposition from residents of John st. and Langley rd.

Ernest G. Angevine, 95 Prince st., West Newton, represented the petitioners. He described the location, opposite the old Bowen School on Langley rd., as logical for the proposed development.

Those who expressed their objections were James Cipriano, 78 John st., and Atty. Louis Pollock, who said he represented many abutters on Langley rd. and John st. The area, Pollock said, was better suited for development of single and two-family houses, and he reminded the committee that the petition came before them two years ago, and was denied. Six property owners indicated favor, and 5 opposition.

There was opposition, too, to petitions by the famamily of Jack P. Ricciardi, former state public works commissioner, who sought a zone change from Residence D District to Residence E District on land at 268 Watertown st., Newton, and approval of a site plan for a three-story apartment building there with 12 units.

Representing the petitioners was Atty. Morris M. Golding, 115 Winslow rd., Waban, who said the Ricciardi's proposed to build the apartment because the cost of maintaining or improving the 100-year-old house, which was their former home, would be prohibitive. Location of the house is at the corner of Watertown and Pearl sts. The attorney said the apartment units would be small and none would have more than two bedrooms.

Speaking in favor of the proposal was the Rev. Silvio Barrette, pastor of St. Jean's Church. Also speaking in favor was Raffaele Corsetti, 259 watertown st. Opposed were Donato Callucci, 464 Crafts st., Newtonville; Loreto Callucci, 272 Watertown st., and Frank Cinelli, 270 Pearl st. Atty. Michael L. Pappas, 35 Rose dr., West Newton, presented a petition signed by some 50 abutters who were opposed.

Seven hands were raised in favor, and 8 opposed.

The following petitioners met with no opposition:

The Garland Nursing Home, 217 Bellevue ave., Newton, requesting transfer of its license and ownership from Elizabeth MacGregor, R.N., to Marion Greene, R.N., Milton.

The trustees of Boston College, asking permission for construction of a five-story school building at 140 Commonwealth ave., Chestnut Hill, opposite 262 Beacon st., the building to be used for education and research.

Lasell Junior College asked permission to construct two dormitories to house 120 students, 60 in each unit, at 10-12 Studio rd., Auburndale. Vincent DeLong, Lasell president, said every effort would be made for preservation of as many trees as possible, and to preserve the rolling contour of the land. One dormitory is planned to be erected at this time, with its boiler room to serve both buildings ultimately.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas' petition for a zone change on land presently unzoned that is the site of the abandoned Waban fire station at 2044 Beach st., Waban. The change would be to Single Residence B. City Planning Director James A. Miller said that several institutional uses have been proposed for the land.

The Newton South sophomore elections came to a close last Thursday. After the elimination of many office-seeking students in the primary, the contestants still in the running were Clifford Green and Paul Taylor for president; Steve Bahn and Louis Shuman for vice-president; Nancy Glazier and Donna Housman for secretary; Paul Gerstein and Roger Myerson for treasurer; Becky Bluestone, Sue Schwartz, Stuart Silverman, and Myra Stiller for member-at-large.

After the final votes were cast the winners were announced, Paul Taylor, president; Steve Bahn, vice-president; Nancy Glazier, secretary; Paul Gerstein, treasurer; and Becky Bluestone and Stuart Silverman, for members-at-large.

The victors of the Cutler House elections were Joe McVeigh, associates council representative; Pam Coill, secretary; and Hannabeth Jackson, treasurer. They now have new spirited officers and a new spirited council. The last ingredient they need for a spirited house is the full support of its members.

Within the near future the Cutler House council will be deciding on what type of vending machines to be placed in the common room.

Seek Permanent Wage Status For Sub Teachers

A request that long-term substitute teachers in the Newton public school system be paid as permanent teachers after four weeks of continuous service, was made to the School Committee Monday night by Mrs. Ruth Wiener, salary chairman of the Newton Substitute Teachers' Association.

Under the existing setup, the substitute teachers are paid on a per diem basis for the first eight weeks and are not treated as permanent teachers until their ninth week of a given assignment.

Mrs. Wiener pointed out that "education and certification requirements for substitute and full-time teachers are identical." She declared that "Newton is losing capable substitute teachers to other communities, junior colleges and private schools."

"Substitute teachers receive no benefits — such as retirement insurance, sick leave or health insurance. If the minimum salary of a regular teacher were to be pro-rated for 190 teaching days, it would be far in excess of the salary of a substitute teacher," Mrs. Wiener told the School Board members.

"When a substitute is in the same teaching position for two weeks or longer, she assumes for the most part the same duties and responsibilities required of the regular teacher with regard to daily planning, conferences, attendance at meetings and after-school help for pupils when necessary," Mrs. Wiener continued.

"Many women of excellent educational background who are interested and active in community affairs and whoes children are no longer at home all day offer their many skills and experience to the Newton public schools. The problem of being constantly on call, yet very often of not being called for several weeks, and of handling discipline problems aggravated by the absence of the regular teacher are all part of the job," Mrs. Wiener stated.

In reply to questions after she had read her prepared statement, Mrs. Wiener remarked that she herself is at present working as a substitute teacher for the Brookline school system because of the more favorable economic conditions and the shorter time required for a long-term substitute to be put on a permanent basis.

Chairman Harold J. Berman thanked Mrs. Wiener for her report and said that the School Committee would have to consider her recommendations in the context of the total school budget for 1967-68.

It was estimated that Mrs. Wiener's proposal would cost between $2000 and $3000 a year.

LETTERS

Who Were Candidates?

Editor of The Graphic:

At the Newton School Committee meeting of Oct. 10, Chairman Harold Berman announced the resignation of Hugh M. Tomb, committeeman from Ward 7. Mr. Berman said that a replacement for Mr. Tomb's unexpired term would be chosen from a list of about 20 names.

Because as a parent I am concerned with the educational standards of the Newton schools, I called Mr. Berman the following morning and asked if, since my husband and I reside in Ward 7, I might submit my name, along with the many other names being considered, to him and his committee, consisting of Aldermen William Hopkins, Jason Sacks and H. James Shea Jr.

He encouraged me to write a letter stating my educational background, my position, my age, and other pertinent facts. That evening, Oct. 11, I wrote to Mr. Berman. I am still waiting for a reply of acknowledgement.

On Nov. 7, a joint meeting of the Board of Aldermen and School Committee was held. They took less than 30 minutes to nominate, approve and swear in Vincent P. Stanton, as successor to Mr. Tomb.

According to the news report, Stanton was selected from more than 25 candidates, and Alderman Shea was permitted to register his "strong objection" to this means, in his words, of "filling an elective office by a procedure which is essentially that of an in-group appointment — not in accord with the aspirations of our democratic society."

I am delighted that a qualified man was appointed to serve on the School Committee. But who were the other 25? Why weren't their names made public before the joint meeting was held? Why weren't the citizens of Ward 7, in other words, appraised of the full details many weeks ago?

The peremptory manner in which this elective office was filled, the lack of courtesy tendered me when I wrote to Mr. Berman at his invitation, and the general indication of this Star Chamber method are shocking. These elected Newton officials play a responsible and vital role in our community. If this affair exemplifies their modus operandi, one wonders how they go about deciding other matters which more directly affect the academic lives of our young.

Concerned Parent

As a Newton mother of three I favor the Single Session for elementary schools in Newton for September 1967. There are others who are asking — as I ask — the following questions:

What progress has been made in the study group appointed by the School Committee to study this proposal? Isn't it possible for the officials of the study group to inform the public of results of their discussions through the news media? Since the original listing of group members in your paper I have seen no bulletins on the findings of this group. Is there any reason why the many concerned parents (including at least 3,000 petition signers) cannot be told about the current developments in this study group? Another question recurs — why has the successful but incomplete petitioning by parents been stopped? Many of us eagerly await answers to these questions.

Police Safety Drive Gets Girl Scout Lift

Carrying the signs were Ellen and Lynne Porter, Audrey Grossman, Susan Gesmer, Meredith Phillips, Jane Harwood, Michele Heard, Leslie Junda, Alexandra Simpson, Patricia Meinhart, Linda Hall, Beth Nation, Joyce Lambert, Peggy Braasch, Deborah Laughlin and Nancy and Bernice Aronson accompanied by their leaders Mrs. Henry Harwood and Mrs. John Braasch.

By carrying these signs, the girls have completed the community safety project required by the cyclist badge.

Troop 566 went on a bicycle trip to the Auburndale Playground recently. Accompanying the troop were Mrs. Roderic Hall and Mrs. Donald Laughlin Jr. helping Mrs. Harwood and Mrs. Braasch.

The girls taking part were Ellyn Axelrod, Peggy Braasch, Susan Gesmer, Catherine Giles, Linda Hall, Jane Harwood, Michele Heard, Joyce Lambert, Deborah Laughlin, Patricia Meinhart, Ellen and Lynne Porter, Meredith Phillips, Alexandra Simpson and Lyn Waldman.

The route they took was planned for them by Newton Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley. The girls enjoyed a walk in the woods, lunch by the river, a softball game and a game designed to show safety on a bicycle; starting, stopping, balancing easily, steering and giving proper hand signals.

Each girl was cautioned by Officer Feeley to ride in a single line, keep her brakes in good working order and obey all traffic signals.

Closing Dates Announced For Christmas Mail

Gift parcels for delivery in New England are due for mailing by Dec. 14 with cards on December 15.

Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, had considerable recent activity to report this past week.

Industry in Newton Upper Falls came through magnificently when the Bloodmobile came to Ralph Waldo Emerson School Nov. 4, when 211 people presented themselves to donate blood. Of this number 47 were first-time donors.

S. W. Industries, Inc., Sherman Division of St. Regis Paper Co., N.R.C. Equipment Corp., Bliss Gamewell, and New England Telephone all sent donors.

Forty sixth graders, two from each of the elementary schools represented at this meeting, attended. These young people made favors for the veterans at the Boston VA Hospital for the Veterans' Day celebration, and at the same time projects for Junior Red Cross were discussed. They also learned about the activities of Junior Red Cross around the world. Eighty favors were delivered to the Veterans Hospital.

While the young people were in one part of the building, a luncheon meeting of all the chairmen in the office of volunteers was going on in the nursing office. Mrs. George Norton, chairman of volunteers, called this meeting at the behest of Edward Michaud, chapter chairman.

The chairmen were informed of new policies being instituted, and they also had a chance to discuss and clarify their plans for the coming year.

Lee Loumos Says:

As I write this, I am watching the splashdown and recovery of Gemini 12. Upon occasion, I have taken the liberty to criticize the many millions of dollars of electronic brains for their minor failures in electronic equipment which have hampered or delayed our space shots, and have asked my customers to bear this in mind when they may think that we make an occasional goof in our service department. But to see our space men always take off and land successfully with such precision makes me feel a little guilty to belittle any part of so complex and sophisticated an operation. I am sure you share with me that special feeling of pride every time you see a successful splashdown and recovery.

"Fancy That" Is New Shop Now Open In Newton

The ancient Romans with their ornate baths of Caricalla, had the original idea but they never dreamed of the luxurious color combinations and coordinated splendor of shower curtains, hampers, baskets, rugs, mirrors and crystal chandeliers now being used in the bath of the modern home.

Fancy That, is the name of a new shop in Newton Centre, and when one enters its doors at 19 Pelham St., one is immediately transported to Fifth Avenue. To further reinforce this Fifth Avenue illusion there is even a perfume department featuring an exclusive line of Bergdorf Goodman.

The management of the shop are talented designers and in one of their bath compartments they are displaying a fireman's-red vanity sink of their own design, which is a guaranteed eye-opener for the sleepy-eyed late morning riser.

If you want to satisfy your longing for personalizing any design of your choosing, bring them a swatch of fabric or wall-paper or any other item you wish duplicated, and they will hand paint it on anything from a window shade shower curtain or johnny seat as displayed in their window.

Dr. Edward A. Gaensler To Open New Series Of Fried Lectures

A Newton physician to whom a career research professor award was granted by the U.S. Public Health Service in order to further his investigations into lung disease will open the 1966-67 series of Fried Medical Lectures at Newton-Wellesley Hospital next Monday evening, Nov. 21.

Edward A. Gaensler, M.D., will speak at 8 p.m. in the hospital's Usen Auditorium about "pre- and post-operative management of patients with respiratory impairment."

Dr. Gaensler is director of thoracic services at University Hospital, the teaching center for Boston University School of Medicine. A professor of surgery at that medical school, he also is associated with Harvard Medical School and with Tufts University School of Medicine, with which Newton-Wellesley Hospital maintains a formal teaching affiliation.

He became interested in the function of the lungs when the thoracic surgery service at Boston City Hospital took over the tuberculosis surgery program at the sanitorium division in Mattapan during 1947. There, breathing impairment and its relation to surgical risk became a matter of concern to Dr. Gaensler.

Subsequently, his investigations have led into the problems of emphysema and into occupational lung diseases of various types.

The U.S. Public Health Service award to Dr. Gaensler, made in 1964, recognized a need to finance further significant research into the causes and control of respiratory diseases.

His appointments at all three medical schools in Boston, in the department of surgery at Boston University and Harvard and in the department of medicine at Tufts University, are believed unique.

The author of more than 80 scientific papers, Dr. Gaensler was graduate from Harvard Medical School. He completed his internship and residencies at Boston City Hospital. He is the recipient of research and training grants from the National Heart Institute and from the National Institutes of Health, United States Public Health Service. He is a past-president of the Massachusetts Thoracic Society, a diplomate of the Board of Thoracic Surgery as well as the American Board of Surgery, and a fellow of the American College of Chest Physicians.

The Fried Medical Lectures are open to medical students, practicing physicians and others of the health professions. They were begun 14 years ago to highlight and to exchange knowledge about important achievements in the medical profession.

Some of the children participated on stage in this latter scene, and questions were also asked regarding the understanding of "La Traviata."

sions as well as my obligation to education."

The Mayor also has requested that the increase in the school operating budget for next year be held to $1 million, adding that one way he believes the school department could economize would be to defer the creation of new positions until a future year.

Mayor Basbas pointed out that he already has committed the city to a $20 million building program over the next five years, with annual expenditures of $4 million planned during that period.

Since the school budget for next year already has a built-in increase of $690,000 as a result of pay raises which went into effect in September and must be paid for a full 12 months in 1967, the School Committee could not grant the full increase requested by the teachers and still remain within the guide lines urged by the Mayor.

Newton has at present 1115.37 teachers. Part time teachers are counted as fractions of a teacher so that there are more persons involved in instruction in the Newton school system than are shown in the official total.

The Personnel Policy Committee of the Newton Teachers' Association also recommended revision of the salaries of classified personnel, namely teachers involved in administrative work such as principals, school coordinators, house masters and counselors.

Other pay increases were asked for Camp Union teachers. Additional coaches also were declared necessary for the adequate maintenance of the athletic program.

In a prepared statement at Monday night's school committee meeting, Miss Bonnie Allen, chairman of the Personnel Policies Committee, declared that "there is something like a mutation" taking place among teachers" and that "we enjoy the difference in the way society is beginning to look at us."

A 37-page report prepared by the committee for the Newton School Committee listed three reasons for the requested salary boost—the demands of excellence, the pressure of competition, and the accelerating increase in cost-of-living." The report stated that it was presenting "responsible recommendations rather than figures inflated for the purposes of bargaining."

The personnel policies committee, besides its chairman, Miss Bonnie Allen, consists of Henry Atkins of the Underwood School, Warren Bechtold of Newton South High School, John Benson of Newton Technical High School, Henry Bissex of Newton High School, Herbert Callahan of the Peirce School, Robert Carr of the Day School, Maureen Delaney of the Williams School, Arlene Fair of the Oak Hill School, David Hammack of Newton South High School, A. Lincoln Heck of the Warren School, Mary Hogan of Newton High School, Jean Hoxie of the Division of Instruction, Mary Hynes of the Weeks School, H. Poock of Newton Junior College, Richard Salinger of the Angier School, Thayer S. Warshaw of Newton High School and Helen M. Ryan.

The committee's report affirmed that "it is essential that the status of the Newton teacher be raised to its proper place in relation to other professions, such as law or medicine."

"The good teacher," the report declared, "is no longer willing to subsist as for so long he did. He is aware that enormous amounts of money are now pouring into the new business—education. He persists in believing that the teacher is still the crux of the matter," the report explained.

If the proposal were adopted by the School Committee and Board of Aldermen, a starting teacher with a bachelor's degree would receive $6200 per year instead of the present $5500.

After teaching 19 years, however, the same teacher with his or her B.A. degree would receive $12,500 in his or her 20th year of teaching as a result of the yearly pay increases or "steps."

A teacher with a master's degree would be paid $400 more than a colleague with only a B.A. degree all down the salary scale. Under the proposed salary schedule, therefore, a teacher with an M.A. would start at $6650 and after 19 years of experience would have worked up to $13,550 in his or her 20th year.

An additional $300 raise in every step of the salary schedule is granted to a teacher who after obtaining the M.A. degree goes on to do a year's graduate work toward his doctorate, without however receiving that degree. If the teacher becomes a Ph.D. he is given an additional $400 hike at every level of the pay schedule.

At present, a Newton teacher with a doctor's degree starts at $6600 and upon beginning his or her 21st year of teaching receives $13,900. Under the suggested changes, a Ph.D. would begin at $7350 and climb to $14,650.

To qualify for continued pay raises after his 14th year or in the case of a holder of a doctorate his 15th year, a teacher must have had an "outstanding performance." However, bachelor's degree holders would still be entitled to automatic promotion to the 14th step at $10,400 a year, while an M.A. holder would get up to $11,150 or $11,450 if he had done an additional year of graduate study, upon entering his 14th year of teaching in Newton.

A Ph.D. would rise through senority to $12,250 which he would attain in his 15th year of service.

The committee also discussed the notable service awards to Newton teachers and polled principals about the number of teachers they would like to recommend for the awards for the year 1967-68. According to the report, $62,825 was expended this year on notable service awards to 167 teachers, or 14.9 percent of the total instructional staff.

It announced that "a survey of Newton elementary and secondary principals, carried out by the personnel policiers committee on Oct. 22, indicated that Newton principals estimate that 232 teachers will be recommended by them for double increments and extended maxima for the 1967-68 school year.

In other words, the distinguished service awards allows a teacher to go up two steps in the salary schedule in the given year instead of the one to which he is entitled because of seniority, or if he has reached his 14th or 15th pay step, it permits him to continue receiving annual increases.

Political Highlights

Political experts already are arguing over whether Mayor Collins would have defeated Attorney General Edward W. Brooke if he had been the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate against Brooke instead of Endicott Peabody.

No one will ever be sure of the answer to that question, and Collins probably would have had a difficult time withstanding the Republican tide running at the head of the ballot on election day.

But Collins certainly would have made a better fight against Brooke than Peabody did. If Brooke had won over Collins, it would have been no runaway.

Events proved pretty conclusively that the Democratic State Convention wasn't Collins' political cup of tea; neither was the primary. But the final election campaign would have been tailor-made for him.

Because of his mayoralty duties, Collins didn't have the time to visit the 1600-odd convention delegates in their homes and personally solicit their votes as Peabody did. And the defeat he suffered at the convention in June proved too great an obstacle for him to overcome in the September primary.

However, Collins would have waged the kind of campaign against Brooke a candidate had to make in order to have a chance of winning in the political climate which existed for this election.

Peabody tried to handshake his way into the U.S. Senate. It worked in the primary, but not in the election. He did not utilize television or the mass communications media to get his message to the voters, as Collins did in the primary and would have done in the election campaign.

With all due respect to Attorney General Brooke, he issued no debate challenges until after Collins was eliminated in the primary. Brooke was not anxious to debate when he thought the articulate Collins would be his election adversary.

An ironic aspect to the entire situation from Collins' standpoint was that he ran for the Senate because he thought he would have no opposition within the Democratic party.

Some of his advisers told him at the time he was seeking the wrong office, that with the administrative ability he had displayed as Mayor of Boston he should stand for the Governorship.

But the gubernatorial field already was crowded, and Collins wanted to avoid combat within his own party if he could. Peabody at the time was running for Governor. However, Edward J. McCormack talked Peabody out of the race for Governor and into the Senate contest, and Collins suddenly found himself in a fight he hadn't expected.

Mayor Collins was right when he declared that the Democratic State Convention is a complete waste of time, energy and money.

The late President John F. Kennedy expressed much the same sentiment and had bills filed to wipe out the convention system of endorsing candidates only to see the measures killed in the Legislature.

There's no likelihood of the State Conventions being abolished while John A. Volpe is Governor. Mr. Volpe does a pretty effective job of running the GOP conclave.

Careful studies of the election returns indicate that Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson would have defeated former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti by between 300,000 and 350,000 votes if he had never mentioned the insurance fees Bellotti received while Lieutenant Governor.

That estimate is based on the polls which were made right up to the time the insurance fee issue exploded in the bitter Attorney General battle and on Richardson's strength as compared to that of Volpe and Brooke.

The surveys showed Richardson running ahead of Brooke in many areas and ahead of Volpe in a few sections.

But well over 100,000 persons who had intended to vote for Richardson shifted and marked their ballots for Bellotti because they felt Richardson had launched an 11th hour attack and because Bellotti was able to arouse sympathy for himself.

Most political experts, who believe firmly in a don't-rock-the-boat strategy for a front-running candidate, think Richardson used poor judgment in raising the insurance fee issue when the polls showed that Richardson had overtaken and passed Bellotti and was building a substantial lead.

Whatever criticism may be directed at Richardson's political judgments, the facts are that he did not make an 11th hour attack, that he did not indulge in smear tactics and that he did not engage in dirty politics.

Up to the time that this is being written, the questions posed by Richardson had not been answered — at least not by the insurance company officials who signed the statements to which Richardson referred.

Yet, it was Richardson, not Bellotti, who was on the defensive in the acrimonious dispute over the insurance fees as the campaign came to a close.

Because Bellotti wanted his named cleared before election day, Attorney General Brooke announced that he would refer the matter to a Grand Jury the day before election.

Then Brooke allowed officials of an out-of-state insurance company to tell him they couldn't come here the day he wanted them because they needed more time to research their records although the row had erupted several days earlier and it would reasonably be expected that the officials would have looked into their records when the dispute exploded.

All this does not offset the fact that Richardson lost a great many votes because of the insurance fee issue, at least partly because of the way it was handled after he raised it.

Richardson never accused Bellotti of a conflict of interest. He raised the question of a possible conflict of interest and of the propriety of Bellotti's name being on file in the State Insurance Department as an insurance company's representative while he was Lieutenant Governor.

Some of the points raised by Richardson during the great debate over the insurance fees were completely lost on many people because of the emotional turn the argument took.

Richardson knew he was leading Bellotti a week before election and was apparently on his way to a decisive victory at the polls.

He knew he was taking a political risk in bringing the insurance fee issue into the open, but he felt the people were entitled to know about the statements contained in the affidavits on file at the State House.

Richardson, of course, didn't anticipate the adverse reaction which developed or expect that he would be accused of indulging in gutter politics.

Now the problem troubling him is how to clear up the impression he created in the minds of many people.

Attorney General Brooke, who tried to resolve the matter before the election, now presumably will get all the answers for the public in more leisurely fashion.

Because of the time element involved, Brooke intended to place the matter before a Grand Jury on the day before the election.

It hardly seems that action is necessary now. It would be surprising, indeed, if the insurance companies involved refused to permit members of Brooke's staff to examine their records.

An awkward situation would develop if Brooke does not clear up the situation and it is left for Richardson to do when he becomes Attorney General.

One way or another, however, Richardson is not likely to be satisfied to leave the matter unresolved.

Democrats Now Moan Over Four - Year Terms

Many Democrats are moaning and groaning over the fact that they supported a change in the State Constitution under which the Governor and the other State Constitutional officers are now elected for four-year terms instead of two years.

It was labelled as a reform when it was proposed, but the Democrats don't think it will be much of a reform to have the three top offices in the State government held by Republicans for the next four years.

There'll probably be more complaining four years from now when some people wake up to the fact they voted away their right to choose between the candidates for Lieutenant Governor and that when they make their choice for Governor they must take his Lieutenant Governor running mate, whether they like it or not.

Braintree Cinema I and II Opens at Shopping Plaza

The most beautiful and unique theatres in greater Boston opened Wednesday, November 16, at the South Shore Shopping Plaza in Braintree. The opening of Cinema I and II marks the thirteenth entry of General Cinema Corporation into the area.

The Boston-based company also operates Cinema I and II, Framingham; Cinema I and II, Peabody; Cinema I and II, Brockton; Fresh Pond Cinema, Cambridge; Cinema, Saugus; Uptown Theatre, Boston; Gorman and St. George Theatres, Framingham; Cinema, Norwood; Strand Theatre, Ipswich; Plaza Twin Drive-In Theatre in Braintree, and the Natick Drive-In Theatre in Natick.

With the opening of this new unit, General Cinema Corporation will now operate 122 units in 24 states and in addition to Braintree Cinema I and II, will open eight more units before Christmas in Yonkers, New York; Denver, Colorado; San Mateo, California; Cincinnati, Ohio; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Lewiston, Maine; and two in St. Louis, Missouri.

The theatre is the architectural concept of William Riseman of Boston, and has been designed to provide the ultimate in convenience and comfort, featuring the latest and finest in theatre appointments.

The location of the theatre will serve to eliminate traffic congestion and a unique ticket - selling arrangement will dispense with any box office lines. Thousands of free parking spaces are available and even the farthest area is within a stone's throw of the theatre.

With comfort and convenience as the watchword, pushback seats have been installed on an inclined floor. The seats have been designed to combine both retraction and pushback movement, providing 25 per cent more room than is normally found in conventional seating arrangements. This will permit patrons to pass between rows without causing anyone to rise, and the staggered seating plan will give an unobstructed view of the screen from any seat in the house.

Projection and sound equipment encompass the latest developments in the field of electronic research and engineering. The air-conditioning system has been perfected to change thermostatically from cooling to heating, as needed, and the theatre is acoustically treated throughout. A huge wall - to - wall screen envelops the entire front of the auditorium, providing perfect viewing from any seat in the theatre.

The Cinema, as in all other General Cinema Corporation Shopping Center Theatres, has an art gallery which will provide a showcase for the works of local artists.

General Cinema has been a pioneer in the development of the shopping center theatre, just as it was a leader in the development of the drive-in theatre during the 40's and 50's. Its first shopping center theatre was placed in operation at Framingham in 1951.

ROMANTIC LEGEND OF CHEESE

Cheese has been man's food since 2000 B.C. According to an ancient tale, an Arab merchant poured milk into his sheepskin pouch before a long journey. The bag jostled at his saddle all day. Enzymes had turned it into tender curds. He ate the curds and the world had its first cheese.

We Join You In

THANKSGIVING

In the time-honored tradition of Thanksgiving we join with you to give thanks for countless blessings and our thoughts naturally turn to the boys in Viet Nam gallantly defending our way of life.

With this in mind, we will devote this portion of our advertisement to a message to the mothers and fathers with sons in Viet Nam.

FOR THE BOYS IN VIET NAM . . .
A GIFT FROM ROCHE BROS.!

A Special Gift-Packaged S. S. Pierce HOLIDAY FRUIT CAKE

If you have a son in Viet Nam and you live in any of the following towns . . .

Roslindale	Needham	Westwood	Medfield
West Roxbury	Newton	Foxboro	Walpole	Wellesley
Dedham	Norwood	Sharon	Canton

Roche Bros. will send him an S. S. Pierce Holiday Fruit Cake for Christmas.

Please follow these simple directions to make sure your son receives his fruit cake. Come into either Roche Bros. Supermarket and fill out a gift card before Wednesday, Nov. 23rd, so that your son can receive his fruit cake in time for Christmas.

Just a word as to why Roche Bros. is making this unusual offer. Every year Roche Bros. sends a Thanksgiving advertising circular through the mails. This year we are not using this type of direct mail advertising and this leaves us with an unused surplus in our advertising budget. We feel that this surplus could be used in no better way than to let the boys in Viet Nam know that we appreciate their efforts on our behalf. We sincerely hope that we have presented this message in a manner that does not smack of commercialism, because our only intent is to express in some small way our thanks to the men in Viet Nam protecting our precious gift of freedom.

A PRAYER for Thanksgiving

For Family and Friends, For Happiness and Health, For This Land of Liberty and Its Proud Heritage, May We Ever Be Grateful.

He is a 1957 graduate of Newton high school, a 1961 graduate of Boston University, College of Liberal Arts, and is married to the former Elaine Wollock, of Newton.

Climbers Scale Mount Chocorua

The Alpine Climbing Society of Weeks Junior High School scaled Mt. Chocorua in the White Mountain range of New Hampshire on a recent Sunday.

Accompanying the 40 students were Stephen Fiott, earth science teacher and the club's organizer; Miss Dianne Hanchey, art teacher at the school, and Robert Kilburn, science coordinator for the City of Newton.

At Weetamoo Rock, where the group paused for lunch, the three teachers and selected students did some rock climbing on the 35-foot glacial erratic, while the others watched and learned the fundamentals of rock climbing.

Continuing upward, the group reached the Jim Liberty shelter, and inspected various geological and ecological characteristics of the mountain.

The ascent to the mountain's cone proved exciting. Once there, winds up to 40 and 50 m.p.h. were encountered, and the temperature was in the teens.

Mr. Fiott explained the surrounding terrain and mountain ranges as well as the folk lore of Chocorua and then the descent was begun along the Piper Trail.

Audrey Lee Jacobs, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harvard D. Jacobs, 25 Haynes Rd., Newton Centre, has been elected dormitory representative to the college dramatics association at Russell Sage College, Troy, N. Y., where she is a freshman majoring in psychology.

Scout Group Sees Alcohol's Tragic Effects

Friday night, November 4, Explorer Post 355, of West Newton, sponsored by St. Bernard's Church, went to the South End district of Boston for the purpose of learning about the influence of alcohol on human life, and the prevention and correction of drunkenness.

The Post visited the House of 12 Steps, which is sponsored by Alcoholics Anonymous, where the manager of the House described the work of A.A., which is the rehabilitation of alcoholics. Several members, who were past alcoholics, presented their own life stories — how they fell into the vice, with what tragic results, and how the House helped them return to normal life.

After this visit, the Explorers went through several streets of the South End and became acquainted with the history of the district and some of the people living there, and the boys saw some living examples of the horrible effect of the drinking habit.

Later on ,they went to Division 4 Police Station where Captain Doucette had a talk with the boys, acquainting them with the crime and type of work the police do in this district. One of the detectives described some of his more interesting criminal cases and how he solved them.

The trip was organized and conducted by Ralph Sissin, North District Scout Executive, and the boys were accompanied by their post advisor, Stanley Schroter. Eight Explorers went on the trip, Jay Gentile, Jr., Steve Carter, Ed Schroter, Ted Maslowski, Jay Coffidis, Don Dewsnap, Ken Swanton and Al Camerato.

Eugene A. Long, of 26 Placid rd., Newton Centre, and his daughter, Pamela, 15, were driving home with two others when the light plane was forced to make an emergency landing on the wide turnpike.

Long said he saw the aircraft coming toward him, "wavering about 20 feet off the highway." He turned to his daughter and remarked, "he looks like he's trying to land."

Moments later the plane did land, setting off a chain reaction crash. The Long car was struck in the rear by a car driven by a Winthrop man. No one was injured.

The plane pilot and his passenger were not hurt. Pilot Edward Reardon, of Newburyport, told police the engine quit and he had to find a "place-to-land-in-a-hurry."

Scout Group Sees Alcohol's Tragic Effects

Friday night, November 4, Explorer Post 355, of West Newton, sponsored by St. Bernard's Church, went to the South End district of Boston for the purpose of learning about the influence of alcohol on human life, and the prevention and correction of drunkenness.

The Post visited the House of 12 Steps, which is sponsored by Alcoholics Anonymous, where the manager of the House described the work of A.A., which is the rehabilitation of alcoholics. Several members, who were past alcoholics, presented their own life stories — how they fell into the vice, with what tragic results, and how the House helped them return to normal life.

After this visit, the Explorers went through several streets of the South End and became acquainted with the history of the district and some of the people living there, and the boys saw some living examples of the horrible effect of the drinking habit.

Later on ,they went to Division 4 Police Station where Captain Doucette had a talk with the boys, acquainting them with the crime and type of work the police do in this district. One of the detectives described some of his more interesting criminal cases and how he solved them.

The trip was organized and conducted by Ralph Sissin, North District Scout Executive, and the boys were accompanied by their post advisor, Stanley Schroter. Eight Explorers went on the trip, Jay Gentile, Jr., Steve Carter, Ed Schroter, Ted Maslowski, Jay Coffidis, Don Dewsnap, Ken Swanton and Al Camerato.

Anything Can Hap'en In Me.

Eugene A. Long, of 26 Placid rd., Newton Centre, and his daughter, Pamela, 15, were driving home with two others when the light plane was forced to make an emergency landing on the wide turnpike.

Long said he saw the aircraft coming toward him, "wavering about 20 feet off the highway." He turned to his daughter and remarked, "he looks like he's trying to land."

Moments later the plane did land, setting off a chain reaction crash. The Long car was struck in the rear by a car driven by a Winthrop man. No one was injured.

The plane pilot and his passenger were not hurt. Pilot Edward Reardon, of Newburyport, told police the engine quit and he had to find a "place-to-land-in-a-hurry."

Waban Couple Provides For 2nd Adoptee

In place of a little girl in Greece they "financially adopted" a few years ago, and who no longer requires their help, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Latner, 12 Rokeby Rd., Waban, have acquired another little lass, 6-year-old Georgia Velli, also of Greece.

The "adoption" procedure, which costs $15 a month for a minimum of a year, was managed by Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park Ave. South, New York.

Little Georgia lives with her parents and five sisters and brothers in a village eight miles from Agrinion in the hills of Western Greece. Her father, a field worker all his life, tried to eke out a living for his family, but now is physically unfit for work.

Under the Foster Parents' Plan, for $15 an individual or group can support a child for a month, the sum providing a cash grant of more than half the total, new clothing, household equipment, complete medical care and education.

Move To Revise Aldermanic Procedures

A number of proposals for streamlining Aldermanic procedures were contained in a Legislative Committee report submitted at the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

The report, made by Alderman William M. Glovsky, legislative committee chairman, was given unanimous approval.

It made the following recommendations:

"1. That the Board sponsor and support bills to be introduced at the next session of the State Legislature to accomplish the following objectives:

"(a) The elimination of the requirement for signature and transmission by the Board of Aldermen of police reports in connection with certificates of incorporation of non-profit corporations, so that the presently required information could be furnished directly by local Police Departments to the Secretary of State without the intervening activity of the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor. There would be added, however, a requirement for approval of the principal location of the charitable organization by a designated agency of each municipality to assure compliance with zoning laws.

"(b) The elimination of approval of changes of ownership of public utility pole locations from one public utility to another, or from one public utility to joint ownership with one or more other public utilities, and to substitute therefor the approval of a departmental agency of the municipality designated by the municipality.

"(c) That wherever hearings under present law are required before the legislative body of a municipality, the legislative body would have the authority to assign such hearings either on an individual basis or as a matter of general policy to a constituent committee of the legislative body. It is intended that this proposal cover such items as location of public utility poles and changes of location of public utility polies, storage of inflammables, street openings, street acceptances, sewers and drains, and any petitions with regard to buildings which are in a dangerous condition or hazardous to health.

"(d) In each of the foregoing cases, each municipality would have an election to adopt the new law or to continue to be governed by existing law.

"2. That the City Solicitor be requested to prepare and submit to the chairman of the Legislation Committee on or before Nov. 16, drafts of the foregoing legislation.

"3. That the Board by resolution at its meeting on Nov. 21, adopt a resolution indicating its support for the proposed legislation, which would be formally presented to the Board at the meeting on Nov. 21.

"4. That the Board forward to the five State Representatives and the two State Senators representing portions of the city copies of the resolution and the proposed bills, requesting that they file the same jointly with the State Legislature and support and sponsor the same.

1. WHAT'S THE ADVANTAGE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY UNITED FUND OVER SEPARATE COMMUNITY FUNDS?

The 1966-67 MBUF Campaign will provide a single campaign in 64 Massachusetts Bay communities. Residents of one community who work in another can now pledge their Fare Share at their places of employment and be assured that the community in which they live will receive increased benefits. Moreover, the resources of the 340 agencies and services included in this fall's United Fund drive are geared to meet the needs of the residents and workers of the entire Massachusetts Bay area.

2. WHO RUNS THE UNITED FUND?

It is a voluntary organization of givers. As a non-profit corporation chartered by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it is governed by a volunteer Board of Directors—men and women from management, labor, the professions, including housewives and other interested citizens. The Board members spend a great portion of their time making certain that their gifts and the gifts of others are properly used.

3. HOW WAS THE GOAL SET?

Community needs were carefully studied by committees of able and experienced volunteer leaders from business, industry, labor finance and the professions. The total needs were then appraised by the United Fund Executive Committee in light of a goal figure which, although lower than agency requests, would raise the most money.

4. WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THERE WERE NO UNITED FUND?

The Massachusetts Bay Area would be plagued with 340 separate appeals—almost one each day throughout the entire year. Agency personnel would be required to spend a great deal of time on fund raising activities, thereby curtailing services to those in need. Chaos would replace sound community planning unless some of the less popular of less well known agency services were taken over by the government. This, in turn, would increase our taxes.

5. WHY ARE THERE CAMPAIGNS OUTSIDE OF THE UNITED FUND?

Our United Fund is one of the most complete in the nation, and it maintains an "open door" policy; nevertheless, there are still some organizations which conduct separate drives. Some national health agencies refuse to accept the principle of community-wide budgeting and program coordination by local citizens. Their go-it-alone attitude will continue so long as the public provides funds to support them. Separate campaigns will be reduced only when their sponsors find it difficult to recruit volunteers and raise money easily.

6. WHAT ABOUT THE GOVERNMENT'S ANTI-POVERTY PROGRAM?

The Economic Opportunity Act, more familiarly known as "The War on Poverty," specifically states that projects supported by the government program may not replace, supplant or duplicate any existing services in a community. Therefore, Anti-Poverty funds cannot be used to finance any services now supported by your United Fund. Moreover, the "poverty" programs will not lessen the future need for United Fund support of agency services. As families and individuals free themselves from poverty, it is a certainty that demands for services provided by United Fund-supported agencies will increase.

7. DOES THE UNITED FUND SUPPORT MEDICAL RESEARCH?

Yes—through the Medical Foundation, a United Fund agency. The Foundation plans and carries out a broad program in health education and medical research which cuts across lines of all diseases. A United Fund Fair Share contributor meets his full citizenship obligation for support of medical research of all types.

Trophy On Six Months Visit . . .

Newton, Waltham Tie, 6-6, As Waltham Honors Doctor

The Doc Cohn Trophy arrived at Newton High School Monday for a six month's stay. At the end of the period it will go back to Waltham to rest in honored repose there.

A 6-6 tie in the 60th annual football tilt between Newton and ancient rival Waltham necessitated the sharing of the trophy during the year.

Because last Friday was "Doc Cohn Appreciation Day" at Leary Field in Waltham, the Watch City gridsters went all-out to "win it for Doc," but the Garden City Tigers battled the fired-up Walthamites to a deadlock.

Although Dr. Samuel A. Cohn didn't see his team win, he did see a fine football game between two groups of youngsters displaying sportsmanship at its finest. As Waltham team physician from 1932 to 1965, the "Doc" witnessed many, many games but none with the special meaning that Friday's game held. It was his day and they were playing for him.

Newton quarterback Dick Dezotell put on a dazzling display and won the raves of the Waltham coaches and team, as well as his own fans. He connected on 10 out of 21 for a total of 98 yards. More than once he hit his man even though he was surrounded by a trio of Waltham defenders.

In eight games, he is 51 for 104 and 723 yards.

For the second year in a row, Waltham quarterback Kevin Murphy was a thorn in the side of the Tigers. Last year, as third string quarterback, he was called into the game when both Rick Furbush and Ralph Goudet were sidelined by injuries.

With 2:04 left to play, Murphy passed 23 yards for the game's lone touchdown. Friday he returned a Newton punt 80 yards for Waltham's marker. He fielded Bill Thurston's 33-yard boot on the run at his own 20 and headed straight up the middle. Without blocking, he blasted his way past four defenders to reach daylight at midfield, then, cutting toward the left sideline, he had only tackle Dave Riley to beat.

For the first time this season, Waltham lined up for a place kick attempt for a one-point conversion. A poor snap from center and the try went awry.

The Tigers came right back on the ensuing kickoff to tie the score. The 71-yard sustained march consumed 14 plays and included four first downs. Dezotell mixed passing with over-tackle slashes of Robbie Cohen and Steve Colantuono to cover the ground. Cohen carried the mail to paydirt from the one-yard line.

Dezotell tried for a two-point conversion via the air lanes to end Dave Lawrence but linebacker Furbush batted it down.

Waltham Coach Hal Kopp called the tie "well deserved" by both teams. He also vowed his team would never again try a kick after a touchdown. "From now on this team goes for the two points," Kopp said.

Coach Jim Ronayne was satisfied but not happy with the tie. "I don't like to lose and prefer a win to a tie. However, after losing two weeks in a row in the closing minutes, this tie is satisfying."

Newton's next game is with traditional Turkey Day rival, Brookline, on Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 a.m. at Dickinson Field.

Former Newton Tiger Rosenberg Seems On Way To Coaching Career

John Rosenberg, Harvard University senior from Newton, is writing one of the most unusual stories of the current football season. The former Newton High linebacker is aiding Harvard Freshman Coach Henry Lamar as an assistant coach in charge of the Freshmen linebackers.

Rosenberg began this fall as the number six varsity linebacker. Crimson defensive coach Jim Lentz, knowing of John's strong interest in coaching, called him aside and made a unique offer.

The Crimson freshman team was in need of another defensive coach and Lentz felt that Rosenberg was the man for the job.

"John knew that working into the Varsity picture could be difficult because he stands 5-7 and weighs only 160," explains Lentz. "I also knew that there is no keener student of the technical aspects of football on our squad than John. He knows our linebacking and overall defensive system extremely well."

Rosenberg is the first undergraduate to serve on the Crimson football coaching staff as a full-time assistant in recent years.

"Ever since I was about eight or nine I've wanted to be a football coach," says John. "I knew that there was only a slight chance for me to see varsity action this fall, but when coach Lentz offered me this opportunity, I was faced with a tough decision."

It was Jack Fadden, Harvard's trainer, who convinced Rosenberg to take the coaching job. Farren told him that the opportunity was a rare one and that the experience would be a good background if Rosenberg was serious about a coaching career.

While John gave up one of his dreams—that of playing football for Harvard— his coaching experience has been satisfying.

"Ever since I was a youngster, I've read books by outstanding coaches or analyzed football films," John says. "In High School, I would spend many hours going over our films and the films of next week's opponent. Now, I have a chance to put my knowledge to use."

As a senior at Newton High, John was an offensive guard and defensive linebacker on the same team with Dartmouth's quarterback Mickey Beard and Harvard tackle Joe DeBettencourt. In his final game as a senior against Brookline, Rosenberg was chosen the game's most valuable player for his work at linebacker.

Not only is John spending about 30 hours a week as a coach, but he is also an honors candidate in social relations and will present a thesis on the "Psychology of Coaching." In conjunction with this thesis, John has attended several coaching clinics. Last Spring he went to Atlantic City, where he heard USC's John McKay and Alabama's Coach Bear Bryant, among others. Rosenberg paid his own way for the entire trip.

In addition to coaching and studying, John is a busy husband and father. Married for two years, he has a daughter, age 10 months. Mrs. Debby Rosenberg, a pretty blond, helps out the family finances by working part time as a secretary.

John received his first taste of being a "head coach" when he took the Harvard freshmen "B" team to Worcester to play the Worcester Tech freshman squad. His debut was a success as his charges routed Worcester, 47-0. "That afternoon provided me with the greatest satisfaction of my athletic career," smiles John.

"John is a dedicated and a very talented coach," Henry Lamar says. "He should have great success when he's on his own."

Upon graduation, John hopes to remain on the Crimson coaching staff for another year while he attends graduate school in education in order to obtain a master's degree.

South Finale Next Saturday . . .

Lions Caged, 22-0, As Red Raiders Romp

By NORMAN KAPLAN

The Lions from Newton South, minus a Thanksgiving Day game, will wind up their season this Saturday at Cambridge Latin. South was scheduled to meet the Charles River boys on October 3, but the contest was washed out by a torrential downpour. Traditional Thanksgiving Day rival, Hingham, joined a new league this year and was forced to bow out from its perenial contest, with the Lions. South has searched high and low for a replacement for the Turkey Day tilt, but has been unable to find an opponent.

Upset-minded South was unable to turn thoughts into deeds, as Melrose whipped the Lions Friday afternoon 22-0. The Melrose Red Raiders administered all of their punishment in the first half, as they swept over 223 yards in the air and on the ground, while limiting a scattered 15 yards to the handcuffed Lions.

Brian Berkowitz was easily the most outstanding player for Melrose. The powerful back raised havoc with the South line while netting two touchdowns in the process. He ran up his season scoring total to 130 points, one of the highest total in the state.

Eight plays after the opening kickoff, Berkowitz raged four yards for the first Melrose touchdown. The 2 point conversion attempt clicked, and the Raiders led 8-0.

In the second quarter the Lions stubbornly battled the Melrose offense forcing them into a punting situation. However, the punter faked, tucked the ball under his arm and raced 34 yards before being tackled at the South 30 yard marker. This play set up the second Raider touchdown 4 plays later, on a two yard Berkowiz plunge.

Melrose ended its scoring towards the end of the second quarter with a 12 yard touchdown pass from quarterback Dave Sheridan to end Bill Greeley. Melrose added the two extra points to give themselves a luxurious 22-0 lead.

Those spectators that left after the first half, fearing a total annihilation, may have been mildly shocked to find that the Melrose 22 point output was not added to in the entire second half.

The South offense, although unable to score untracked itself in the third quarter. The Lions, beginning their drive on their 25, stayed on the ground with Captain Frank Rezzuti and Steve Cooper doing the rushing. In eight plays they moved the ball to Melrose's 27 yard line. Quarterback Gordon Merigan then completed a 12 yard aerial to sophomore Tom Rezzuti, bringing the Lions within striking distance at the 15 yard line. The next play, however, brought misfortune, as Cooper plowed five yards, only to have the ball pop loose. Melrose recovered the fumble on their own 10 yard line to kill South's scoring bid

At the game's end, the Lions had managed a total offense of 105 yards, and 7 first downs, statistics buried by the Red Raiders' performance of 340 yards and 18 first downs. The Melrose victory boosted their record to 7-1. South's record now stands at 4 wins and 3 losses.

Huge Technical Meeting To Be Hub's Largest

Two engineers who are Newton residents are expected to attend a gathering of more than 7000 engineers and scientists to be held Nov. 29 through Dec. 2 in Boston's War Memorial Auditorium.

Members of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, they are Mattthew Hurwitz, 63 Oakland Ave., Auburndale, who is associated with Dynatech Corporation, and Edward B. Roberts, 17 Fellsmere Rd., Newton Centre, of MIT.

The four-day session is likely to be the largest technical meeting that has ever been held in Boston.

Participants in the meeting will be addressing themselves to what the Institute believes are the five most pressing topics facing the aerospace industry today: Manned Orbital Flight in the 1970's, Air Transportation, Space Science Experiments, Propulsion Systems, and Aerospace Technology Utilization.

Opposition To Apts. In Upper Falls Claimed Light

Residents of the Newton Upper Falls area in which the Royal Colonial Gardens Realty Trust Company seeks permission to construct garden-type apartment buildings having 44 units, are by no means solidly opposed to the project, according to Krist E. Apog, 1161 Boylston street, the realty trust's owner.

Mr. Apog has filed with the Board of Aldermen a study he caused to be made since the Thursday, Oct. 10, public hearing given the trust company's petition by the Planning Board and Claims and Rules committee of the Aldermen.

At that hearing, a petition signed by 139 residents opposed to the project, was introduced, but Mr. Apog points out now that the 139 persons were not all property owners —the signatures of more than one member of a family were included, and so actually, there were only 95 names of property owners who were opposed.

Mr. Apog further claims that many of the persons were induced to sign the petition by representations that granting the request would lead not only to garden apartment, but to a bowling alley, gasoline station, and such uses.

Says Mr. Apog: "Study of the 97 homes in favor of the proposals shows that they contain a higher proportion of long-term residents, many of whom have lived in the vicinity all their lives.

"Also, since the public hearing, the Parish of St. Paul, containing some 300 families, most of them in Newton Highlands and Newton Upper Falls, has expressed in writing its support of garden apartments for this site.

"This makes the total number of proponents 297, against 95 opponents.

"The only fair conclusion is that many people are opposed and many in favor, making this an ideal situation to have the proposals determined upon their merit for the good of the city."

Tells Of Return To Korea With Adopted Boy

Mrs. Loy Long of 1830 Commonwealth Ave., Auburndale, opened her home to a meeting of Wellesley Branch, National League of American Pen Women, last Thursday afternoon.

Roger Clark, English teacher at Bigelow Junior High School, was the speaker. Mr. Clark, whose book for young people, "Ride the White Tiger," published by Little Brown, is based on the true story of Kim, a Korean child he met during the Korean War, described his recent round-the-world trip and his re-visit to Korea. With him on the trip was Christopher Kim Clark, the "Lee" of his story, whom he had adopted and brought to this country 12 years ago.

Among the members attending was Mrs. George W. Palmer 3rd of Newton Highlands. Other members and guests were present from Wellesley, Needham, Cambridge, and Boston.

BU Graduate Students At New Junior College

Sister Maria Vianney, O.S.F., of St. Joseph's Hospital in Providence, R.I., and Samuel Daramola of Nigeria are spending the entire semester at Newton Junior College, examining the curriculum of the two-year program as part of their course requirement at Boston University.

Sister Maria, a graduate of Berry College in Georgia, remarked that she is impressed by the nursing program at the college, and that she is in "complete agreement with the American Nurses Association and the National League for Nursing that nursing preparation should be in an educational institution".

Mr. Daramola, who intends to teach nursing education at the university level in Nigeria, noted that the Newton Junior College Nursing curriculum has "the noteworthy characteristics of being a well-integrated academic and service-oriented experience."

The two-year nursing program, instituted in 1959, is the first two-year program of its kind in a public junior college in New England. Approved by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing, this program requires two academic years and one six-year summer session. Students undertake liberal arts courses as well as nursing education and hospital experience at community hospitals. This year the students have been at Newton Wellesley Hospital and the V.A. Hospital in West Roxbury.

Miss Allen and her staff have been consultants to individuals and colleges interested in the two-year nursing program, and during this current year they are cooperating with the Graduate Program in Nursing at Boston University and Boston College.

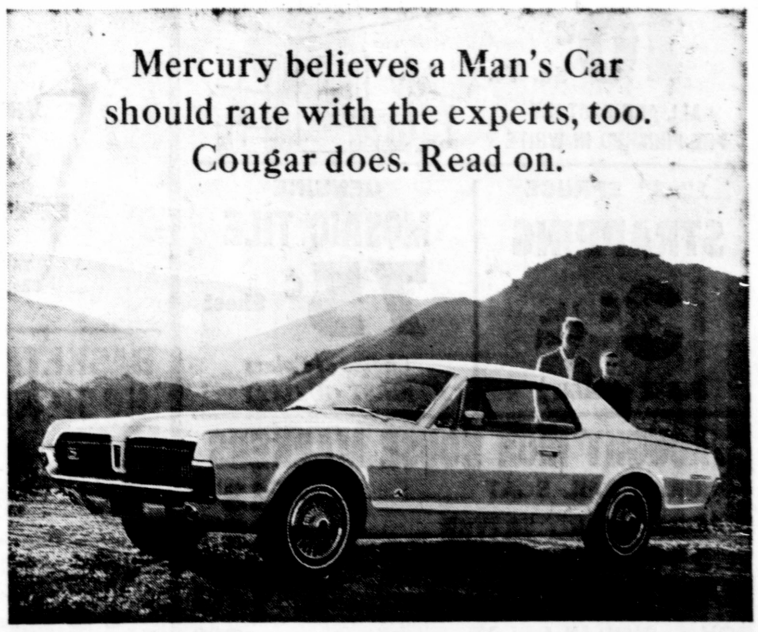
Mercury believes a Man's Car should rate with the experts, too. Cougar does. Read on.



"Cougar has its own distinctive personality," say the editors of Car and Driver (above, Brock Yates). "It combines the dash of a sports sedan with the luxury of a personal car and comes out miles ahead. We dig the Cougar. We wish it well!

"And with a list of personalized options as long as an ape's arm, you can make your Cougar an enthusiast's machine or a yachtsman's delight."

John Bond reports in Car Life, "There's a gracefulness and shapeliness about the Cougar. There's a faceted, jewel-like quality that gives it an appearance of richness and luxuriousness."

Motor Trend's review by John Ethridge and Steven Kelly has this to say. "The Cougar is real fun to drive. With the windows shut tight, the car is as quiet as its namesake stalking prey.

"The dashboard is deceiving at first glance—it seems that something is missing. Actually everything has been arranged in such good order that the whole thing is almost too orderly."

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — Sacre bleu! There was Pierre Cardin in one of his own creations, loops of gold chain festooned across his left lapel and presumably ending in a watch somewhere. There were curls at the nape of his neck and where one's sideburns normally would be.

And there, aussi, in the reception line was Mme. Herve Alphand, his public relations director, resplendent in a cocktail dress with a collar embroidered in purple gems and a rolled hem — really rolled, a roll an inch or so in diameter. Skirt fashionably short but definitely not mini.

The event was the opening of Cardin's new boutique for men on the fashionable Rue Faubourg St. Honore.

It was a cocktail party and Cardin had taken over a vast expanse of sidewalk in front of the boutique and the Cafe de Marigny next door which he also took over.

Inside a barricade and a ring of gendarmes were some of the diplomatic corps, the fashion press, a handful of workmen.

The French men's wear industry takes itself much more seriously than the American industry and the leading designers have "openings" patterned along the lines of what the haute couture chaps do for the ladies. This, however, was merely the inauguration of a boutique.

Inside were five floors of luxury—the same deep olive green carpeting and green silk moire walls of Cardin's high fashion place for ladies a stone's (diamond's) throw away. The furniture was sleek and modern.

There wern't any clothes—just a few things in the windows like leather vests, some leather boots with square toes and uppers ringed like the neck of a Ubangi. There also was a suit of armor.

Mingling with the throng or posing for pictures in a flaming red Ford Mustang convertible were male and female models in some of Cardin's space creations. One man, who resembled a green elf, wore a green plaid jerkin over a solid green ribbed turtle neck sweatershirt and matching green plaid pants. All the models' jerkins had rolled necklines (Like Madame Alphand's hemline) and they carried helmets which looked like a hard jockey cap with visor.

The jerkins were decorated with big industrial zippers in both horizontal and vertical lines. and one of the pairs of pants had a big zipper which for reasons known only to Cardin was at a 45-degree angle.

Cardin's suit in dark blue was an eight-button high-rising double breasted with two deep vents which really were accordion pleats. With it was a high rise collar white shirt with long points and a very d

And as thy days, so shall thy strength be.
—(Deut. 32:25)

Let the weak say, we are strong. Every one of us is stronger than we know, for we have the strength of God in us. That is why, even when we feel weak or lacking in strength, we should and can say to ourselves, "I am strong." The more we use the God-given strength that is within us, the stronger we feel, the more energy we have.

For Better Biking

This year five million new bicycles will hit the road to join the 33 million already there. Their riders—over 60 million—range in age from very young to young only at heart, making this most pleasurable pastime America's most popular sport.

But to keep it really fun and healthful, it's important to know the fundamentals of bicycle safety. Of course, the first rule for safe riding is to make sure the bicycle itself is in good shape and is adjusted to fit you personally. These rules of the road are offered by Japan's bicycle industry, a major supplier of bicycles for the U.S.

- Observe all traffic regulations.
- Keep to the right, ride single-file.
- Give pedestrians the right of way.
- Never hitch onto other vehicles.
- Never carry passengers.
- Always use proper hand signals.
- Don't weave in or out of traffic.

Bike riding is great for fun, fitness and economical transportation. But it's no time for horseplay. That, warns Japan's bicycle industry, is only for horses.

Fireplace Has Special Niche In Living Here

WATERBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Home is where the hearth is, and the fireplace has a special niche in the lore and living of America.

Regardless of its size or location, the fireplace is the most appropriate entrance for Santa into the imagination and home on Christmas Eve.

School children admire the dedication of young Abe Lincoln who spent his boyhood in a log cabin where he studied by the flickering light of a fireplace.

For early American's, a fireplace was a functional necessity. It was a part of the home most closely connected with daily needs — warmth, food, comfort, even faint light — and consequently also was the focal point of the house.

Through the years its importance to survival has diminished, but appreciation of its warm charm and decorativeness still grows. When biting winter winds send everyone scurrying indoors family life is at its richest and most satisfying in the magnetic warmth of the fireside.

As Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "We sit by the fire and take hold of the ends of the earth."

Todays homeowners fortunate enough to have a fireplace frequently enhance its attractiveness by decorating it with period pieces of Colonial design. Replicas of warming pans, pewter mugs, brass kettles and other such bric-a-brack frequently are used to decorate mantel pieces of sides of a fireplace.

Discussing current fashion trends in home decorating with respect to fireplace accessories, Chester Burnett, of Scovill Manufacturing Company of Waterbury, Conn., one of the nation's oldest manufacturing companies says:

"Our marketing research indicates the trend embraces motifs of American, English heraldic symbols, ancient Roman and Greek coins, signs of the zodiac and the American Federal period."

The company recently introduced a group of nine different designs of fireplace accessories cast in aluminum, but finished in either pewter, copper or brass. In some designs, red-orange and blue are used to color-accent the finishes when authentic heraldry makes such touches appropriate.

The group is complemented by nine pewter-like replicas of Early American table-top artifacts, including plates, candlestick sets, flagon pitcher, chamberstick, porringer, tankards and a combination ash tray and candy dish.

Happy Lure At Scant Cost Is Portugal's Gay Living

By MURRAY J. BROWN

UPI Travel Editor

LISBON (UPI)—It wouldn't be honest to say hotels pack in guests like the proverbial Portuguese sardines—so many new ones have been built. But more Americans apparently are finding out that Portugal is one of the best tourist "buys" on the continent

In Lisbon, for instance, you can get a room with breakfast at the Hotel Ritz, one of the finest in Europe, for as low as $12 per day. The Hotel Estoril Sol on the Portuguese Riviera, which has accommodations with "his" and "her" bathrooms, charges as low as $9 daily for bed and breakfast. At the newly-developed Algarve resorts on the southern coast, the new deluxe Eva Hotel in Faro offers three meals and a room for $9 per day.

And there are numerous pousadas (pensions) throughout Portgual with meals and clean comfortable lodgings for as low as $3.50 daily.

There is much to see and do in this historic country. But our favorite after-dark pastime in Lisbon is visiting the tiny cantinhas (cafes) in the old quarter of Bairro Alta and the even more ancient Moorish section of Alfamas to listen to the fado, the plaintive folk songs of the Portuguese.

Some of the fado singers have become internationally known. Perhaps most famous is Amalia Rodriguez who has made movies and visited the United States several times. She no longer sings in the Alfamas but once in a while she visits her sister Celeste's cafe, "Viela." Celeste is a pretty good singer herself.

Americans with their great tradition of the blues can easily understand the poignancy of fado even though the usually tragic poetry in the ancient lyrics cannot be understood without knowing Portuguese.

Most fado songs are laments about love and life and the tribulations and trials of both.

The visitor can wander the hilly, winding cobblestoned streets far into the early hours, from one cantinha to another. All you have to do is order a glass of port or a brandy.

Most of the cantinhas are small, with barely enough room for about a dozen tables. In some, the only light comes from flickering candles thrust into empty wine bottles covered with wax.

For some reason, virtually everyone speaks in almost a whisper to their companions and even when ordering from the waiter or waitress. And there is complete silence when the traditional two guitarists, usually seated at a table in the center of the room, suddenly strum some arpeggios.

Then the "Fadista" appears, hands usually clasped as if in supplication before the breast. If the singer is a woman, she will be wearing a black fringed shawl over a plain dark dress. If a man, he will be dressed in a simple dark suit.

The Fadista wails the lament, and sometimes a real emotion gets cooking and certain lines are repeated by listeners in a kind of harmony. But more often, the audience listens in silence to the blues —some of the lyrics go back hundreds of years.

Lisbon is a major port of call for international airlines and ships. It is little more than six hours non-stop from New York via Alitalia airlines jet planes. Alitalia and other airlines offer all-inclusive package tours for bargain-hunters, particularly during the so-called off season.

Wife-Stealing Is Labor Issue In Dueseldorf

The Duesseldorf Labor Court ruled recently such an affair does not justify dismissal without notice, even when all three persons involved work for the same company — and so long as the adultery is committed outside the office and not during working hours.

An employee, said the court, can quit without notice if he discovers his employer having an affair with his wife.

In the case at hand, the court seemed to think the affronted husband's efficiency was in no wise impaired by the proximity of the man who was stealing his wife.

Once it was clear his wife had transferred her affections to a co-worker, the injured husband told the boss, "either he goes, or I go."

The boss fired the Casanova, who appealed to the labor court, which said he had a right to the usual notice and severance pay.

If the husband had decided to quit, the court added, he would have been required to give the normal notice.

Search In Attic You May Have A Noted Painting

ORANGEBURG, N.Y. (UPI) —The Historical Society of Rockland County (N.Y.) is trying to trace an historical painting and thinks someone in the United States probably knows where it is.

The canvas is entitled "Interview Between Andre and Arnold," was painted by Junius B. Stearns and was last exhibited in 1849.

Small in size—only 26 inches by 20—it depicts the meeting between British spy Major Andre and Revolutionary War traitor Maj. Gen. Benedict Arnold at a house in what is now West Haverstraw, N.Y.

"Its historical significane, particularly to Rockland County, is tremendous," says society president John R. Zehner who is directing the search.

Inquiries through most normal art information channels already have been made without success, Zehner said.

The painting is not to be confused with another Stearns' work, titled "Trial of Major Andre." This is in a private collection.

Zehner asks that anyone having any information about the "Interview" painting contact him or the society as soon as possible. It is the society's hope, he said, to acquire it either through purchase or donation.

For any sharp-eyed readers: the society's address is Kings Highway, Orangeburg, N.Y. 10962.

Dr. Albert I. Gordon will introduce him, and Rabbi M. David Weiss will officiate at the 8:15 service.

Dr. Azneer was ordained at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He received his Ph. D. Degree from the University of Pittsburgh. For the past sixteen years he has been the Rabbi of Temple Anshe Emeth in Youngstown, Ohio. He has been teaching at Youngstown University since 1951 where he currently holds the post of Associate Professor of Education. Stanton Misses First Meeting

Paul Vincent Stanton, who was elected to fill the unexpired term of Hugh M. Tomb as school committeeman from Ward 7, missed his first meeting last Monday night. Stanton was elected by a 27 to 1 vote at the joint meeting of the Aldermen and the School Committee on Nov. 7, the eve of the general elections. No other names were put in nomination at that time.

Three Breaks In Newton On Veterans Day

Breaks in two business places, one home, and three automobiles occurred in Newton on Veterans' Day.

Patrick L. Testa of the Newtonville Texaco Station at 899 Washington St. told police that a total of $130 had been removed from his station and that a desk had been rifled.

Police said that someone put a barrel under a rear window of Frost Motors, also of Washington St., to smash the glass and gain access to the office area. It was not immediately known what had been taken.

According to police, the home of Harold B. Morse of 912 Dedham St., Newton Centre, was entered by breaking glass in the kitchen door. They stated that the house was looted and an undetermined amount of silver and old coins were taken. Also missing was a pillow case, which the thief apparently used to carry away his haul.

Three automobiles were reported broken into. One of them belonged to a South Yarmouth man who told police that two screwdrivers, a topcoat, a driver's license and automobile registration were stolen.

John Ricardo of 75 Park Ave., Newton, stated that his glove compartment was ransacked and that check stubs and business papers were removed. Ricardo was not sure whether the theft took place in Boston or at his home in Newton.

A seventh break was foiled by Mrs. Marguerite Holmberg of 616 Watertown St., Newton. She reported to police that she screamed when she saw the doorknob turn. She apparently frightened the intruder away. Police later found that the screen on the back porch had been cut.

Waban Girl Italy Flood Eye-Witness

As rampaging flood waters receded in Italy this week, a Waban girl provided a graphic description of the carnage wrought in the city of Florence which she was forced to evacuate.

Miss Patricia Foley, 22, of 151 Neshobe road, Waban, is studying at the University of Florence as part of her work for a master's degree in Italian at Middlebury College, Vermont. She had graduated from the Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

In two letters sent to a friend, Robert Paquet, of Walpole street, Dover, Patricia described the floods—first from Florence and then from Rome:

". . We can't turn on the gas because of safety precautions. There's no water so we can't even make soup or tea.

The electricity has been turned off, and there's no phone service either. This is no exaggeration. We're worried we won't get out for quite a while . . ." ....

From Rome, after leaving Florence:

"I wrote you the other page yesterday (Friday) from Florence. It is wrecked. We were shut up late Thursday 'til this morning without food, water, or electricity.

We're OK, however, just a little hungry. The worst is happening with no water at all. I don't know when it will be pure enough to drink or cook with.

"There is no food anywhere in Florence. Where we live along Arno River shops are completely destroyed. Some streets are completely buried under water and people living on the second floors cannot get out. We were lucky enough to get out this morning. The Autostrata (highway) is ruined, so we took the mountain road to Rome, which took all day.

"The streets are all mud and cars are turned over and smashed against the buildings. . . . Food is strewn all over the streets. . . ."

Judge Allen In 50th Year As Jurist

Back in the days when former President Calvin Coolidge was still lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, Newton Judge Lloyd W. Allen was appointed to the bench.

He is still there, having begun his 50th year as a special justice in Newton district court last Monday, the anniversary of his appointment Nov. 14, 1917, by then Gov. Samuel W. McCall.

Allen refused a regular judgeship because of his law practice but since his appointment 49 years ago he has heard criminal cases in district court on the average of three times a week.

A Yale graduate, Judge Allen received his law degree from Boston University law school in 1910. He was president of his class that year and still is president of the 1910 alumni.

He taught law at B.U. and at Northeastern University Law School until 1921 when he began to devote his full time to the bench and his law practice.

As an attorney, he was first associated with Robert G. Dodge and Endicott P. Saltonstall and then was with Walter I. Badger before he went into business for himself.

5-Cent Drop In Bus Fare For Pupils

Formal approval of a 5-cent reduction in school bus fares was voted by Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the School Committee at the School Board meeting Monday night.

The cut from 20 to 15 cents in bus fares actually had been in effect since Monday of last week as a result of an informal meeting by the School Committee.

Mayor Basbas, an ex-officio member of the School Committee, expressed his displeasure when informed that the informal vote already had been taken but then joined with the School Committee members in making the fare reduction official.

3 Newton Women Doctors Awarded Macy Fellowships

Three of the 14 women in medical study and training at Harvard University's Radcliffe Institute who have been awarded Macy fellowships are residents of Newton.

The fellowships, the first in the Boston area to support women in medicine on part-time as well as full-time schedules, are made possible by a four-year grant of $100,000 by the Josiah Macy Foundation of New York City.

The local women are Dr. Judith Borit of Newton, Dr. Judith Porter Gieske of Newtonville and Dr. Jane Prager of Waban.

According to Constance E. Smith, Dean of Radcliffe Institute, "One of the unique aspects of the Macy grant is that it assists women at all levels of medical training." Financial need, as well as promise, has been the basis for making the awards, which range from $500 to $3000. In many instances, the grant will pay for household help and baby sitters as well as scientific equipment and books.

Dr. Borit is a graduate of the Budapest Gymnasium and received her M.D. degree from Boston University School of Medicine. She has spent the past two years as a psychiatric resident at Boston State Hospital and this year will be a resident in child psychiatry at the Judge Baker Guidance Center.

Dr. Gieske is in her second year of residency in pediatric medicine at the Massachusetts General Hospital. She attended Wellesley College for two years, then transferred to Johns Hopkins University, where she completed her undergraduate work. She reecived her M.D. degree from the Johns Hopkins Medical School. Dr. Gieske plans to specialize in pediatric cardiology. She is married to Dr. James C. Gieske who is a surgical resident at Boston City Hospital. They have an infant son.

Dr. Prager, who holds the M.D. degree from Boston University School of Medicine, is a former Scholar of the Radcliffe Institute, under whose auspices she worked as a half-time fellow in child psychiatry at the James Jackson Putnam Children's Center from 1963 to 1965. After a third year at the Putnam Clinic, Dr. Prager will continue her formal training in child psychiatry at the Thom Clinic. She is married to Dr. Alan Prager, also a child psychiatrist. The Pragers have three daughters.

Unitarians To Hold Last Of Panel Series

The second session of the educational program "Religious Values and Changing Morality" held on Wednesday, November 16, was well attended by members of the First Unitarian Society in Newton.

The three-part educational program, sponsored and planned by the Massachusetts Bay District, is being held at the First Parish Church Universalist Unitarian, Inc., 50 Church street, Waltham. The second session concentrated on the "Moral Tensions of Young Adults" and featured a panel of clergy and educators representating several faiths. The panel moderator was Randy Becker co-president of the Brandeis Chapter of Student Religious Liberals.

The third and final session on Sunday evening, November 20 will take as its theme "Parents and Youth: Breaking the Communications Barrier" and will feature direct confrontation between parents and high school age young people on some of the moral dilemmas they face in their daily lives.

Representing the First Unitarian Society in Newton will be Andrews Ferguson, leader of the Freewheeling Adult Discussion Group and "Nick" Scrimshaw, president of the Jaynes League. All interested persons are invited.

Jaycees Hosts To 3 Speakers In November

The Newton Jaycees November meeting, held at the Highlands Restaurant, was one of extreme interest and diversification. The three speakers who covered a wide range of topics included:

Gordon McKay, National Jaycee director, who spoke on a common Jaycee problem — "Membership." He stated that to be effective we must continually grow in size and quality.

Mrs. Morrison from the League of Women Voters, who spoke on referendum questions 1, 2, and 4.

Dom Valentino, the voice of the Boston College Eagles and sports director of radio station WCOP, was the featured guest speaker. Dom first showed the film "How to Watch Pro Football" with Frank Gifford, then he answered several sports questions posed by the members. Jaycees President Ted Clark presented Mr. Valentino a certificate of appreciation.

Barry Bograd, publicity director and a member of the Board of Governors, was presented the award of Jaycee of the Month for October in recognition of his outstanding ability, service and accomplishment.

The next meeting will be held at the Highlands Restaurant, 1114 Beacon St., Tuesday, Dec. 6.

Jackson Open House Cancelled

The November open house at Jackson Homestead, 527 Washington St., Newton, has been cancelled, due to extensive alterations that are being made in the downstairs Archive room and shed. 12.7 PER CENT AUTO RATE HIKE ASKED

AUTO INSURANCE companies in Massachusetts are requesting a 12.7 per cent increase in 1967 passenger car rates for Massachusetts.

John O'Connor, executive secretary of the Casualty Insurance Companies serving Massachusetts, said that the increase was necessary because of "sever inflationary forces." Rate income fell $20.7 million short of the amount needed to pay claims in 1963, 1964 and 1965, O'Connor said. Even if the 181 companies had been granted their full rate requests for those years, income would have fallen short of claims by $10.9 million, he added.

Last year, Insurance Comm. C. Eugene Farnam granted rate increases of 4.9 per cent. The companies requested 11.7 per cent.

UP-DATING OF STATE POLICE SYSTEM URGED

THE MASS. Taxpayers Federation is calling for reforms in the state police structure.

Among other recommendations, it urges use of up-to-date equipment like helicopters, instead of motorcycles, asks for changes in the impractical barracks system, and demands that the MDC police patrol its properties, and not expressways. It noted that the Registry is unable to report and distribute motor vehicle information with the necessary speed.

If the state fails to reform its police system by 1968, it stands to lose up to $7 million under the federal Highway Safety Act, the federation reported.

MASS. PRIEST WEDS DIVORCED MOTHER OF 5

A CATHOLIC priest in Springfield married a divorcee with five children because he was unable "to live up to what is required" of his holy calling.

The Rev. Thomas Dowd, 36, said he married the former Mrs. Jean Carmel Powers, 35, on Oct. 2 in New York City. Mrs. Powers was divorced two years ago from Robert Powers of Pelham, N.Y.

HUB CHAMBER URGES ASIA AIR LINKS

WE HOPE to regain some measure of New England's clipper-ship supremacy in Far East trade, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce told the Civil Aeronautics Board, urging Far East airline links Tuesday.

Eighteen airlines are seeking permission to fly on expanded trans-Pacific routes, and the chamber said several proposed to make Boston one terminal of their South Pacific service.

2 GANGLAND KILLINGS GO TO GRAND JURY

A SUFFOLK County grand jury Monday will begin investigating the two latest killings in the Greater Boston gangland war. Police believe they have sufficient evidence for indictments in the slayings of Arthur C. Bratsos, 36, of Medford, and Thomas J. DePrisco, 24, of Roslindale. They believe the murders took place in a night club and they think they know who was present at the time.

HUB PACIFISTS HECKLED IN CHILL VIGIL

TWO PACIFISTS braved chilly winds and heated heckling Tuesday in a Thanksgiving vigil and fast outside Boston's Federal Building in sympathy with a fellow pacifist sentenced to jail for evading the draft.

Some 300 persons returning from lunch stopped to watch the pacifist leader, Charles Matthei, 18, debate hecklers. The demonstrators were supporting David A. Reed, 26, of Randolph, sentenced to three years in jail Monday for failure to report for induction into the armed forces.

DEFECTIVE '67 CARS BEING RECALLED

AMERICAN and foreign auto manufacturers have notified the government of possible safety defects in 200,000 to 300,000 late model cars and trucks. They are being recalled for safety checks and revision by dealers.

Involved are 1967 models made by General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Rolls Royce, Volkswagen and Renault and 1965-66 models made by American Motors.

Possible brake problems and sticky throttles were the main defects listed. Many vehicles have been and are being fixed before being sold.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH LAUDS U. S. "BIRTH CURBS"

THE EPISCOPAL Church lauded the U.S. government Tuesday for its efforts to spread the practice of birth control and urged that church funds allocated toward curbing world population be doubled. The position taken by the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines was in contrast to that taken by Roman Catholic Bishops of the United States in Washington last week. The Catholic prelates accused government agencies of "coercing" poor people into use of contraceptives.

KENNEDY'S DEATH MARKED QUIETLY

MEMBERS OF the Warren Commission Tuesday defended their findings in the assassination of John F. Kennedy against a tide of controversy that reached new heights on the third anniversary of the President's death.

Commission members argued there was no need to reopen their investigation because there was no new evidence.

Kennedy's death generally was marked by quiet, informal ceremonies. In Massachusetts, flags flew at half staff.

The former First Lady spent the day with her memories in her Fifth Avenue, N. Y., apartment while her children, Caroline and John Jr., attended classes.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy visited his brother's grave at Arlington National Cemetery, where he and his wife, Ethel, laid flowers and knelt in prayer.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, on a tour of Africa, was an honor guest in Algiers for a memorial ceremony in a square named for his late brother.

NEW VIET CLASHES LIFT RED TOLL TO 700

AMERICAN infantry fought two clashes with North Vietnamese troops in the Central Highlands Tuesday, parrying fresh thrusts apparently aimed at sparking a new Red offensive. The clashes sent the Communist death toll soaring well over the 700 mark in the big jungle operation.

Big B25 bombers roared in to drop their heavy loads on Communist troop concentrations in the area near the Cambodian border. U.S. spokesmen disclosed other U.S. Air Force pilots flew a record single-day total of 239 sorties in support of Allied ground forces. Tuesday's fighting was not far from the valley where two North Vietnamese battalions Monday all but wiped out a 1st Cavalry platoon of 21 men.

SPAIN'S FRANCO PREPARES TO STEP DOWN

SPAINS Generalissimo Francisco Franco has asked Parliament to consider revising the Spanish constitution so that he can select a premier to serve under him. It would be the first division of power in the 30 years of the dictator's rule. Franco, now 73, has held the position of both chief of state and premier since the civil war. Franco did not make clear whom he thought should be his successor. Prince Juan Carlos, is regarded as the leading condidate for the throne, should one be named.

Faced with the prospect of a substantial rise in Newton's tax rate next year, Mayor Monte G. Basbas yesterday made a strong appeal to the School Committee members to review the school budget for 1967 and trim down proposed expenditures.

The Mayor, who earlier had urged the School Board to hold the increase in the school department's operating budget to about $1 million, said he had been informed that indications are the budget boost will be "considerably more than $1 million."

"In view of this and in anticipation of this, I, therefore, respectfully request on behalf of the citizens and taxpayers who are, in effect, stockholders of the City of Newton that you restrict your increase in the operating budget for 1967 over 1966 to the approximately $1 million which you had promised me and the taxpayers of the City of Newton," Basbas declared in a letter to the School Board members.

"I would ask you to keep faith with me and the citizenry in this respect, just as I have kept faith with you so far as your total programs are concerned," the Mayor continued.

Mayor Basbas asked the School Committee "to review your proposed budget for 1967 with a microscope and find the areas in which you can properly tighten your belts and postpone to a future year the 'nice things' that could very well be deferred without materially affecting the caliber of education in this community."

"It would appear, for example, in view of the fact that our student population has levelled off to a great extent, that you could consider deferring the creation

Many Facets Mark 1966 Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving, 1966, comes to a prosperous America—a nation which will record half a trillion dollars in consumer spending within a single year.

Thanksgiving, 1966, comes to an uneasy America — a nation deeply involved in the most enigmatic war in its history.

Thanksgiving, 1966, comes to a grateful America — a nation which was still unborn, when the seeds of this holiday were planted by a handful of hardy pioneers 345 years ago.

Thanksgiving, 1966, will be celebrated in this community with much the same spirit and feeling the founding Pilgrim fathers knew when they gave thanks for a bountiful harvest.

It will be a day of family get-togethers and reunions, a day of good food and good talk, a day of savoring the aromas which waft out from the kitchen where the plump turkey is baking.

Many college students, away since September, will be home to resume and renew old friendships.

Football fans will sharpen their appetites for the Thanksgiving turkey by attending one of the traditional holiday morning gridiron contests.

A large number of persons will visit their churches to kneel quietly in prayers of thanks for all that is theirs in a land of plenty.

Spirit Rekindling Crucial For Newton Turkey Classic

It's the windup of the grid season Thanksgiving Day for the Tigers of Newton High School when they meet traditional rival, Brookline, in a 10:30 a.m. game at Dickinson Field.

Both teams sport 3-4-1 records, thus the game assumes major importance. Victory means the difference between a losing or a break-even season for the two clubs.

Psychologically, Brookline has the edge—a big edge. For them this is their really big game of the season, one for which they have been pointing all season. And, unfortunately from Newton's point of view ,they are ready.

The Tigers, on the other hand ,got "up" and were "up" for the Waltham tilt on Veterans' Day, when they gained a 6-6 tie, and have been on a psychological slide ever since.

"We haven't won in three years," Ronayne said, pointing out that his senior boys (14) have never tasted victory over the Townies.

"This isn't right. We should win and I feel we can win, but the boys have to be up for the game. And it's difficut for them because they

GOP To Lose Election Gains If It Follows Past Tactics

One thing about the Republicans is that in the past they usually have managed to kill their own political prospects when things looked brightest for them and their party.

This has not been true of such Bay State GOP figures as John A. Volpe, Edward W. Brooke and Elliot L. Richardson, but they have pretty much been the exceptions who proved the rule.

Those experts who have been forecasting a great Republican comeback in 1968 on the basis of the GOP trend which showed up in the recent elections may be forgetting the political history of the past two decades and that the Republicans seem to have a faculty for defeating themselves.

Twenty years ago, the Republicans rode back into

The announcement of the selection of the 10 high school scholars was made Monday in Austin, Tex., by President Johnson. The four girls and six boys were chosen by the National Science Foundation and the National Merit Scholarship Corp. from high schools throughout the United States. They will be called the "Lyndon B. Johnson Australian Scholars."

The trip is to be financed by the Nuclear Research Foundation of the University of Sydney, sponsor of the seminar. About 150 students from Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania will attend the seminar with the Americans.

The young American students will spend two days in Washington as guests of the National Science Foundation before leaving for Australia. They will return home via Hong Kong, Rome and London.

In addition to Ellen two other Massachusetts' youngsters were chosen to attend the seminar. They are Nancy E. Shoemaker, of 84 Burbank road, Longmeadow, and George L. Middleton, of 21 Flintstone drive, Pittsfield.

Ellen, youngest of the three children of Atty. and Mrs. Henry Gesmer, is an honor roll student at Newton South. News that she had been chosen for the Australian seminar "floored" her.

"Gosh! I can't believe it. I mean I just can't believe it," was all she could say when she was told of President Johnson's announcement.

The teenager was home alone at the time she received the news and all she could think of was getting on the phone herself and spreading the word among her friends.

Ellen confided that upon graduation from Newton South next June she is planning to enter either Radcliffe College or Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. She said she is considering majoring in math in college with an eye toward a possible teaching career. However, at this point, she said she isn't sure just what she will do because "there are so many possibilities open."

The name of "Lyndon B. Johnson Australian Scholars" was chosen by Prof. Harry Messel, director of the Nuclear Research Foundation at the U. of Sydney.

He wrote President Johnson he selected the name "as a tribute to your interest both in education and science.

"To me these scholarships symbolize the importance of educational exchange between our two countries," Johnson wrote back. "They confirm ties of friendship."

Sanderson was trained to manufacture, repair and modify parts for tanks, trucks, weapons and other combat equipment.

were more stirred up by the Waltham game than by the prospect of meeting Brookline," the affable coach said.

"With Brookline it's different," Ronayne continued. "Brookline seems to have just one incentive—Newton. Their burning desire is to wallop us, whereas the Newton boys seem to concentrate on Waltham."

More than anything else during the last 10 days, Coach Ronayne has been concentrating on "rekindling the spirit" of his team for the traditional Turkey Day tilt, a rivalry that goes back to the 1800's.

Not only does Ronayne have the problem of "rekindling the spirit" of his team, but he's also got to think about the opposition.

The Townies have three players who could give any opposing coach a slight case of the fits. They're three fellas named Richard Heavey, Joe Mahoney and Dick Maloney.

Heavey, who has been out of action most of the year with injuries, will be back in form Thanksgiving Day. He's a fast, classy running back who last year scored two touchdowns for his team when Brookline took Newton, 20-12. (The game ended with Newton on the one-yard line of Brookline.)

"This lad is very good," Ronayne said, "and I know well have a problem with him. In addition to the usual 'beat Newton' spirit, he's a senior and very much aware that he is playing his last game of high school football."

No. 13, Joe Mahoney, is only 5-foot-6 and his type of game differs from that of his alternate, No. 12, Dicky Maloney, an elongated 6-foot-3, who, naturally, throws a mean pass.

"So, we've got to defend against a running game in Mahoney and a passing game in Maloney," Ronayne said, "and, sometimes, it isn't easy."

The Newton coach said he wasn't developing anything special or spectacular for the Brookline game in the line of plays. "We may change our formation a little but we'll stick to basic plays for the most part. Oh, there might be a couple of tiny gimmicks, depending on the situation, but it's best to stay with what the boys know and are used to."

For 14 members of the team it will be their last high school football game, one, perhaps, they'll remember the rest of their lives. It will be better if they look back in victory and not in anger.

What has happened is, the Wellesley Travel Service and South Shore National Bank have joined forces. The new association is a natural. And a real boon both for clients of the travel agency and customers of the bank.

Travel-minded families and firms can now make all their financial arrangements right at Wellesley Travel Service, a new department of the bank. By the same token, South Shore National customers are offered travel services right where they bank.

Mr. White, as you know, is Vice Chairman of the Board of South Shore National. He used to be President of the old Wellesley National Bank.

Mr. Heartfield, who will continue to head up the fast-growing Wellesley Travel Service (now the 4th largest bureau in New England), also becomes a Vice President of South Shore National.

Political Highlights

Republican Governors and U. S. Senators were elected across the nation. The GOP captured control of both branches of Congress, enabling Joe Martin to become Speaker of the 80th Congress.

Here in Massachusetts the Republicans won every State Constitutional office except that of State Auditor. Such great Democratic leaders as Maurice J. Tobin, Paul A. Dever and David I. Walsh were swept down to defeat by the GOP tidal wave which rocked the entire nation.

The Republicans were in control of just about everything except the White House, and most of the pundits and students of politics considered it only a matter of time until the GOP took that over in the 1948 Presidential election.

The thing the political experts and scholars didn't take into consideration was the habit the Republican leaders have of fumbling and dropping the golden opportunities which fall into their laps.

Prospects aren't as bright and shiny for the GOP today as they were 20 years ago when the Democratic party not only was in a shambles but was torn by dissension and divided by the formation of splinter groups in the South.

But the GOP does have an opportunity to strengthen and solidify its position and to make further gains and possibly a real bid for the Presidency in 1968.

What it probably will do, however, is misjudge the temper and feeling of the people, adopt an obstructionist role on Washington's Capitol Hill and turn many voters away from it as it did in 1947 and 1948.

There's no question but that many persons are dissatisfied with the prosecution of the war in Vietnam. They don't really understand how we got into it in the first place, and they have even less idea how we're going to get out of it.

But that doesn't mean they're prepared to turn back the clock in fields of social progress. If the Republicans in Congress try to do that in the next two years, they'll kill off their party's hopes for 1968 just as surely as did the 80th Congress under the leadership of Joe Martin.

Back through the years Republican leaders also have given incredibly little consideration to whether the men they were putting up as candidates for President had any real chance of winning election.

At only one of the last eight Republican national conventions has that been the overriding consideration. That was in 1952 when Dwight D. Eisenhower, a war hero, was nominated for the Presidency. And when Eisenhower was President little was done to build and strengthen the GOP as a political party.

Different factions and elements within the GOP often have been more interested in gaining control of the party structure than in winning elections.

The men high in the councils of the Republican party have demonstrated little awareness of the kind of candidate the GOP needs to win the Presidency. They seem to be bound to the dead traditions and customs of the past.

Right now it is taken for granted that the GOP candidate for President in 1968 will be either Governor George Romney of Michigan or former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Volpe could draw Democratic and Independent votes in such states as New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan for the same reasons that he attracts them in Massachusetts.

He would cut into the Democratic Italian vote. He would cut into the Democratic Catholic vote. He appeals to many working men because he's a former hod-carrier who came up the hard way. Volpe would have great appeal as a Republican candidate for President.

But the voice of the past tells the Republican leaders that Volpe is in a state which is located wrong geographically, that he can't be the Presidential nominee, that perhaps he might be considered as a Vice Presidential candidate, but that, of course, depends on the wishes and whims of the man who gets the Presidential nod.

So the Republican party fails to utilize to the fullest extent the political assets it has. In all likelihood time will show that the gains it achieved this year were only temporary and that it still maintains its ability for losing Presidential elections.

No Need for Con Con If Legislators Do Job

State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue and Senator Kevin Harrington of Salem, two of the ablest lawmakers on Beacon Hill, have expressed their support of a move to hold a constitutional convention.

This has created the impression that there probably will be such a convention which the Boston Globe for some years has been advocating be convened.

The fact, however, is that many students of government, who have pondered over the happenings at constitutional conventions, including the last one held in 1917, are opposed to calling another such conclave.

One thing which seems to be completely overlooked is that no restrictions can be imposed on what a constitutional convention can and can't do.

There has been talk, for instance, of holding a convention for the consideration of only a few matters such as a reduction in the size of the Legislature.

That cannot be done. Once a constitutional convention is convened, it can do anything a majority of its delegates want to do.

A move almost certainly would be made at a constitutional convention for the election of judges, and the guessing is that it would be successful.

Some of the so-called reforms which it is suggested a constitutional convention might initiate are debatable reforms at best.

One proposal, for instance, is that the State Auditor, the State Treasurer, the Secretary of State and perhaps even the Attorney General be appointed instead of elected.

That would be just another move to strip the people of a little more power in order to give it to the politicians.

The voters really haven't done too bad a job of choosing the Attorney General, the Secretary of State, the State Treasurer and the State Auditor, and there isn't any overwhelming reason why those positions should be made patronage plums in the name of reform.

There may be some merit to Governor Volpe's proposal that the size of the Legislature be reduced although there are two sides to that argument.

The trouble here is that the people hold the Legislature in low esteem. They usually like their own State Representatives and Senators whom they elect and know, but for some reason they instinctively dislike the law-makers from other districts whom they don't know.

But the proposal by former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for Governor, for a unicameral Legislature goes contrary to our systems of checks and balances.

If it would be a good idea to wipe out one branch of the State Legislature, then it would be an equally sound step to abolish one branch of Congress.

McCormack, however, favored knocking out one branch of the State Legislature, but not one branch of Congress, maintaining that the same principle doesn't apply to Congress. Why it doesn't is still unclear.

Most objective observers believe the elimination of one branch of the Legislature would be an extremely risky step which by no means would assure better government.

That is another of the actions a constitutional convention would be expected to consider.

Many persons seem to believe that the delegates to a constitutional convention would be college presidents and professors, clergymen, business and professional leaders willing to give up their time for the public good.

They would be elected in the same manner as would the delegates to the Democratic and Republican State Conventions, and a good percentage of the con con delegates would be the same people who go to the political conventions.

What is apparently overlooked in the talk about a constitutional convention is that such a conclave could not do anything the Legislature can't do.

If a majority of the legislators feel further changes should be made in the State Constitution, they should approve them and place them on the ballot for the consideration of the voters, not pass the buck to someone else.

In fairness, however, it should be added that some respected authorities on government are a bit dubious about some of the changes which already have been made in the State Constitution.

They feel some constitutional changes of questionable merit have been placed on the ballot by the Legislature and then adopted in a perfunctory manner by the voters who assume that they're supporting reforms in government.

of any new positions at this time," Basbas asserted.

He said he "would much prefer to remain competitive in the field of teacher salaries."

"These new positions could very well be considered at a time in the future when our capital improvement program for one thing will have levelled off and the bulk of our school building program will have been completed," the Mayor stated.

The Mayor informed the School Board that there are many people in Newton "who cannot afford a continuous rise in the tax rate."

"There are many people on fixed or retirement incomes who have borne the cost of government for many, many years, having contributed to the excellence of our educational system," the Mayor asserted.

"There are many people in the community with young children who would like to take advantage of our educational system, but cannot afford the spiralling costs of our government. No more than 9,000 households in the City of Newton out of approximately 25,000 utilize the services of the School Department.

"In addition to the majority of Newton's households which are paying heavily for but not receiving any benefit from the school department, you must consider the parents of the 2,442 parochial school children and the 1,213 private school children. These latter must pay a double load in effect for their young people's education," Basbas pointed out.

Mayor Basbas told the School Committee members that the city, faced with a $1 million increase in the operating school budget to which he consents, together with a "staggering" building program, "is confronted with a tremendous financial squeeze."

"Although you have the legal authority to commit the city and the taxpayers of the city to any financial amount, I respectfully suggest that the school department is one of several municipal departments providing services to our taxpayers, and it is your obligation to find the means of integrating your activities with the total community needs," Basbas said in his communication to the School Board.

"You must participate with all other city departments in this light, and I would urge you at this top administration level to remember that we are one city, and my suggested 'one city' concept would apply not only to the citizens of Newton, but also to the many departments that are working together to give these citizens the services they need and demand," Mayor Basbas declared.

The Mayor reminded the School Board members that in recent years "all other departments have had their requests for modernization deferred because it was felt that the school department should have priority."

"As a result, the police department for one has not been given adequate personnel; nor has its salaries been updated to encourage young men to enter this profession," he said.

"The equipment in many departments, including the public works department, has been allowed to deteriorate and has not been modernized. This same situation has occurred in each and every other department of the city. They have had to take a back seat.

"However, it is a fact that those departments of the city administration which vitally affect the public health and safety of every man, woman and child in the City of Newhave found ways in which to operate economically while continuing a modest program of expansion and modernization," Mayor Basbas declared.

"I have honored by commitment to increase the school building program in the Capital Improvement Program, and I have gone to great lengths in financial commitments to meet this increase. Last year the total five-year capital improvement program amounted to $17 million. This year the total five-year Capital Improvement Program amounts to $30 million. I have increased the amount committed for buildings from $2 million per year to $4 million per year, over 80 per cent of this commitment being for school buildings," the Mayor stated.

"As you deliberate over your 1967 school operating budget, I would sincerely urge and plead with you to give serious consideration to the financial picture in the City of Newton so far as cost to the taxpayer is concerned. I would ask you to review the history of the School Department operating budget for the past 10 years as well as the history of the building program for schools," Mayor Basbas said in his letter.

Mayor Basbas, in urging the School Board members to prune their operating budget, readily admitted that neither he nor the Board of Aldermen has the legal power or right to reduce the budget adopted by the School Committee.

But he pointed to some of the financial problems confronting him and to the proposed school building program.

"I urge you to review especially the school building program in 1966 as well as the very heavy commitment as shown in the Capital Improvement Program for the period from 1966 through 1971, "the Mayor told the School Committee.

"Committed as I am to the educational system of the City of Newton and its continued excellence, I have accepted this program, and I am urging the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton to do likewise," he said.

"However, since my commitment to these projects, many unanticipated events have occured which effect the future of the financial picture of the City. For example, county assessments this year are 34 per cent over those of last year. The estimated county assessment for 1966 as reflected in the Cherry Sheet and used in the determination of the tax rate for the year was $255,575 less than the actual county assessments bill which arrived in August.

"This means and reflects an increase of 80 cents on next year's tax rate on county assessments alone. This is an item that the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton cannot control or avoid," Basbas continued.

"Furthermore, we have been advised informally that the figures used by the City in determining and establishing its tax rate so far as receipts from the sales and other taxes are concerned will be $244,000 less than was estimated. This will again reflect approximately 80c increase in next year's tax rate," the Mayor declared.

"With the school department increase in its operating budget for 1966 in the sum of $1,168,000 more than its operating budget for 1965, the school department has more than absorbed whatever sales tax money was forthcoming. Any further increase in the School Department operating budget must in the future come from real estate taxation unless additional State funds become available above and beyond the amounts already committed from the sales tax," he said.

Mayor Basbas observed in his letter that the school department indicated to him and to the taxpayers that a school budget increase of $1 million per year can be expected in each of the next four years.

He quoted an article in the June issue of "Patterns," the school publication, which said: "We can anticipate an annual increase in the budget over the next four years of approximately $1 million."

The Mayor pointed out that an increase of $1 million in the school department's operating budget for next year will boost the city's tax rate by more than $3. It was in this connection that he stressed that many people cannot afford a "continuous rise" in the tax rate.

At the opening of his letter the Mayor commended the School Committee and School officials "for maintaining such educational excellence as to have achieved international recognition."

"Every single citizen of Newton is proud of our reputation and is vitally interested in maintaining our academic excellence, and I would like to take this opportunity to assure you again of my total commitment to support you in this endeavor," the Mayor assured the School Board.

YMCA World Service has thus started YMCA activities in more than 35 different countries.

Our Lady's Bows To Arch Rival

St. Patrick's High of Watertown outclassed Our Lady's and won by a score of 47 to 16 Sunday in a Catholic Suburban League game at Allston Park.

The game, it was said, was the second most lopsided in the series between these two elevens that was begun in 1947.

Never really in contention, Our Lady's trailed 32 to 0 until early in the fourth period, when the Lancers chalked up their first score.

John Balkus Is Named March Of Dimes Treasurer

John Balkus, of the Newton National Bank has accepted the position as treasurer for Newton's 1967 March of Dimes campaign.

A graduate of Newton High School and Bentley College of Accounting, he is a member of the Newton Kiwanis Club.

In announcing the appointment, Harry Sher, treasurer of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter, March of Dimes National Foundation, said that "One out of every 16 children born in Massachusetts will benefit from the work Mr. Balkus does, for this is the toll that birth defects take in this state every year. Mr. Balkus is joining an army of volunteers to help overcome this tragedy.

"The money that Mr. Balkus and the dedicated volunteers of Newton raise will go toward defraying the cost of maintaining two birth defect centers in Boston, hundreds of scientific grants throughout the country and the cost of aiding thousands of victims that turn to the March of Dimes for help.

"Let us hope that through the efforts of Mr. Balkus and the Newton volunteers we can see this program carried on until we can find the answer to the causes of birth defects," Mr. Sher concluded.

Newton Agency Executives For Better Service

Guest speaker at the November meeting of the Newton Agency Executives Group, held last week at the Rebecca Pomroy House, was Joseph Martorana, program development director of Newton Community Action, Inc., a new non-profit corporation founded in 1965 with the aim of strengthening, and coordinating, efforts to eliminate the paradox of poverty in the midst of plenty in the City of Newton.

The intention is to open to everyone the opportunity for education and training, the opportunity to work, and an opportunity to live in decency and dignity.

The Newton Action Group has received an initial grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity to engage in a short - term research and planning project to better identify the problems of poverty in Newton and to make plans to help alleviate these problems.

The Agency Executive's Group consists of executive's or heads of department of the public and private health, welfare, recreation, and education agencies in Newton. The purpose of the group is to provide mutual understanding and better coordination of the executive's efforts to the end that they may serve the people of Newton effectively as a team.

Executive Committee members are Anthony J. Bibbo, chairman; the Rev. Robert Carolan, vice chairman; Miss Laura Jean Rood, secretary; George Vattendorf, treasurer; John Penney, member-at-large, and Samuel Crocetti, Community Council representative.

Mrs. Fitch is past president of the Newton Educational Secretaries Association. Diet Workshop Can Take More Weight Losers

There are still openings in the Weight Watchers Diet Workshop being conducted at Temple Beth Elohim, Wellesley, sponsored by the Sisterhood.

Would you believe you could eat heartily and lose weight? Members of the Diet Workshop do, and what is more, they keep weight off once it has been lost.

"No miracles performed," states Mrs. Donna Roazen, Diet Workshop graduate. "Just a nutritious balanced diet and the stimulus of group meetings do the trick."

Mrs. Roazen is leading the group every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Recipes, exercises and discussion of special problems such as entertaining, attending parties, eating out and how to satisfy nibblers, are part of the program.

The group is open to the community, men, women and teenagers. New members are welcome any time. Free lifetime membership is awarded to all successful graduates.

Atty. Swartz Will Investigate Conflict Of Interest Questions

Attorney General Edward W. Brooke announces that Atty. Martin Swartz has been sworn in as a Special Assistant Attorney General to conduct a thorough and complete investigation of the conflict of interest questions that arose in connection with the Attorney General's race during the closing weeks of the campaign.

Swartz, a partner in the Boston law firm of Schneider, Reilly & Swartz, headed the Attorney General's Council on Conflicts of Interest in Government at the time the law went into effect. At that time he was a Newton resident. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Swartz, live at 5 Cappy Cir., West Newton.

He is widely recognized as an expert on the statute, having advised Attorney General Brooke on more than 300 formal opinions on the conflict statute which the Attorney General issued since January, 1963, including those opinions which pertain to the then Lieutenant Governor Bellotti.

Swartz, a former Assistant Attorney General, was chairman of Brooke's Legislative Committee in 1965, which drafted various bills through which the Attorney General succeeded in strengthening law enforcement officials' hand in combatting crime and corruption.

He is the lawyer most widely recognized as the outstanding authority on the conflict of interest statute, and he is a familiar face on the public speaking circuit throughout the Commonwleath, having spoken to scores of school, church, legal and civil groups in the last few years, with emphasis on corruption in government.

He is a widely published legal author, having written many articles on the law published in outstanding legal periodicals.

He was formerly a lecturer at Boston University School of Law, where he took his law degree, finishing at the top of his class, and where he was editor-in-chief of the Boston University Law Reviews.

He holds an A.B. degree with honors from the University of Mass., and his advanced law degree from the University of Michigan. He is 32, married, and the father of a 17-month old son and a three-month old daughter.

Newton Patriots Lose To Staten Island, 22-0

The Newton Patriots of the Pop Warner Conference traveled to Staten Island, N. Y., over the weekend where they took a shellacking from the Staten Island Colonial Federals, 22-0.

It was the annual Statute of Liberty Bowl game at Hy Turkin Field on Staten Island where the New York boys avenged a loss to the Newton Patriots last year.

The nearest the Patriots came to scoring was in the third quarter when Newton penetrated to the Colonials' 10-yard stripe before losing the pigskin on downs.

The Staten Island Kiwanis Club awarded two trophies for individual performances to Newton. Fullback Bill Treddin received the most valuable offensive player award and center George Gardner won the trophy for best defensive player.

Other Newton standouts included: offense — Mark Lennon, Steve Chapman, Joe Arnold and Jim Fay; defense —Bob Dalicandro, Al Elmont, Kevin McCabe and Kevin Dwyer.

Fullback Dom Pace of the Federals paced his team to victory with a pair of touchdowns, his 18th and 19th of the season. Both were of the long-distance run variety. His first was on the first play from scrimmage when he raced 50 yards around end. Later in the period, he skirted end again and raced 35 yards to paydirt. The Federals got their final score in the second period.

The bouffant ivory illusion veil was caught to a becoming wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and Celia orchids.

Mrs. Anthony Bartol of West Peabody was matron of honor. Mrs. Leonad F. Murphy of Needham, Mrs. Edward B. Nardone of Pawcatuck, Ct., and Miss Janice Crowley of Winthrop were bridesmaids.

will be an empty place at the dinner table and a note of sadness and loneliness, and mothers will brush away a tear as their thoughts go out to sons serving this Thanksgiving Day in far-away Vietnam torn by a strange war.

Of all the holidays—national, state or local—Thanksgiving stands as a unique day set aside for observance of a spirit of dependence by man on a Being far greater than himself. That's the way it will be in this community.

Back in 1621 the first Gov. Bradford issued a proclamation to the good folk of Plymouth (Colony). He announced that everybody should take a day off and try out some of the goodies of the Autumn Harvest yield.

Neither the Governor nor the Colonists knew what winter 1621-22 would bring. They knew, of course, even without an Old Farmer's Almanac, you can get some pretty severe winters down Plymouth way. (Nearly half the colony perished in the first one.)

They knew also that Heathen Redmen all about them might become a bit cantankerous with no advance notice at all — and then things could be tough all over again.

Today, we hear complaints from all over the country. The prices of food! When are they going to stop going up and up and up?

We don't think historians and researchers are even close to any real agreement on what the menu listed for the first Thanksgiving. Apparently the early scriveners were so overcome by the fact that some of the neighboring tribesmen came to dinner without their stone hatchets and bows and arrows — they forgot a detailed soup-to-nuts account.

Sure, there was turkey. Wild turkey — not some fatted bird, nicely dressed and ready for the oven. Yes, there were cranberries, little red things that had a wonderful taste if they were cooked right. Corn? Sure! Plenty of it. Corn will grow anywhere. Apples, pears, and some other fruits. Pumpkins, no doubt. Squash, too.

Sweet cider? Almost a certainty! Who'd want to throw those extra apples away? Hard cider? We doubt that the elders permitted that. A bit of elderberry wine would have been the best that could be offered to "the boys in the back room," but in those days there were no back rooms.

So everybody sat down to dinner, and while the Indians looked on stoically the rest of the diners said — "Thanks, dear Lord!"

THE COST WAS HIGH

Talk about prices!

What do you suppose those early Colonists paid for the first Thanksgiving dinner? We don't mean in the coin of the day. We mean in plain, hard work.

Through all those golden summer days they were up before the sun announced another day. And by the time it was necessary to go to bed because the tallow candles had burned low and they couldn't see what they were doing any longer, they had put in some 16 hours of relentless toil.

Even on Sundays the preacher forgot how hard those village church pews were as he pulled out all the stops in a seemingly endless dissertation on hell and damnation.

But a good spring was followed by a good summer. The good earth responded to the backbreaking but tender care. The little plants of corn flourished.

Fruit ripened in the trees in summer 1621. The spinning wheels whirled with joy under the ministration of deft feminine fingers.

"Thanks, dear Lord," they said, as they stored His bounty against the unknown winter days ahead. "Thanks, dear Lord," they said, as they sat down to that first full-course dinner served in America.

NO TVs—NO MIKES

No TV cameras, with winding, snakelike cables focused on Governor Bradford. No microphones were pushed in front of his mouth as he tried his first forkful of succulent food.

It was just a sort of homey affair — something for mother and father, the children and all the relatives, and the Indians must have been impressed by the ecumenical spirit of it all

We are told by historians that Thanksgiving went out of style a short time later, and it wasn't until Abraham Lincoln's time that America got around to making it a legal holiday.

It has been a legal holiday for more than a century now.

This nation's problems today aren't centered on Indians and a winter coming to a small piece of cleared land in the wilderness.

They're more complex. They are concerned with brave men fighting and dying on the other side of the world in a place only the geography teacher had heard of a few years back. They are concerned with beating Russia to the moon and the price of butter and eggs.

But we have a lot more for which to be thankful than did William Bradford in 1621.

And in homes across this community, the expression this Thanksgiving will be "Thanks, Dear Lord!"

Newtonville Women Will Hear Of World Yule Rites

Members of the Newtonville Woman's Club will be given an imaginary tour throughout the United States and many parts of the world to witness Christmas celebrations at their meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 6.

William Stockdale, whose articles appear in the New York Times, will explain customs of families in different parts of our country and especially those who still observe customs of foreign countries. Customs of Syria, Finland and Sweden will be discussed, as well as those of our Amish folk.

Coffee will be served at 1:30 p.m. in the Parish House of St. John's Church on Lowell Ave., with Mrs. Francis C. Argento, Mrs. Philip D. Clark and Mrs. Leonard R. Clinton as pourers. Mrs. Samuel J. Melick and Mrs. William C. Custer are hostesses for the day, assisting Mrs. Charles W. Laffin, the club president.

A chorus of club members, under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Tenney, will further carry out the Christmas theme with a medley of familiar Christmas carols. Members may bring guests to the meeting.

Thieves Break Into 2 Homes

Thieves were active in the Truman rd. section of Newton last Friday night, breaking into two homes and stealing at least $950 in furs, cash and jewelry.

Mrs. Mary Green reported a $700 mink stole and $250 in cash and jewelry were missing after she arrived home at 9:30 p.m. to discover her home had been ransacked.

While police were investigating the Green theft, they discovered the home of Israel Peraner at 99 Truman rd., had been broken into. It was not determined what, if anything, had been taken.

Florida-Bound Motorists Warned Of Repair Racket

The American Automobile Association warns motorists driving to Florida this winter that a new racket has developed in addition to the speed traps set up in the southern states.

Says Robert S. Kretschmar of 75 Berkeley street, West Newton, executive secretary of AAA's Massachusetts division, "Helpings of southern inhospitality will be served up to unsuspecting motorists driving south.

'Highway speed traps will be in operation as usual. Local justices of the peace will hold traffic court traps. Restaurant and pecan store proprietors will demonstrate their skill with the dice in tricking northern customers into gambling traps.

"And a new greedy southerner has just come on the scene — the garageman who runs a car repair trap."

According to Kretschmar, there is little truth in reports that southern speed traps have been eliminated. "AAA officials and AAA members have reported speed traps operating in Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

"In Florida an out-and-out speed trap has been operating since the first of the year in the little town of Coleman (population 921) on U.S. 301 south of Ocala," he said. "The chief of police was paid $5 for each arrest. The mayor and town clerk also got part of the take.

"It was a lively, money-grabbing business of cracking down on passing motorists, but no local residents were caught. On Nov. 12, Florida AAA officials reported the police chief had been removed from office, and they are keeping a sharp eye on the situation to see if there is any improvement.

"In South Carolina, police are zealous in enforcing the state's new fixed speed limits. Fixed limits are different from the flexible, or prima facie, limits used in Massachusetts. To exceed a fixed speed limit is a violation, no matter what the conditions and even if by only 1 mph."

Kretschmar says a new garage racket has been flourishing in the eastern part of Georgia. "Focal point of the trouble is the area around Ludowici, the town which for years has been notorious for its speed traps and clip joints," he said. "The racket involves car-tampering, phony repairs, and exorbitant charges."

The experience of a woman AAA member from Massachusetts, as reported in a letter to the Triple-A Boston Office, is unfortunately typical:

"I stopped at a gas station, on Route 301 in Ludowici, Ga. After getting gas and having checked under the hood, I was unable to start the car. The attendant told me I needed a new starter. Up to that time I had no trouble.

"I had no choice, so I had it fixed. The attendant suggested I go across the street for coffee, which I did. When I returned 15 minutes later, the car was fixed, and he was gone, leaving a young boy to give me the bill, which was $49.18. I questioned the bill, but the boy knew nothing about it and wouldn't let me use my charge card."

New Waban Boy Scout Troop To Meet Nov. 28th

Troop 210 of the Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be reactivated for all boys between the ages of 11-14 in the Waban area.

The first organizational meeting of boys, dads and leaders will be held Monday, November 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Waban Library, lower level. All boys in the area are invited.

The new troop will be an outdoor, camping, hiking and traveling unit, under the leadership of a committee of fathers and Scoutmaster Bill Jailett of Newton, a former scout in Norumbega Council and an assistant scoutmaster.

Waban is now served by Troop 209, better known as "9", and under the leadership of Scoutmaster Edward Gittines and Chairman Donald Richardson the present unit has reached effective capacity—hence the need for a new unit.

Boys coming from Cub Scout Pack 208 — Angier School, and Pack 210—Bethoven School can now be sure that Boy Scouting awaits them upon completion of their Cub Scout program.

The new troop, which will make full use of the Council's 600 acre camping reservation in Sudbury and the multi-thousand acre Hidden Valley in New Hampshire, will be sponsored by St. Philip Neri Church, Beacon Street, Waban.

Once organized, Troop 210 will draw its operating committees from fathers of boys in the unit. Committees for advancement, camping, finance and other Boy Scout needs will be completed.

For further information on Troop 210, call Frank Hurley, Newton South District Commissioner at DE 2-2195 or Ralph Sisson, District Scout Executive at CE 5-9400.

Alice R. Merrill, '69, 481 Hammond St., Chestnut Hill, and Denise E. Hootstein, 84 Judith Rd., Newton Centre, '69, attained the Dean's List at the University of Pennsylvania's College of Liberal Arts for Women. They were in the upper 15 percent in their class.

Fair Housing In Newton Is Friday Meeting Theme

Temple Beth Avodah has invited Edward L. Richmond of Newton to be its guest speaker at an informal discussion following the regular Sabbath Evening Services and Oneg Shabbat, on Friday night (Nov. 25).

Richmond, past chairman of the Newton committee for fair housing and equal rights, will speak on the topic, "Does Newton have fair housing and equal rights?"

The program is sponsored by the social action committee and by the religious services and practices committee of Temple Beth Avodah.

The adult education committee of Temple Beth Avodah will hear the Rev. Robert J. Harding of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, speak on "A Christian View of Christmas," on Thursday of next week (Dec. 1). Committee chairman Professor Morton Rubin, the committee chairman, has announced that there will be a coffee hour preceeding the meeting at 7:45 p.m.

The adult education committee is also sponsoring a new Monday night series starting on Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Temple. The topic of the series, which will run for six consecutive Monday evenings will be: "The Development and Interpretation of the Hebrew Prayer Book from Traditional to Reform."

James A. Miller To Be Oak Hill Group Speaker

Newton's planning director James A. Miller will discuss the 6-year, $30,714,119 Capital Improvement Program recently submitted to the Board of Aldermen by Mayor Basbas at a meeting of the Oak Hill Park Association Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, at 8 o'clock, in Memorial School.

The program, which was developed by the Planning Department under the guidance of Mr. Miller, can bring a tax increase of up to $17.50 by 1971, if carried to completion. Mr. Miller will discuss the various segments of the far-reaching report and will participate in a question and answer period following his talk.

At the same meeting, sponsored by the Oak Hill Park Association, a vote will be taken on an amendment to the group's by-laws, seeking to enlarge the scope of the membership.

Named Drama Consultant In Local Schools

Mrs. Richard Shader has been appointed as drama consultant by the Newton school department. Her appointment was a result of the work she has been doing as a volunteer at the Bowen School. She will now extend drama education to other elementary schools.

Mrs. Shader last year demonstrated the capabilities of 15 Bowen School fifth and sixth grade students in dramatic art, directing them after school. This year she is working during school hours at Bowen with 35 children in the fifth and sixth grades and will start a similar program at the Hyde School.

Mrs. Shader studied dance and drama at Bard College, later appeared in off Broadway shows in New York and also taught dancing to children at Bard College.

Wait For New Law, Say Vote Machine Advocates

Although Mayor Monte G. Basbas favors the use of voting machines by the city, and was an advocate of their use all during his service as city clerk, he believes the city should take no action on them until the Legislature decides whether to allow the new electronic computor type to be used in the towns, and cities of the Commonwealth.

As yet, the Senate has not approved a bill the House passed paving the way for computor vote counting. Meantime, state law forbids any electronic count.

Alan Licarie, executive secretary of the Election Commission, agrees with the Mayor that if Newton goes to machines it should await the Legislature's approval of electronic counting.

The mechanical voting machines, used at present in 38 Massachusetts cities and and towns, are too costly for consideration at this time, Licarie believes. Each costs approximately $1800, and the law says there must be one for every 400 voters. That means Newton would need at least 120 machines at a cost of nearly $216,000. That, according to Licarie, would be too much of an investment for something that possibly would be out of date within a few years.

There has been criticism of the paper ballot system used here, and it increased in the recent elections, when 17 of the 18 vote counters in Precinct 4, Ward 3, walked off the job after 11 hours of work, with the result that there was a delay before the city's count could be tabulated. The walkout was laid to fatigue.

Holiday Inn Gets Permission For Heliport

The petition of Holiday Inn and Air General Inc., for permission to establish a heliport on the Inn property in Newton Lower Falls was granted Monday night by the Board of Aldermen on a vote of 18 to 1, with five members absent.

The lone dissenter was Edward C. Uehlein. The absentees were Melvin J. Dangel, George L. Hicks, Charles F. Hovey, Andrew J. Magni and Harry L. Walen.

The proposed order granting permission for the heliport was prepared by the Aldermanic Claims and Rules committee. It contained five conditions as follows:

1—That the port should be located and constructed in accordance with details of a site plan on file with the Board.

2—That the approach and departure of helicopters shall be in strict accordance with a plan entitled "Approach—Departure Profile—Holiday Inn, Newton," submitted by the petitioner and filed with the Board.

3—That no helicraft shall operate from the heliport between the hours of 10:30 p.m. and 6 a.m.

4—No building permit shall be issued until the petitioner shall have recorded with the Southern District of Middlesex County a statutory notice of the permissive use with appropriate reference to the book and page of the petitioner's title deed endorsed thereon. And until a certified copy of such recorded deed shall have been filed with the city clerk.

5—No helicraft shall operate from the heliport until the petitioners shall file with the city clerk a statement certifying that conditions 1 to 4 have been complied with.

A sixth condition imposed by vote of the Board was in the form of an amendment to the order presented by Alderman Louis I. Edelson, Jr. It called for expiration of the order in one year from the date of its approval, after which the Board may extend the permissive use at its discretion.

Parents Ask Meeting On Single Session

A group of Newton parents who favor the single session for the city's elementary schools has requested that a meeting be held in the War Memorial Auditorium at City Hall before any decision is made by the School Committee and Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, on any polling of the citizens relative to their opinion on the single session.

The following letter, signed by George Swanlund, 60 Pontiac road, Waban; Mrs. Lewis DeSouza, 38 Barbara road, West Newton; Dr. Robert Levins, 6 Fairway drive, West Newton; and Mrs. Janette Brick, 60 Russell road, Newton, was sent to Dr. Malcolm S. Knowles, Dr. Brown and Chairman Harold Berman of the School Committee:

"Before any decision is made or any polling of the citizens of Newton is attempted concerning Single Session, we strongly feel that the complete facts compiled by the study group should be made known to all.

"We suggest that a public meeting take place in Newton City Hall (the War Memorial Auditorium is available to us) with you, Dr. Malcolm Knowles and the School Committee present on the platform. This meeting would enable the parents to see a complete picture of the situation at hand. The purpose of this meeting would be to provide an opportunity for the elementary school parents to ask questions from the floor in order to be better informed to answer the questionnaire in keeping with the alleged interest of the study group.

"We would appreciate your co-operation in notifying the parents of this meeting. Perhaps the children could take flyers home about a week before. We feel that the meeting should take place within two weeks and our representatives would also be present at this time to answer questions.

"We are interested parents of Newton who favor Single Session for our children and we represent many others.

"Please contact us by November 23."

Thanksgiv'g Eve Service Set For Lutheran Church

Thanksgiving Eve Services will be celebrated at the Lutheran Church of the Newtons on Wednesday, November 23, at 8 p.m.

A unique service of song, Scripture reading, sermonette, and quiet meditation has been planned by the Rev. Robert L. Griesse, pastor of the church.

Participating in the worship will be the Junior and Adult Choirs under the direction of Mrs. John Gemmel, organist and choirmaster of the Lutheran Church of the Newtons.

The sevice is designed around the ancient formula of the Apostle's Creed. Three parts will comprise thanksgiving for God's creative, redemptive, and renewing action in the life of His people A cycle of hymn, Scripture, and meditation will follow each part which begins with a confession of faith. The service closes with prayer.

Pastor Griesse, new to the congregation since November 1, together with his wife is getting acquainted with the members and friends of the Lutheran Church in a series of Open House programs at their home during the month of November and December. They live at 19 Fairlee Terrace, Waban.

Each evening, a small group of five to ten couples are invited to the home and each person gives a short biographical sketch of himself and his life in the church.

Pastor Griesse is the second minister to serve this church in its 20 year history. The Rev. Arthur Block, now serving a parish in Maplewood, N.J. left the church in the spring of this year.

Steven D. Cline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Cline, has recently pledged to the Chi Chapter of Zeta Psi fraternity of North America at Colby College, Me.

Marilynne Sieve, 24 Kodays Rd., Waban, has received her certificate from Academie Moderne, Boston. Among those who were awarded diplomas were Rita Bowser, 213 Lincoln St., Newton Highlands, and Jan Beckwith, 26 Country Club Rd., Newton Centre. Following the graduation ceremonies, all took part in a fashion show.

Letters To Editor

Against Spot Zoning

Editor of The Graphic:

We abutters read with great interest the article in your Nov. 17 issue relative to Krist E. Apog's study of the opposition to his request for permission to construct garden type apartment buildings in Newton Upper Falls.

The petition filed by citizens opposed to the proposed rezoning of his property on Route 9 in Newton Upper Fall contained names representing 21 households on Cragmore road, Bacon place, and Boylston street, which directly abut the site.

Of the 22 abutters, only one household did not sign it. Four households who had signed our petition originally withdrew their opposition following a subsequent visit by Mr. Apog and/or his agents.

Those remaining in opposition represent 78 per cent of the abutting households.

Along with many other Upper Falls "villagers" concerned about the implications of Mr. Apog's proposal, the League of Women Voters also entered a letter of opposition from the floor of the meeting of the Claims and Rules Committee of the Newton Board of Alderman on the evening of Oct. 10.

The opposing abutters are aware of the long history of appeals for rezoning and zoning variances on this property. The Parish of St. Paul's Church in Newton Highlands made several similar efforts previous to their conveyance of the property to Mr. Apog. According to the Suffolk South District deed records, the parish took back a mortgage "securing a note in the amount of $20,000 from the purchaser (Mr. Apog) with interest at 6 per cent per annum payable quarterly in arrears." (See Book 10695 pp 428 through 435).

The opposing abutters have reason to believe that the Parish of St. Paul and the present owner, Mr. Apog were fully aware of the legal and physical limitations of the property when they took title to the land.

They also are aware that over the years, the proposals offered to support these successive owner's appeals for zone change were incompatible with the neighborhood's environment, the city's community facilities and Master Plan; and they are aware that the most suitable and economically feasible development for the site is what it is zoned for.

They also feel that the activity for zone change on Mr. Apog's property are affecting several nearby lots recently approved as a Residence B subdivision; a real and dependable tax revenue for the city, if developed.

The opposing abutters, neighbors and Newtonites are merely opposing a typical case of spot zoning. They have reason and evidence to believe that "the bowling alleys, gasoline station, and other such use" which Mr. Apog and his representatives themselves cite, are far too often the consequences of spot zoning. By their opposition they are merely asking their elected representatives and their city to abide by the zoning law which traditionally guarantees protection of their properties against encroachments of abutting land uses which demean the character of their private residential land and its value. That's all.

Florence Grippe,
1190 Boylston street.

Editor of The Graphic:

At this Thanksgiving time of the year everyone associated with Morgan Memorial wants to warmly, and as meaningful as mere words will permit, sincerely THANK YOU for all the publicity you have given Morgan Memorial and its other social services during the year. We often remind ourselves that it is only because of your help that we have been able to render more help to the needy and give more handicapped people jobs, job-training and wages than ever before in our history of service.

For its generous support to the Goodwill self-help programs of Morgan Memorial, we want you to know we are deeply grateful to the Transcript Press, Inc.

We want you to know that your interest and generous use of our releases helped us to send a greater number of underprivileged children to our Fresh Air Camps last summer. You helped us to care for more youngsters, under the age of six, of ill or working parents, in our Goodwill Day Nursery and during the year more youngsters were helped six years or older, through supervised study and recreation in our Youth and Community Center. Our Charles Hayden Goodwill Inn and School consisting of boys, 14 years or older from broken homes, were given lodging, food, clothing, supervision and education. Our successes here also reflected the quality of your public service.

Once again we express our HEARTFELT THANKS for the wonderful support so generously given throughout the years by you and your associates at the Transcript Press, Inc.

Sincerely,
HOWARD A. PATTERSON
Public Relations Director

Explains Chi-Rho

Editor of The Graphic:

For any of you who do not know what Chi-Rho is, I will explain it in the words of Helen Curtin our vice-president. "The purpose of a Chi-Rho Club is to bring together young men and women to participate in a program composed of spiritual, social, and cultural activities.

Our symbol, the Chi-Rho, is derived from the Greek word meaning Christ. Chi-Rho is Christ working through us to bring happiness to ourselves and those around is."

Now that you know what Chi-Rho is let me tell you what Chi-Rho does. In the spiritual realm the main theme is "How a group of young Catholic men and women 18 to 26 years of age can practice their religion and enjoy life at the same time." This is accomplished by our spiritual activities such as Mass and Communion as a group or individually taking part in the Search program, which cannot be explained but must be experienced.

Our cultural activities may consist of discussion or lectures which add a bit of life to the group in the form of a friendly argument or debate some Sunday afternoon.

Now I know that you are wondering what we have for a social calendar. Our calendar starts in September so we will forget about last summer's beach parties, pool parties, cookouts and dances. You also missed the events of September and October ,a Dude Ranch weekend, a hay ride, and a square dance.

The upcoming events consist of the Archdiocesian Cotillion at the Hotel Vendome on Nov. 23, caroling in nursing homes during the holidays and, of course, our own Christmas party.

This is what Chi-Rho is to me and I think to all of our members. I hope to be writing more about Chi-Rho at a later date but until then keep Chi-Rho in mind.

Newton South Windup Show 5-3 Record

By NORMAN KAPLAN

The Newton South football team has put away its cleats after a proud year. The Lions nipped Cambridge Latin 6-0 Saturday morning to end the season with an overall 5-3 record.

With only four returning starters back from last year's squad, headcoach George Winkler and coaches Aredis Kojoyan and Joseph Nathonson mixed an eager determined band of sophomores and juniors with the few experienced veterans in fine fashion to produce a surprisingly good record.

Most onlookers foresaw this to be only a rebuilding year due to the fact that 18 lettermen graduated in 1965. However, coach Winkler and his staff not only gave the sophomores and juniors the playing experience they needed, but also managed to compile impressive results.

Four sophomores played first string varsity ball this year, Tom Rezzuti, Dan Mendelson, Steve Umina, and Frank Vespa. These four boys plugged the remaining holes in the offense and defense created by the mass exodus of seniors from last year's team. Certainly a big part of the Lions' success can be attributed to the "veteran" performances of these sophomores.

Coach Winkler plans to have Tommy Rezzuti quarterback the team next year, and also see service as a cornerback or safety. As a cornerback, Tommy played brilliantly this year, intercepting eight enemy aerials.

A 46 yard touchdown gallup by Tom Rezzuti and an unyielding South defense were the only ingredients needed to give the Lions a 6-0 victory over Cambridge Latin.

After Rezzuti's first quarter tally, the game progressed into a defensive duel. Both defenses proved equally effective, forcing a punting contest between the two teams.

Latin only managed one serious scoring threat all afternoon, coming in the third quarter. They penetrated the Lions' five yard line while gaining a first down. However, the Latin boys were repelled four successive times by a fierce South goalline stand.

The temperature at Russel Field in Cambridge was in the 30's for the morning game, with an icy wind frequently gusting. The cold weather may have paralyzed the offenses of both teams, but not the cheerleaders. The short skirted lasses from Newton South, co-captained by Leslie Richmond and Carol Steinsieck, endured the frosty weather to cheer on the Lions through the entire game.

Many of the football players will now be playing the winter sports, basketball, wrestling, or hockey. The wrestling team grabs the most number of gridiron men, eight. They are seniors David Sellinger, Ken Giles, Ed McCarthy; junior Marty Leventhal, Ned MacDonald, Lou DiFazio, Russell Brooks, and sophomore Dan Mendelson. Hockey takes three, football captain Frank Rezzuti, his brother Tommy, and Jack Dunnigan. The lone member of the basketball team is senior halfback Steve Cooper.

Poetry Reading For Kiddies Is Planned By PTA

The Bowen School P.T.A. continues this year's creative arts features for the school's children with a reading of children's poetry by collector Richard Lewis on Friday (Dec. 2) and a live animal program with Carlo Mosca of the Boston Science Museum on Dec. 5.

Lewis teaches at the Walden and the New Schools in New York and is the editor of "Miracles", a collection of verse written by children throughout the English-speaking world.

The Science Museum presentation, entitled "Animals—Facts and Fancy" is designed to acquaint the children with true nature lore and an appreciation of animal life.

First Nationwide Day Of Thanks Set In 1864

Did you know that Thanksgiving didn't become a nationwide observance until 1864? It's a fact! And this is just one of the many surprising facts about our traditional American holiday.

The first Thanksgiving was held in December of 1621, when Governor William Bradford of the Plymouth Colony appointed a day of celebration and sent four men out to shoot wild turkeys and other fowl.

The Pilgrims had come ashore from the Mayflower on Dec. 21, 1620. The winter that followed had been heartbreaking: half of the entire band had perished of disease, hunger and exposure. But the following March, two Algonquin speaking Indians, Samoset from the Pemaquid tribe and Squanto from the Wampanoag tribe, befriended the remaining group, gave them Indian corn seed—telling them to plant "when the oak leaves are as big as mouse-ears," and to catch fish to fertilize the soil. Thus the seeds were sown for the first Thanksgiving harvest.

It was a warm and bright summer, and the crops grew and thrived. When autumn arrived, the three log warehouses were filled with provisions — the harvest of 20 acres of corn, and 6 acres of wheat, rye, barley and peas.

Governor Bradford thought it fitting to celebrate and give thanks for their good fortune and a formal invitation was issued to Massasoit, grand sachem of the Pokanoket Indians, to join them in a feast of Thanksgiving. Massasoit arrived with 90 of his followers and stayed for three days of feasting!

Thanksgiving days following harvests later came to be celebrated throughout the New England Colonies but on different and varying days. George Washington proclaimed November 26, 1789, as the first national Thanksgiving Day in honor of the new constitution; but the custom continued to vary widely among the states—kept alive only by the proclamations of local governors.

It was a woman, Sarah Josepha Hale, however, who first suggested that Thanksgiving should be a national patriotic holiday. She was the editor of the popular woman's magazine called "Godey's Lady's Book," and for almost 20 years she campaigned through editorials and letters to the President, state governors and other influential persons.

Finally, Sarah Hale was able to win the support of President Abraham Lincoln. In the third year of the Civil War, he believed that the Union had been saved; he therefore proclaimed a national day of thanksgiving to be celebrated on Thursday, November 26—naming the last Thursday in November as the day to be observed each year.

Today the occasion is still a time for giving thanks with reverent prayers, flower decorations and a turkey feast.

But while it is wild and domestic turkey that is traditional in the United States for Thanksgiving, in Japan a similar holiday of thanks is celebrated each year on November 23rd with visits to shrines and candy and pots of hot ceremonial tea.

The colorfully-clad natives on the island of Sardinia, on the other hand, meet at the end of the harvest season in August to offer their thanks in the Festival of the Savior. At sundown a solemn procession of people proceed to Church for prayer and to give thanks. Within a few days after the festival, the hunting season starts!

In Bavaria at the thanksgiving festivals, which take place each year at the end of the harvest season, natives dress in traditional attire and perform folk dances which go back to the 13th and 14th centuries.

It doesn't matter if you choose to celebrate Thanksgiving in the typical American fashion, or with colorful folk dances, or with hot ceremonial tea—just as long as the spirit remains, making the holiday one of the year's most eagerly awaited and universally enjoyed.

Hedge Deemed Traffic Hazard; Result—Trim It

A six-foot hedge was the chief topic of discussion at the Newton Board of Aldermen meeting Monday night with the final result being—trim it!

Police Chief Philip Purcell had charged the hedge on the property of Atillio J. Spera at 364 Auburndale ave., at the corner of Lexington st., constituted a "traffic hazard."

Seven area residents were in favor of the trimming while three were opposed.

Spera said his hedge was neat and that it gave him the privacy he desired. "However," the amiable owner said, "I am agreeable to cutting it down if that is what they want."

Capt. Donahue, of the traffic division, told the Board that several accidents had occurred at the corner in the past five years. Others who testified in favor of a trimming pointed out that motorists emerging from Auburndale ave. had to move out into traffic lanes on Lexington st. before they could determine whether cars were coming.

Speaking in opposition to the trim, two residents claimed that excessive speed on Lexington st. was the major cause of accidents at that point.

Spera also told the Board that too much speed was responsible for the accidents. He also told the group that the Waltham Field Station had advised him that trimming the hedge at this time of year would cause it to bleed, and probably kill it.

Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., whose left arm was in a sling due to an auto accident, insisted "it's better to have the hedge bleed than to have human blood flow."

GOP Club To Hold Meeting November 30

A post-election meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newton Republican Club has been called for Wednesday night, Nov. 30. The group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lincoln on Hammond street.

Several important matters are sure to come up for discussion, among them the election of new officers and committee members to carry on the club's program, and consideration of plans for the 1967 Lincoln Day Dinner. The Club has sponsored the event since 1960.

The Club's activities have contributed significantly to the GOP cause and plans are now being made to make it an increasingly helpful adjunct of the party.

10 Local Youths B'tley Freshm'n

This year's freshmen include David I. Castle of 43 Crosby road, Michael F. Downey of 1441 Centre street, Roger J. Foley of 2077 Commonwealth avenue, and Philip D. Gorgone of 200 River street.

Also studying at Bentley are Robert J. Goulston of 901 Dedham drive, Peter Kaufman of 115 Beethoven avenue, Brian A. Linthwaite of 249 Crafts street, Stephen S. Mandile, Jr., of 48 Lantern lane, Thomas E. O'Toole of 37 Underwood avenue, and Warren J. Muise of 17 Crescent square.

Soccer Game Ends In Draw

Newton Soccer Club and Waltham's Sacred Heart Azzuri booters played a 2 to 2 double overtime draw last Sunday on Newton's Hawthorn Field.

The game will be replayed on Hawthorn on Sunday, Dec. 4.

After a Waltham foul at the 20-minute mark in the first half, Ed Fasani scored on a 30-yard direct kick for Newton. Then, before the half was over, Waltham tied it up again, and that's the way it stood to the end.

By 1975, motor vehicles in the United States are expected to consume about 93 billion gallons of fuel per year, the Automobile Legal Association notes.

Aldermen Pass A Resolution On JFK Memorial

The following resolution relating to a Newton memorial for the late President John F. Kennedy was offered Monday night by Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell and approved by unanimous vote of the Board of Aldermen:

WHEREAS: On Friday, Nov. 22, 1963, our nation and world were saddened by the tragic assination of our youthful, energetic, eloquent, and beloved President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, and

WHEREAS: In the short period of less than three years, John Fitzgerald Kennedy left an indelible mark upon the nation, the world and in the hearts of men, and

WHEREAS: John Fitzgerald Kennedy, recognized as a world-wide influence toward the pursuit of excellence in government, was a native and favorite son of our Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it is fitting and proper that the City of Newton consider a proper memorial to our late President,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That this Honorable Board of Aldermen recommend to his Honor the Mayor that he appoint a committee of Newton citizens to study the possibility of a proper memorial in the City of Newton for our late and beloved President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

They will be greeted by Charles W. Dudley, President of the college, Dr. Charles D. Merrill, dean of the college, and members of the faculty. To Discuss Aid In Italy For Flood Victims

During his visit, the former State Public Works Commissioner will visit Florence and continue on to Rome for additional meetings with top officials.

Ricciardi, who is president of the Italian-American Charitable Society, said that the purpose of his visit is to establish feasible approaches in solving some of the immediate and long-range plans for the restoration of that cultural city and its inhabitants.

Ricciardi is making the trip to Italy prior to business commitments already scheduled in North Africa.

Checks addressed to the Italian Flood Relief, Inc., are being accepted from private friends of the Italian-American Charitable Society at 230 Boylston St., Boston, to aid those flood victims.

Donald Todrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Todrin, 3 Cannon St., Newton Highlands, a sophomore, has been elected treasurer of the University of Massachusetts Scuba Club.

Local "Indians" Thanksgiving

The Malcolm Marshals and their children of 21 Waterston Rd., Newton, will be doing something a little unusual this Thanksgiving.

Andy Marshall, who has an English background, feels that life is too quiet when one sits around a table and eats too much, so she has proposed that the whole family canoe across Massachusetts Bay and land at the famed Plimouth Plantation "to join their Pilgrim brethren in celebration of that first Thanksgiving in true brotherly spirit" all dressed in authentic Indian costume.

"The Indians arrived that way, so why shouldn't we?" she asks, and adds, "That's how it all began."

Hospital Head To Be Honored On Retirement

The Board of Directors of Jewish Memorial Hospital will honor David L. Rosenberg of Newton, retiring president of the hospital, at dinner on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at Sidney Hill Country Club in Chestnut Hill. Reception will begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner to follow at 7:30.

Rosenberg will be presented with his portrait in oils by the well-known painter Jacob Binder. Murray Fertel, hospital executive director, will present Rosenberg with a plaque proclaiming him an honorary president for life, as voted by the board of directors, and with a citation for his dedicated service to the hospital for the past five years.

Art Rubin's Orchestra, led by Art Rubin in person, will provide music for dinner dancing.

Newton Jr. Has Its Second Loss

Jim McLaughlin scored 22 points and Mike Marion accounted for 18, but despite them, the Burdett basketballers emerged on the upper end of a 91 to 65 score.

"Odd Jobs Day" Set For Nov. 27

The Newton B'nai B'rith Youth Organization, AZA, will conduct an "Odd Jobs Day" as part of a fund-raising effort next Sunday, Nov. 27. Boys and girls from the Garden City and the surrounding communities of Waltham, Brookline and Needham will be available on that day to perform any and all "odd jobs" available, from washing and polishing automobiles to changing babies' diapers.

Mainly for Mothers
by Carol Hart

Expectant Mother Should See Physician

The greatest miracle on earth is so commonplace that women, who have a monopoly on it, take it for granted.

That is the miracle of birth.

Far from taking it for granted, says the Council on Family Health, every day of a pregnancy is so vital to both mother and baby that a prospective mother should seek medical advice from the first day she believes she is pregnant.

In fact, the miracle of each birth is unique, and the more often a woman becomes pregnant, the more important it is for her to have medical attention.

During her pregnancy a woman undergoes remarkable biological and chemical changes. During a period of approximately 280 days, all parts of the baby's body are formed. Thousands of square inches of skin and bone, 600 muscles, thousands of miles of blood vessels and nerves and billions of cells are manufactured.

Obviously, this is too important an event to allow it to be ruled by superstition and ritual. Each expectant mother should follow the doctor's advice on the proper diet. Most doctors like to limit weight gains to about 20 pounds. Excess weight is to be guarded against because it puts a burden on the heart and kidneys, which are already strained.

A well balanced and nutritious maternity diet should include meats, green vegetables, fresh fruits and at least a quart of milk a day. If there is a dietary deficiency, or in individual cases a special need, the doctor may add a vitamin to the diet to aid the growth of the unborn child.

The prospective mother can also cooperate by getting adequate sleep and rest, maintaining a cheerful outlook, and keeping busy and active within reason, according to the Council. On the average, a pregnant woman is permitted to do the things she customarily did before pregnancy. As a matter of common sense, it is best not to wear elastic garters or rolled stockings, which may encourage the formation of varicose veins, or to wear high heels which may cause tripping.

Adult Girl Scouts Attend Neighborhood Meeting

Adult Girl Scouts attended the second Westdale neighborhood meeting recently at the First Unitarian Society parish hall in West Newton. All adult Girl Scouts in Newton had been invited. Those present felt that the meeting was a most rewarding experience.

Boy Scouts May Buy Fire Station

Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America, is interested in buying the abandoned fire station across Beacon St. from Newton-Wellesley Hospital in Waban, according to Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

The city has set $10,000 as the price of the building.

Beth Israel Nurses Alumnae Ass'n Observes Its 44th Anniversary

MRS. MARTIN BEREZIN

Beth Israel Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association and its North Shore Chapter celebrated its 44th anniversary, in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the hospital, last Saturday, November 19, in Kirstein Hall of the hospital.

Co-chairman of the observance was Mrs. Martin Berezin, 20 Oak Vale road, Waban, former president of the Nurses' Alumnae Association, and wife of Dr. Berezin.

Other highlights, arranged by co-chairmen Mrs. Norman Berezin of Newton and Mrs. Jacob Gordon of Brookline, included greetings to the alumnae from Mrs. Eliza Brillard, Nurses' Alumnae Association president; Samuel Slosberg, hospital president; and Miss Dora Zolotin, directress of Nursing services.

The affair was attended by members from Maine to California.

Through the years the Alumnae's objectives have been to work for the advancement of the interests of the Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing; for the mutual help and improvement in professional work and educational advancement of nursing; and cooperation with the Mass. State Nurses' Association, American Nurses' Association, and District No. 5 of the Mass. States Nurses' Association.

Major achievements of the Alumnae include the inauguration of the eight-hour day; the Alumnae Bed for sick nurses; the Scholarship Fund for both student and post-graduate degree; Alumnae Newspaper, Loan Fund, Remembrance Fund, Student Fund and, in 1963, the establishment of the Nursing Education Endowment Fund. In honor of the Hospital's 50th Anniversary, a gift of $2500 has been given to the Golden Anniversary Development Fund.

Alumnae members are making important contributions to their communities by working as educators, administrators and greatly needed floor nurses.

Library Showing Yule Items That Are Inexpensive

Christmas Crafts fashioned from inexpensive or throwaway items are being featured at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., this week for those who like to work with their hands.

Mrs. Bond, who in recent years has given numerous craft workshops in Newton, demonstrates that a simple gilded maple leaf or a pine cone can be successfully used on top of a gift box or under the Christmas tree. Pine cones, which will make an open fire gleam with various colors, are included in the exhibit.

The library staff offers a collection of craft books for readers who want to add a creative bit of themselves to their Christmas. The display will remain on view until Dec. 7.

The Automoblie Legal Association (ALA) was founded in Boston in 1907.
